Going to the Bazaar? German supper will be served this evening in connection with the bazaar now being conducted by the Altar society of the Catholic church in St. Joseph's hall. A most excellent place for a good meal and an evening of fun.

State Christian Endeavor rally, Thursday, Dec. 5, 1912, at the First Christian church, 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. A good program has been provided. Mr. H. H. Rottman, new field secretary, and Mr. G. Everett Baker, state president, will be among the speakers. Everybody come and have a good time with the young people.

The state militia quelled a riot last evening, when they dispersed the crowd clamoring for tickets at the big minstrel show at the Grand Friday, December 6. The sale does not begin at the opera house until Thursday.

About 18 members of the Salem German Singing society will entertain the visitors at the bazaar which is being held at St. Joseph's hall tonight. These hardy German songsters will congregate in the hall about 8 o'clock this evening, and there promises to be some of the finest entertainment ever furnished at St. Joseph's hall, when they carry out their program.

The Oregon Electric company is doing some extensive work a short distance south of this city in the way of filling in and covering its railroad ties with gravel. The company is covering everything along its road, with the exception of the rails, of course, with gravel. This work is being done to prevent the ties from being exposed and also to protect the rails from heat thus preventing expansion.

Joe Bach, one of Salem's young business men who was operated upon recently and who was confined to his bed for the past week, is doing nicely now and that his ultimate recovery is to be soon, is assured by his physician, Dr. Harry Clay. Although Mr. Bach's operation was severe and very painful, his strong constitution and nerve played the principal part in pulling him through in good shape.

President's Message

have passed through various formative periods. We have been self-centered in the struggle to develop our domestic resources and deal with our domestic questions. The nation is now too mature to continue in its foreign relations those temporary expedients natural to a people to whom domestic affairs are the sole concern. In the past our diplomacy has often consisted, in normal times, in a mere assertion of the right to international existence. We are now in a larger relation with broader rights of our own and obligations to others than ourselves. A number of great guiding principles were laid down early in the history of this government. The recent task of our diplomacy has been to adjust those principles to the conditions of today, to develop their corollaries, to find practical applications of the old principles expanded to meet new situations. Thus are being evolved bases upon which can rest the superstructure of policies which must grow with the destined progress of this nation. The successful conduct of our foreign relations demands a broad and modern view. We cannot meet new questions nor build for the future if we confine ourselves to outworn dogmas of the past and to the perspective appropriate at our emergence from colonial times and conditions. The opening of the Panama canal will mark a new era in our international life and create new and world-wide conditions which, with their vast correlations and consequences, will obtain for hundreds of years to come. We must not await events to overtake us unawares. With continuity of purpose we must deal with the problems of our external relations by a diplomacy modern, resourceful, magnanimous and fittingly expressive of the high ideals of a great nation.

FIRST TIME IN PHOTO PLAY
America's Greatest Emotional Actress
BLANCH WALSH
as "WASLOOA" in Leo Tolstoy's Immortal Drama "RESURRECTION" in four parts

"Resurrection" is the realistic portrayal of the life of a Russian peasant girl, who more stoned against than sinning, has been forced to lead a life of shame, but later experiencing a spiritual resurrection becomes the magic touchstone whereby her betrayer, a sensual pleasure-seeking profligate, undergoes a moral regeneration.

No attempt is made here to describe the wonderful story of Tolstoy, which forms the basis of the film. The following lines are intended to serve the purpose of a guide only. The story bristles with action, with scenes that transport the reader from the aristocratic mansions of Moscow to the humblest hovels among the peasants, from the sumptuously furnished cafe chantant, where all is gaiety, to the interior of a Russian prison where all is suffering; from a trial of court involving judges, jurors, witnesses and clerks to an enforced march across Siberian plains, participated in by convicts and political prisoners with clanking chains. All these are bound together with masterly skill in one of the world's most heart-rending tragedies.

Also a most laughable comedy, and a refined musical act. Two days only, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 10 and 11.
