The Rumors Are Denied Officially

In the county court of the state of Oregon, for Marion county.

In the matter of the report of D. G. Drager, expert accountant.

Now on this 7th day of January, 1913, comes on for hearing the report of D. G. Drager, the expert on the records kept by R. D. Allen, deceased late county clerk of Marion county, Oregon, and it appearing from the report of said expert that said county clerk has turned into the county treasury of Marion county, all sums of money held by him in trust as county clerk of Marion county, Oregon, and all fees by him collected as such county clerk, with the exception of four probate cases, Nos. 3317 3350, 3352, and 3430, and it appearing to the court that these four probate cases have been settled and that the reason for non-collection of said fees was due to the fact that the inventories showed a larger estate value than the petition filed in said cases, and that through error, said additional fees were not collected.

Now, therefore, be it ordered, adjudged and decreed that the report of said expert be accepted and that the estate of said R. D. Allen deceased, be absolved from any liability on account of any or all transactions had by R. D. Allen, deceased, as clerk of said county and state and that his bondsmen be exonerated from further liability, and that no responsibility be attached by reason of the non-collection of the fees in the four cases mentioned.

W. M. DUSHEY, Judge.
 J. T. BECKWITH, Commissioner.

State of Oregon, county of Marion as I, Max Gehlhar, county clerk for the county of Marion, state of Oregon, and clerk of the county court for said county and state, do hereby certify that the foregoing transcript of order has been by me compared with the original and that it is a true and correct copy of said original order, and of the whole thereof, as the same appears of record in my office and custody.

Witness my hand and seal of said court, this 7th day of January, 1913.
 MAX GEHLHAR, Clerk.

Trying to Capture Crazy Man

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Montesano, Wash., Jan. 8.—Somewhere to the north of here eight armed men are in pursuit of a sick and crazed murderer, ragged, half-starved and possibly unarmed.

"We will get Turnow this time," said Sheriff Ed. Payette, as he was leaving here with a posse for the hill country, where the most remarkable outlaw of modern times is believed to be prepared to make his last stand.

For two years John Turnow, madman and the best shot in the West, has held the Olympic range against the officers of the law. His unerring rifle has claimed six victims—"Scotty" and "The Swede," prospectors, first then the Bauer twins, and last Deputies McKenzie and Elmore.

From time to time he was seen, or hunters ran upon his camps, but he never was cornered.

Then, on Saturday, two brothers named Moss, who knew Turnow well in the days before he became an outlaw met him in the woods while hunting. He was standing before a rough shack made of brush and bark. They fled at sight of him, and, exhausted, reached Montesano with the tale.

LOWEST TAX LEVY IN STATE'S HISTORY

The lowest tax levy in the history of the state has been announced officially by the state board of tax commissioners for 1913. The levy is 1.2 mills. The state taxes for the coming year are placed at $1,086,614. The assessed valuation of property in the state is $905,911,679.

There will be an additional levy of 1-25 of a mill for the support of the state normal school at Monmouth, this levy having been voted by the people in 1910. This amount will be $26,200.

The legislature of 1911 made an appropriation of $500,000 for the University of Oregon. A referendum of the measure, however, stopped the payment of the money to the legislature. The case went to the supreme court and the resulting opinion was that the referendum was sustained and the appropriation was voted on in the November election and defeated. With the $500,000 in the state treasury and no provision for its expenditure, the state tax levy has been decreased as a result.

PROFESSOR J. S. GRAHAM DIED THIS MORNING

In the death of Professor John S. Graham, at 1:45 this morning, Salem loses a veteran educator and one of her most highly respected citizens both in public and social life.

Professor Graham was born in Washington, Davis county, Indiana, nearly fifty-one years ago. He came west in the year of 1878 and settled in Marion county. For years he taught school in this county in various districts and was elected county school superintendent in 1892. He served in this office from 1892 until 1896 and then received the appointment of principal of the North Salem school. Mr. Graham occupied this position for a number of years, when he was transferred to the East Salem school where he presided until up within a few days ago when he became ill.

The deceased has always been active educational matters in the county and state and his efforts in the interest of his profession have been great.

Professor Graham leaves a wife and one daughter to mourn his death. His daughter is Mrs. Paul Johnson. The funeral services will be held from the home at 461 South High street tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

An Old Hood Riverite.

Tom Lusk, of Silverton, dropped in to The Journal office this morning, and sunshine came with him. Tom was up at Hood River years ago when the writer was prying the Hood River Glacier along by hand, and making its readers glad it was only a weekly, instead of a daily. He also ornamented the White Salmon region, just across the Columbia from Hood River. He has grown some since that time, in fact had gotten too big for us to remember until he pressed the button and turned on a smile. As we gazed at his portly form we realized that if Sil-

Says Lecture Was Fine.

Bishop Bell, who turned Salem down so hard last night, lectured at Corvallis Monday and the Gazette-Times speaks of his lecture in the highest terms. Just why the learned gentleman gave Salem the treatment he did is unknown, but the Times says he only had a dozen or so people at his lecture there, and this may account for his grouch.

REINHART'S SALE OF EXCLUSIVE SHOES FOR EVERY OCCASION

"It's Too Good To Be True"

Said One Woman, Yesterday, As She Was Leaving

"I have always worn a Ziegler's Bros. shoe, and to think I can get two pairs for nearly the price of one above."
 We expected such comments as the above after we decided to hold this sale. And the same holds true with our shoes for men, such as the famous Howard & Foster, Slater & Morrill shoes. A good many men are "laying in a supply," as they term it, "by getting a pair for business wear, a pair for evening wear, and a pair for rainy day wear."

We positively close this sale three days from tonight—in other words, Saturday, Jan 11
