XMAS AT THE INSTI- TUTE FOR FEEBLE MINDED

By Maude Stewart, Principal of School.

The Christmas spirit "is in full swing at the Oregon State School for Feeble-Minded. It came to us early this year. Thanksgiving had not passed when talk of the Christmas festivities began. Many letters were written to Santa Claus and we know they went straight to the old gentleman, himself.

Christmas green have been gathered and the fir and holly made into wreaths and ropes. The administration building and the various cottages have been decorated from attic to basement. But the culmination is in the assembly hall where the program will be presented on Christmas eve and where dear old St. Nick will make his appearance.

The huge Christmas tree in the front of the hall is the prominent feature. Near to it is an immense chmney which our superintendent ordered built for the occasion. It is roomy enough for Santa Claus and his six planking reindeer to climb through.
The holly wreaths, Christmas bells, mistletoe with red ribbons, all make this hall a most beautiful place. It only needs the shining, happy faces of the one hundred and fifty children who will assemble here to make it a perfect picture. Dr. Smith believes in making these unfortunates happy, so he and his able assistants have spared neither time nor labor on the Christmas festivities. Parents and friends have responded most generously and scores of packages have arrived through the express and mail.

The wants of every individual have been studied and each child will receive from the loaded Christmas tree some gift suited to his years and capacity.

Christmas morning oranges and bags of candy and nuts are distributed. The big turkey dinner, served at 1 o'clock, is the climax of the festival.

No one could visit this school at this time without being impressed by the conscientious efficiency of its management and by the greatness of the work that is being done here for suffering humanity.

AS A DOCTOR SEES CHRISTMAS.

Dr. W. B. Morse.

A doctor's Christmas is no different from any other day of the year, with the exception that the sensations and feelings accompanying the eventful day are possible brought to his attention more and the general spirit of cheerfulness prevails with the professional man as it does with the person who can rest assured he will be able to sit by his fireside and enjoy the occasion to his heart's content.

I do not believe there is another profession which brings a man in touch with the real human interest in Christmas as does that of the physician. The doctor may, while making his daily visits to the different homes on Christmas day, call at the residence of some well-to-do family. He may observe sitting in the midst of valuable gifts a boy with chin quivering and brow contorted in anger for the simple and inexcusable reason that he failed to receive the one present upon which he had set his mind. This is the pampered child, the child who is greeted with not only fond words and valuable presents, but who has been learned to believe he can have most anything he desires by simply complaining, and making his parents humor him.

Which would you prefer, dear reader. Bring up a child with every convenience and every whim satisfied to the detriment of the child's disposition and general welfare, or something in the nature of what I am going to tell you. I attended a case last Christmas wherein the family was almost desti-

CHRISTMAS TIME AGAIN

And with it the pleasure that comes with having a little money to spend for gifts.
Perhaps you failed to make provision this year for the holidays. Why not start a "Christmas account" now?
Just open that account with the money received as gifts.
Start the New Year right.

tute, it was hard, very hard, for the family to struggle for even existence.
A little girl had received as the only Christmas present a hair ribbon. Did she cry and remonstrate over the fact this tiny article was valueless?
No. This little girl waiting for me for a whole hour, while I was busy with the sick member of the family, and when I finally appeared, she de-lightedly held the poor little Christmas present up before me, and made a detailed explanation of where it came from, and what it was for, and how she appreciated it. This is appreciation. A simple little gift stirred this little girl's heart, while in the other case an abundance failed to satisfy, member that to pamper children means the making of selfish, unsatisfied men and women. This great fault should be overcome by every parent.
Learn the child to be appreciative at heart. Not appreciative because a certain whim is satisfied.

Truly, a physician's Christmas is full of incidents. To be suddenly called away from a circle of friends Fathers and mothers should reand walk into a home clouded by gloom caused by sickness, is one of its experiences, and one which brings forth the true sympathy for those so afflicted.

is this Building owned by

GEO. C. WILL

Talking Machines and Records

Piano Dept.—Second Floor

The interior of which contains the most complete line in both music and sewing machines.
Geo. C. Will started with a small store in the Turner block 22 years ago. His business grew so rapidly that, in addition to the large, modern store at 432 State street, arrangements are now made to build a two-story brick extending entirely through the block to Ferry street, the business needing every foot of space, 300 feet long, from State to Ferry street. Starting with 300 square feet of floor space, and when completed will contain 25,000 square feet, makes Mr. Will feel proud of the liberal patronage that has enabled him to conduct the largest and most substantial music and sewing machine business in the state.
