Circus on the Stage at Grand

POLLY, THE GRACEFUL AND DASHING RIDER, WILL BE THERE—ONE OF THE STRONGEST AND MOST REALISTIC OF ALL MODERN PLAYS.

Graduating from the circus to the "legitimate stage" is not so miraculous as it would seem to persons not acquainted with the history of the famous St. Leon family. Ida St. Leon, now a recognized American star, is being followed in the path to fame by her little sister, Elsie St. Leon, and the indications are that the younger will soon shine as brightly as her sister.

It is a hard training which circus performers receive, but it is a thorough one. Most of the impressions which the entertainers seek to convey is made by action and pantomime. The average circus performer has even a greater task in "putting it over" than does a player in a comedy or drama. The sympathy of the big crowd under the canvass must be won, as it is necessary to get a theatre audience "with" the actor.

The St. Leons have been circus performers for many generations. Elsie's grandfather was famous 40 years ago as a daring bareback rider. With the present generation it has become a case of not loving the circus less, but the stage more.

The St. Leons were originally engaged to furnish the realism for "Polly of the Circus." However, it was not long before the management learned that at least two of the girls, Ida and Elsie, were possessed of genuine dramatic talent.

Ida was first given a chance, and her triumph is now a matter of history in the chronicles of the American stage.

Little Elsie is just winning her spurs, but the critics in every city where she has appeared say she is a coming star, and that some day her name will flash out from Broadway in electric lights.

Frederick Thompson believes "Polly of the Circus" is another "Way Down East," and that it is easily good for 10 years more. So he has provided a splendid organization for its production this year, with massive scenery, an array of circus performers in addition to the big cast of actors and four beautiful horses.

One would think that a big saving would be gained by eliminating the horses. So it would, but Mr. Thompson never does things by halves, and when he presents the circus scene he wants it to be a genuine reproduction and not a painted replica.

But the big feature of the drama is the superb acting of Elsie St. Leon in the role of "Polly."

Don't fail to see it at the Grand tonight.

Preparing to Issue the Bonds Recently Voted

The levy of a sufficient tax upon all property in the city to meet the first installment of principal and interest of the $30,000 bond issue voted in the recent city election was embodied in a resolution preparatory to the issue which was passed at the session of the city council Monday night by unanimous vote.

The resolution was prepared by City Attorney R. K. Page and Councilman H. D. White. It directs the city attorney to prepare the form of the bonds required to be issued for the payment of outstanding liabilities incurred in the construction of sewers. The bonds are to be payable at the fiscal agency of the state of Oregon in New York City or at the office of the city treasurer of Salem, at the option of the owners of the bonds. Provision is made that the amounts of the bonds shall be left to the option of the purchaser thereof subject to the limitations of the Salem city charter.

The bonds are to be dated January 1. Aside from the levy for the payment of the first installment of principal and interest provision is made that the city budget declare for a levy of a sufficient tax to provide and pay for any incidental or miscellaneous expense incident to the sale and issue of the bonds. The purchaser of the bonds is to have the option and privilege of furnishing the blank bond and doing the engraving and printing on the bond subject only to the form of bond as provided by the city attorney.

OPENS WITH PEST TALK

Farmers' Course at O. A. C. Begins With Fourteen Lectures—First on Plant Lice.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Dec. 10.—The opening session of the Farmers' Week at the Oregon Agricultural College yesterday afternoon had 14 important lectures, beginning with instruction on plant lice and their control, and including vegetable growing, stock breeding, landscape gardening, orchard irrigation, vegetable diseases, poultry farming, water supply, loganberry culture and like topics.

Plant lice known to be working on the orchard and bush fruits in Oregon were discussed by Prof. H. F. Wilson in two lectures. Special attention was given the brown apple aphid, because no other species of aphid causes anything like the amount of damage in all sections of the state as does this one.

"In some few sections the woolly aphid is quite bad, but where thorough spraying is carried on for San Jose scale and other insects, this species is of minor importance," said Prof. Wilson. "On young nursery stock the green apple aphid frequently becomes bad, and the trees must be sprayed or they sometimes die as a result.

"The egg is the stage in which most of the plant lice spend the winter, attached to twigs, under bud scales, pieces of bark or on the open surface of the young shoots of such shrubs or trees as serve for the overwinter host plant.

"The stem-mother, so called because in the spring she hatches from the egg, and is the mother aphid of all the other generations produced throughout the spring, summer and fall, is not fertilized and produces her young alive. All of the many succeeding generations produced through the summer are viviparous females, like the stem-mother."

Prof. Wilson then spoke of the spring and fall migrants, the males, and their life history, and of methods of control.

WANTS BODY SOLD AND MONEY SENT TO HIS MOTHER

Asking that his body be sold to the Willamette medical college for $100 and the money be given to his mother, H. E. (Jack) Roberts, who is to be hanged at the penitentiary on Friday, has written to Prison Superintendent Lawson.

Almost coincident with the letter from the prisoner comes one to the superintendent from Roberts' mother asking that a picture of her son in civilian's clothes be taken before he is put to death. Mrs. Roberts tells the superintendent that she has no photograph of her son. She lives at Mullino, a suburb of Portland.

Discuss Plans for Open River

Major McIndoe, the government engineer, who is investigating the proposed deepening of the channel of the Willamette river between Oregon City and Eugene outlined his plans and reported his findings in an address before a gathering of Willamette valley representatives of commercial organizations at the Board of Trade rooms last night.

The result of Major McIndoe's talk was the appointment of a committee, headed by J. W. Morgan, of Corvallis, to initiate a campaign to assist the government in the project.

The government engineer insisted that the people of the valley can raise as much money for the improvement of the river as the government will appropriate, and he declared himself in favor of some inducement of this nature being offered. As soon as a report has been submitted to the government by Major McIndoe the money that has been allotted for the survey of the river will be available. He declared that his report would be unfavorable unless the people of the valley collaborate with the government in the working out of the proposed project.

The improvement section of the river lies between Oregon City and Eugene, and the plans call for a channel of a depth of six feet. Locks and dams are to be used in procuring the required depth of water. Because of a grade of about 1 per cent, or approximately five feet to a mile, the deepening of the river between Corvallis and Eugene will offer considerable difficulty.

Working under Mr. Morgan on the committee chosen to inaugurate the co-operative work, members of the several commercial organizations of the valley will be selected. Mr. Morgan hopes to have the work well under way in three weeks' time. Major McIndoe roughly estimated that the required dams and locks will number about 25, but he would quote no definite figures.

Those present at the meeting were J. L. Hanna, Pearl Alexander, J. G. McIntosh and L. Damon, Independence; J. S. Van Winkle, Albany; A. J. Devers and W. G. McPherson, Portland; W. A. Cusick and D. A. White, Salem; M. J. Duryea and A. C. Dixon, Eugene; J. W. Morgan, Corvallis; W. G. Parrot, Newberg.

DR. WALLACE BUTTERICK IS VISITING THIS SECTION

Dr. Wallace Butterick, of the Rockefeller Foundation, of New York, arrived in Salem yesterday, and with State Superintendent Alderman in the afternoon took a tour through Polk county. The object of Mr. Butterick's visit is to study the home credit plan, which is advocated by Superintendent Alderman.

Dr. Butterick read the pamphlet written by Mr. Alderman on the subject and which was scattered broadcast throughout the United States by educators and educational publications. The reading of this pamphlet led to Mr. Butterick's visit west.
