

The Powder Trust to be Dissolved

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
San Francisco, Jan. 2.—The Dupont Powder company, the so-called powder trust, took its first step here today to comply with the dissolution order handed down last June by the United States District court at Wilmington, Delaware.

Under the re-organization plan, the Dupont Powder company, of California goes out of existence, the Hercules Powder company, with general offices here, taking over the 11 plants formerly controlled by the trust.

At the same time a second new corporation—the Atlas Powder company—begins its existence in the northwest, with offices in Tacoma. The president of the latter concern will be W. J. Webster, former general sales agent of the Dupont, with headquarters in Tacoma.

GOVERNOR WEST AND GUESTS.

Major Smith, Major Knapp and Captain Carle Abrams.

It was indeed a stirring scene, as the long line of handsomely gowned women and their escorts shook hands and exchanged greetings with the distinguished guests, and one that will long be remembered by all who took part.

Music and Judge Burnett.

The Peerless orchestra, and some others, furnished most excellent music during the evening. They were:

- Mrs. Lily Stege, violin and leader.
- Mrs. Viola Holman, violin.
- Miss Joy Turner, violin.
- Miss Bernice Sauter, piano.
- Mr. R. H. Savage, clarinet.
- Mr. P. J. Kelzer, clarinet.
- H. N. Stoudenmeyer, cornet.
- Ruthyn Turney, bass.
- Mr. D. C. Burton, trombone.
- Mr. W. J. Hunt, drums and bells.

The orchestra was partly hidden in a bower of evergreen, but their music was in evidence all the time.

Judge Burnett almost caused a stampede when he mounted a footstool and told the crowd in the rotunda, if they would kindly move back a little they would hear a song. As the audience started with a rush, the judge took a tumble and stopped the movement by saying that "he would not do the singing." He didn't, but Mrs. W. Carlton Smith did, and it is needless to say delighted the big audience, that surely had a stock of encores along with it, for it refused to let her quit.

All a Moving Picture.

During the whole evening a splendid moving picture exhibit was going on the big assembly room and this proved a very pleasant feature, for the guests as they waited for a chance to pay their respects to the honor guests and governor, or while they waited for others after having gone down the line.

One of the most interesting features of the evening was an address by Judge Morland, clerk of the supreme court, in which he reviewed briefly the lives and work of Oregon's governors. It was of deep interest, and brimming over with information about them, telling as much as could be possibly crowded into the time. He also paid a splendid, but well deserved tribute to Governor West.

A detail of 14 of the soldier boys of Company "M" had charge of the doors, checking rooms, etc., and stood at attention in the governor's room, guiding the big crowd and answered hundreds of questions. They were under the command of First Lieutenant Max Gehlar, who, as master of ceremonies, was suave, quiet, far-seeing and quick-acting, just fitting into and filling the place as though made for it, and his ministrations added much to the pleasure and comfort of all who required information.

There were at least 2000 in the big crowd that thronged the capitol, and each and every one of them will always have a pleasant recollection of this, Salem's most memorable social function.

Was Free With His Dad's Money

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

San Francisco, Jan. 2.—While New Year's revelry was at its height there was one party here that was eating up Millionaire Charles W. Clark's money at the rate of $5 a minute.

Clark, who is a son of the Montana copper king, gave a little dinner to his friends. Some one suggested the Texas Tommy.

"I'd like to have the ballroom," said the millionaire to John Tait, of Tait's Cafe.

"I'm sorry, but it would cost $1000 to get that ballroom tonight," said Tait.

"Well, I guess I can stand it." And with that Clark scribbled off a check for the amount.

Are Busy Cleaning the Tracks

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 2.—Three big rotaries, driven by Mallet engines, and several hundred men with pick and shovel are busy at work today keeping the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul clear between Cle Elum and Garcia, a distance of 40 miles. The work, begun yesterday, progressed so satisfactorily, that the first train since Sunday, passed through to Seattle.

On the Great Northern, it is reported today that traffic is normal. It resumed its freight service Wednesday night.

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

TIME IT! NO INDIGESTION, GAS OR SOURNESS FIVE MINUTES AFTER TAKING "PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN."

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient food to the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides it makes you so to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

Threaten the Life of Foreman

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

New Castle, Ind., Jan. 2.—Frank Dare, of New Lisbon, foreman of the jury in the federal court of Indianapolis, that convicted the 38 defendants in the dynamite conspiracy trial, received an anonymous communication threatening his life yesterday. The letter was not signed and was mailed from Chicago. It reads as follows:

"Frank Dare, New Lisbon, Ind.

"Sir:—This is to inform you that you will be planted under the sod within the next three months."

Mr. Dare placed the letter in the hands of H. H. Evans, prosecuting attorney. Today he and Evans will go to Indianapolis and place the matter before the federal authorities.

Not a Tall-ender.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

London, Jan. 2.—That Prince Albert, son of the king, is a poor scholar, is evident today, since the prince was rated sixty-fourth among sixty-five naval cadets who took examinations last month. Newspapers praised the instructors for their impartiality.

Jean Gilbert's Music.

The waltz, "Good-Bye Everybody," and the ballad, "A Lonesome Moon" in "A Modern Eve," coming to the Grand theatre Saturday night, represent the melodic touch of Jean Gilbert. The rest of the score, except for some concerted passages, belongs to Victor Hollander.

Saloons May Have to Close

That the Senate saloon, the Standard Liquor company, the Annex, the Fank, the Court, Butte & Son, Peter Bach's place, Swartz & James are selling liquor without a license contrary to the city charter and general municipal laws of Salem is the substance of an opinion rendered today by City Attorney Page in an opinion asked for by Mayor Lachmund.

received the amounts recorded; that the receipts do not constitute a saloon license; that the bonds proffered by the applicants have not been signed by the mayor, thus rendering them void to date and that the last item comprises in fact, a saloon license proper.

In all probability, there will be some action taken by the chief of police now that the city attorney has practically restrained the contention that the eight saloons are operating without a license. The chief declared this morning that he would first consult the city attorney before any action would be taken on his part to close up the saloons transacting business without a license, and that he would not attempt a prosecution until ordered to do so by the proper persons. It now remains with either the mayor or some member of the city council to insist upon the saloons being shut up, and much speculation is being indulged in as to what the chief of police will do in the matter. It is rumored that Mayor Lachmund will as Salem's chief executive still, insist that the eight saloons included in the delinquent list, be required to abide by the charter by obtaining legal licenses before doing further business. In this event, each of the establishments will be compelled to shut its doors until Mayor-Elect Steeves assumes the duties of mayor.

Chief of Police Shodeck stated this afternoon that he would not interfere unless it was at the request of some person in authority, and that he was not in favor of forcing a prosecution in the eight cases in view of the fact that the saloon men had paid in their money, were acting in good faith, and that he did not think it right to take away their liberties for this reason.

Leon Rice Will Sing Tonight

It was the unanimous desire of last night's large audience that Mr. and Mrs. Rice remain another day in Salem and give a third "Evening of Song" at the Christian church. They consented, and it was announced that a "request" program will be given. Many people have asked for repetitions of some of the songs given during the past two evenings, and others have requested songs that were not sung, but were "old favorites." Mr. Rice has agreed to sing as many of these as he can tonight. Requests have been made to him by phone and mail at the Marion hotel, and it is expected that every seat in the church will be filled tonight to hear the program.

Last night a capacity audience listened with rapt attention to a program of 25 songs, sung as only Mr. Rice can sing them. His enunciation of the words, beautiful quality of tone and sympathetic interpretation, painted pictures in the minds of his hearers with startling rapidity. Every group of songs was encored, and not infrequently more than once, Mr. Rice generously responding each time. It would be difficult to say in the eight cases in view of the fact that the saloon men had paid in their money, were acting in good faith, and that he did not think it right to take away their liberties for this reason.

WOULD PLACE FUNDS IN THE SMALLER BANKS

To have the county funds apportioned among the different banks of the counties is the substance of proposed legislation now being talked up chiefly by the Marion county delegation. It is argued that this would prevent the removal of money from outside sections of the county to some central section, thereby strengthening the financial status of the county at large.

The move toward such legislation was begun six months ago by some of the smaller bankers of the county. It is proposed to take the money that is procured in the form of taxes in the different parts of the county and deposit it in the banks of those sections, the banks to pay interest at 2 per cent and to give good security. Under the present system the money of the entire county is placed with one or two large banks in the county seat.

The Marion county legislators-elect are investigating and say that they have found that the smaller banks in outlying towns will be willing to give the required security and to pay the interest on the deposits. Another argument in favor of the law is that the placing of the money in the smaller banks would make it more easily available to the people of the community in which it might be deposited, thereby encouraging rural development. Approximately half a million dollars county money is now deposited in Salem. With this sum deposited in numerous banks and drawing 2 per cent interest, the resultant additional $10,000 would pay the salaries of all of the county officials.

MARRIAGE, DEATHS AND SOME OTHER THINGS

There have been in Oregon in the last two years 19,062 births against 11,706 deaths. The increase over the previous biennium in these figures were, respectively, 1756 and 500. The number of marriages in the last two years have totaled 11,407, an increase of 1000 over the previous two years.

Eight hundred and fifty-five cases of typhoid fever are reported for the two years, of which 216 cases were fatal. The figures in the previous biennium were 1608 and 298. The most serious outbreaks of the disease were at Eugene and Klamath Falls.

Of diphtheria there were 677 cases, of which 66 were fatal. In the previous biennium there were 1201 cases, with 168 fatalities. The state board of health claims that the abolition of the common drinking cup is largely the cause of the decrease. There are 1423 cases of scarlet fever, with 55 deaths reported. This disease was particularly bad in the schools of the Willamette valley. There were 2450 cases of measles, with 18 deaths, and 754 cases of smallpox, with 7 deaths. Four of the seven deaths were in one family in Marion county. Of all other contagious diseases there were 593, with 48 deaths.
