We have just listed 45 acres of the very best bottom land, that is first-class for raising onions, celery, potatoes, clover, alfalfa or any kind of garden truck. Has a nice six-roomed house and a nice new barn, and other outbuildings. Has a nice young orchard, grapes and a general variety of berries. There is a nice stream of clear pure water running through the place, but the land never overflows. Ten acres of this land will support a family. Are now digging potatoes, 300 bushels of potatoes per acre. The price is $150 per acre, and will take from $2000 to $3000 worth of unincumbered city property as first payment, and give 10 years' time on the balance, at 6 per cent interest. If it is too large for you, get your neighbor to take a part of it. It will suit you look into it before the other fellow gets ahead of you. Say, when your wife tells you that you had better look into this matter, don't come up in a week or ten days, and think that you will get the place. I tell you, this is a mighty fine tract of land, and is going to sell to the first man who looks at it.
