tion and the science of teaching. To the uninitiated "traditional interpretation" is not exactly specific, so Miss Culbreath explains it in this manner: "Of course, musicianship must be judged by the standards of the old time for American students who de-world and according to those stand-ards simply playing the great com-positions of the old masters even in a beautiful way is not sufficient; one needs to coach with those to whom have been handed down the peculiar personal training which clings to the inspired works of the masters. This is the thing that makes it impera-thought, and big in culture and of this 'bigness' his pupils reap the benefit. I feel that my study under him was of great profit to me.

"I took three weeks for travel and in that time visited Rome, Paris and London. I was especially interested in the music of the Catholic churches, as I am director of the music in Madeline church here. The masses, though simple, were beautiful and were faultlessly done. Along with many other pilgrims I had the honor and pleasure of an audience with the pope. It was soon after his illness and he looked very delicate as he solemnly gave us his blessing.

"The music in the cathedrals of London was beautiful. I found the choirs are gradually but surely getting back to the plainer music, the Gregorian music.

"My stay in London happened to be at the end of the Covent Garden season and I was fortunate enough to see 'Les Huguenots' with an almost all-star cast, including Tetrazzini and a few others almost as great.

"In Berlin the new operas I saw included Strauss's 'Rosen Cavalier,' a rarely beautiful thing, and Humperdinck's children opera, 'Koenigs-Kinder,' which carries a delightful theme throughout, as all of the Humperdinck operas do."

Taxpayers' League and Pomona Granges Oppose the "Flat-Salary Bill"

The Taxpayers' League of Portland, composed of well-known and responsible citizens, after "carefully studying the measures offered to voters," learns that the "alleged flat-salary law" is the outgrowth of the attempt of a faction of the Salem Printers' Union to force the State Printer of Oregon to "sign up" and give them control of the state's printing for their organization's benefit. The League, in its advertisements, advising voters as to its conclusions, recommends the rejection of the alleged flat salary bill in this language:

"STATE PRINTING BOARD
" 328—Yes.
" 329—No.

"This bill is about as flagrant a misuse of the initiative as can be conceived. The interests of the state are entirely ignored in an attempt to help out the industrial struggle. It is extravagant and unwise."

"Voters Are Advised to Vote No."

The League's recommendations are made over the signatures of R. L. Gilsan, President, 612 Spaulding Building, and L. J. Goldsmith, Secretary, 321 Corbett Building, Portland, Oregon.

The alleged flat-salary law is also condemned by Salem Grange No. 17, after full investigation.

Marion County Pomona Grange indorses the action of the local Grange in withdrawing support from the measure.

Linn County Pomona Grange also advises members and citizens to defeat the printing bill.

Multnomah County Granges, local and Pomona, unite in recommending defeat of said "so-called flat salary law," and recommend the present State Printer for materially decreasing the printing cost of Oregon.

The big printing houses of Portland (24 of them) unite in recommending defeat of the so-called flat salary law, because "it has not a single meritorious feature."

The consolidated German-speaking societies of Oregon also have gone on record against the bill.

In all flat-salary states printing costs two to four times as much as in Oregon. That's why a little clique at Salem prepared the bill and supported it. The scheme means great waste and extravagance.

The leading newspapers of the state condemn the scheme.

To beat this dishonest "closed-shop bill," which masquerades under a flat salary banner, vote "329 X No."

Then I shall continue to give Oregon the cheapest public printing in the United States.
