Joe Lane's Grandson Is Senator

MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE ALL
BUT ONE OBEY THE LAW AND DECLARE HARRY LANE, GRAND-
SON OF STATE'S FIRST GOVERN-OR, SENATOR.

It took the House just 12 minutes to cast its vote for Dr. Harry Lane for United States Senator this noon, after waiting for eight minutes while the sergeant-at-arms and all other House employes and many members searched all over the state house for Representative Eaton of Lane county, the only absentee. He was finally found and hurried into the House.

Fifty-nine of the House's sixty votes were cast for Dr. Lane. The other vote was cast by Meek, of Washington county, for Ben Selling. Bolland of Clatsop explained that while he did not sign statement No. 1 and that Lane was not his candidate, yet he bowed to the wishes of the people. Parsons of Lane explained that although he signed statement No. 1, he believed in the direct election of United States Senators by the people.

It was peculiarly appropriate that Clarence L. Reames, Democrat, of Jackson-Douglas counties, should place Dr. Lane's name in nomination, as he is a cousin of Lane's. His speech was less than three minutes long. He declared that the people were to be congratulated, not only on their choice of Dr. Lane, but on the new manner of choosing United States senators which day away with all the political bickering, trickstering, bitter feeling and scandal that the old method engendered. He paid tribute to the character of Dr. Lane, and dwelt upon the fact that in the campaign against great odds he won out against five other candidates, several of whom were able and formidable men.

Calling attention to the fact that Dr. Lane was born in 1857 and had lived all of his life in this state, Mr. Reames informed the House that the people in choosing their new senator had chosen the grandson of General Joseph Lane, the first governor of Oregon.

Representative Hagood of Multnomah, also a Democrat, in his seconding speech was even briefer and more eulogistic of Dr. Lane's character.

"On behalf of Multnomah, his home county, I second this nomination," said Mr. Hagood. "Dr. Lane was born and reared in Oregon. In every official position he has ever held he has served the people well and faithfully. He is absolutely incapable of betraying trust.

The vote was then taken by roll call. The House passed a number of bills today, and a number of new ones of general interest were introduced. County school supervisors will not be abolished as provided for in the Howard bill, as was indicated yesterday afternoon when, after a vigorous debate, the House by a large majority adopted the minority report of the committee on education. When the time came to vote on the measure this forenoon, Latourette, of Multnomah, moved that the bill be sent back to the committee for reconsideration with the general understanding that the committee report back a substitute bill making it optional with each county as to whether it wanted school supervisors.

A bill by Reames amends the present law to allow fathers to inherit equally with mothers. The present law provides that where a person dies intestate and leaves no child or husband or wife, the father inherits all property.

Governor West's bill to abolish the office of state land agent was also passed. The committee on health and public morals introduced a bill to provide for assistance and support of widows with children. The bill provides that each widow shall receive $10 a month from the county in which she resided for one child, and $7.50 a month for each other child. The purpose of the proposed law is to keep families of mother and children together.

All county officials in the state will be placed upon a uniform salary basis if the bill introduced by Representative Gill, and fathered by Governor West, becomes a law. It divides the counties into six classes, Multnomah comprising the first class, and provides that salaries be based upon a percent basis, on area, population and affixed assessed valuation. Thus would the salaries in all counties be changed except in Multnomah.

Anderson of Clatsop introduced an habitual criminal bill which would make a criminal on his third conviction to a penitentiary or reformatory be sentenced for life.

Sportsmen of the state will be interested in the bill by Upton of Multnomah, prohibiting the use of automatic and repeating shotguns while hunting.

Carrying an appropriation of $500,000, a bill was introduced by Forbes of Crook county to provide for the construction, operation, maintenance and disposal by the state of the irrigation project in Crook county known as the Columbia Southern Project.

Among the other bills introduced were the following:

By Weeks—A remedy for injury to live stock by certain kinds of fence.

By Murnane—Defining duties of parents and children of any poor person who is unable to maintain himself.

By Upton—To provide for the suspension and investigation of the interstate schedule of railroads.

By Upton—Making it unlawful to receive moneys from or habitually associate with prostitutes.

By Hall—To prevent storage of dynamite, nitro-glycerine and other explosives near incorporated towns.

By Carpenter—To prevent the use of patented articles in paving.

By Blanchard—To regulate salmon fishing in Rogue river and its tributaries.

By Gill and Hurd—Making road districts, municipal incorporations; providing for officials, powers, limitations, etc., of such incorporations.

By Gill—Repealing sections 6326, 6331, inclusive, relating to road poll tax, which is constitutionally repealed.

By Weeks—Promoting the dairy industry of the state by means of assisting in the organization and maintenance of cow testing associations, and general farm to farm instruction in dairying.

By Graves—To provide for establishment of Yamhill walnut experiment station on Yamhill county poor farm, near McMinnville.

By Gill—Providing bridge and bridge repair fund.

MARION HOTEL DIRECTORS SURPRISE MANAGER CROWE

Greeted with an annual report which showed that the business transacted during the past year was the most encouraging in the history of the organization, the board of directors of the Hotel Marion held an annual meeting last night and received the statements concerning the 1912 business from its secretary.

The financial condition of the hostelry is satisfactory in every detail, according to the members, and the board was much pleased with the report in general. There was an election of officers held, but no change was made, the old directors being retained to a man. J. Roberts is president, E. V. Springer, secretary and Max O. Buren, treasurer. Russell Catlin, Jim Wilson and Dan J. Fry are the same directors.

Probably the most elaborate and most prized Elk's tooth ever seen in this state was presented to Manager Crowe by the directors. The gift is perfect in shape, and, from the coloring, it is evidently a very old and valuable tooth. The beautiful emblem of the Elk's lodge is mounted in gold with a large diamond and a ruby decorating it. Manager Crowe highly appreciates the gift.

Since Mr. Crowe has taken over the Management of the Marion Hotel, the new and modern hostelry has been enjoying a fine business. "I thank the Salem public for its support in my efforts to conduct this hotel," said Manager Crowe today, "and I appreciate the manner in which the Salem people show their appreciation of a first-class establishment of this kind."

Supervisory Law Is Kept on the Books

After a discussion that lasted the greater part of the forenoon, the bill introduced by Senator Dimick, of Clackamas, for the repeal of the rural school supervisory law, was voted down in compliance with the recommendation of the committee on education. As a result, further action on the bill is indefinitely postponed.

The adoption of the report of the committee "that the bill do not pass," is considered a victory for State Superintendent Alderman, who was instrumental in procuring the passage of the supervisory law two years ago, and who has been fighting strenuously to prevent its repeal.

Introduced by Dimick.

The bill for the repeal of the supervisory law was introduced by Senator Dimick, the sensational and spectacular colon from Oregon City, who dramatically told of the political corruption which has been bred into the school system of Clackamas county on account of the fat jobs which the supervisory law has created.

Senator Dimick declared that he did not believe in using the educational system of the state to build up a political machine. He declared that the educational committee from the house had gone into a meeting with one of the state officials present—presumably he alluded to Superintendent Alderman—who had browbeat the committee until he had made all but one think his way on the question. Dimick said he introduced the bill at the request of taxpayers of Clackamas county, who were opposed to the bill.

He read letter after letter asking him to do his utmost to do away with the rural supervisory system. He declared that the supervisory law makes the county superintendent only a member of the county educational board, with no more authority than any other member of the board. One chief objection registered by Senator Dimick was that the supervisors appointed are frequently not so up-to-date in matters of education as the teachers whom they presume to tell how to teach school.

Graft Is Hinted.

Some of the letters read by Senator Dimick declared that the supervisory law opens the way for graft by designing hunters of fat jobs.

Senator Miller championed the law passed two years ago. He said that he was surprised that there should be any effort made to kill the first law that had been passed for the advancement of the rural schools. He denied that machine politics entered into it, and said that the efforts of the grange organizations of the state were enlisted in its support.

Smith, of Coos and Curry, and Neuner sided with Dimick. Butler, of Hood River and Wasco, Hawley, Calkins and Kiddle supported the supervisory system.

The vote on the committee's report, recommending that the Dimick bill do not pass was: Aye 23, no 5, absent 2.

Bills Turned Down.

Senate bills Nos. 13, 15 and 16, introduced by Senator Barrett, for the amendment of the corrupt practices act, and providing for the appointment of circuit judges pro tempore were recommended not to be passed by the judiciary committee, and the report adopted. Also bill No. 18, introduced by Barrett, limiting the number of measures on the official ballot, was turned down in compliance with the committee's report.

The bill presented by Senators Bean and Calkins, providing for an appropriation for an armory at Eugene, was reported on favorably and referred to the ways and means committee. Dimicks bill, the repeal of the naval militia bill, was reported on unfavorably, and re-referred.

He Urges Teal for the Place

Washington, Jan. 21.—Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, and Senator Newlands, of Nevada, conferred with President-elect Wilson for an hour and a half at Trenton yesterday, urging him to appoint a western man as secretary of the interior.

Upon his return to Washington tonight, Senator Chamberlain was not disposed to discuss what transpired at the conference, but admitted he had secured no promises from Governor Wilson and had no idea who would be appointed secretary of the interior, or from what section of the country he will be chosen.

Senator Chamberlain said tonight that during the conference with Governor Wilson he strongly insisted upon the appointment of J. N. Teal of Portland, and that he gave many reasons why Teal is the most available man for the office. He also said that while Senator Newlands voiced first preference for Clay Tallman, of Nevada, he strongly recommended the appointment of Mr. Teal if Mr. Tallman is not to be considered, and said that Mr. Teal's appointment would be acceptable to him and to other western democratic senators.

Senator Chamberlain admitted however that he came back from Trenton no better informed as to Governor Wilson's intentions than before, and he would not venture a guess as to who will be appointed.

Made Bold Attack on Young Girl

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Seattle, Wash., Jan. 21.—Patrolmen and detectives are today looking for the four young men who last night stormed the ay hotel, 2107 Westlake avenue, defied the landlady, and attempted to remove 15-year-old Elsie Sedell, when the girl, after being insulted, asked Mrs. Jones to protect her.

The girl was stopped by the four young men at Pine and Virginia streets, as she was on her way home from work. Their threats of what they would do if she would not go to a hotel with them made her obey.

The five went to the May hotel. Three of the boys stayed outside and the fourth went upstairs with the girl. At the head of the stairs they met Mrs. Jones, whom the girl asked to step into room while she told her story.

When ordered to go, the man joined his fellows and all four bombarded the house with stones, fleeing just before the police arrived.

STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR IN SESSION

With Vice-President Rector in the chair, the State Federation of Labor opened the second day of its session in the Moose hall this morning. Routine business took up the morning session, but this afternoon there promises to be a fine display of oratorical fireworks when the members get busy discussing the compensation bill and other proposed measures bordering upon this tentative bill.

It is not believed the center of the fray will include the compensation measure, but instead a number of other proposals said to be in the interest of organized labor will be the subject of discussion this afternoon. The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock this afternoon and the members of the assembly got down to business with a vim.

According to the statements made by different members, the Federation of Labor association has extensive plans under consideration with the carrying out of which they hope to materially improve the present labor laws of this state, and that they will work diligently in order to perfect the ideas proposed, to amend and revise the statute pertaining to the workman.

with the Board of Trade for an illustrated lecture on the subject of good roads, to be given here next week.

Fountain Will Be Seen. Through a motion by Alderman Stolz it was voted to have demonstrations of the Walte fountain during the session of the legislature.

Alderman Rigdon, special committee appointed by former Mayor Lachmund to investigate the possibility of purchasing the Salem water plant, recommended that in order to give the new mayor a free hand, the special committee be discharged. This action was taken and the water question was referred to the Ways and Means committee.

The city engineer submitted his final estimate on the improvement of Center street from Liberty to Fourteenth. The street has been open to traffic for a period of six months and has proven satisfactory.

Committees Appointed. Mayor Steeves appointed the remainder of the standing committees of the council. On the street committee he named Aldermen Stolz, Hatch and Sigmund. On the sewerage committee, Aldermen Hatch, Constable and Jones were appointed.

A resolution authorizing advertising for bids for the purchase of a combination hose and pumper fire auto truck was adopted, also a resolution for the purchase of 1000 feet of hose.

Because the item was inadvertently left out of the city budget, a resolution was adopted for the city water bills to be paid out of the general fund.

To eliminate the cumbersome method of placing men on the black list by ordinance for each individual, Alderman Macy moved that the city attorney be instructed to draw up an ordinance repealing the present ordinance and making it possible to put common drunkards on the list by resolution.

Townsend Resigns.

Councilman O. L. Townsend, now at Long Beach, California, last night submitted his resignation to the council. The resignation was accepted and the matter of electing a member in his place deferred one week.

Naughty Marietta.

"Naughty Marietta" drew a fairly good house last night, and sent the audience home well pleased. There are better shows, but this was "catchy," and there were some fine voices, outside of Florence Roberts, which is remarkably good. The company was unusually large, crowding the stage almost beyond capacity at times. Some of the stage settings were remarkably fine one scene being especially beautiful. Despite the inclement weather those who attended were well repaid for facing the storm, and they certainly had a very enjoyable evening.

GAINES IS HOT IN NECKPIECE.

hurt her bodily is all in her overheated imagination.

Others in Deal. "Someone, I will not say who now, wrote to that woman in Portland asking her to prefer these charges against myself and Shodeck, and I want Councilman Minton to divulge his name. I know pretty well who pulled off this rotten little stunt, but I just want Minton to show up.

"Minton tried to pull another man into the deal to prefer misconduct charges against me. He went to Otto Pallett, who conducts a lodging establishment on State street, and asked him if he knew anything concerning my record, with the presumable intention of putting another charge over Pallett's name. Minton that he knew nothing about my record other than that I arrested him and a girl in his house at one time. This councilman raked and scraped the town over in an effort to establish some charges against me which would aid him in discharging me, but he failed absolutely. He can't prove one of them, and this is just what he has got to do before long.

Couldn't Act Like Men.

"Minton and Jones couldn't act like men in their efforts to down me. I didn't want the job, knowing as I do that no man can work under such an administration which is mixed with agitators. It would be worth $150 a month to serve as a police officer, and I wouldn't have it on a bet. When Minton and Jones are council-no-see! I advised Chief Shodeck of this, too, and I believe Jones and Minton also understood my views on the matter.

"Why, then, did they not simply vote me out of office? No, they were determined to make a grandstand play and "prefer charges." They wanted to act low about it, and they certainly did that very thing.

"If, as Minton stated last night, the law was violated eight different times in Salem last Sunday and I overlooked to correct those violating the alleged crimes, why don't he specify what laws were broken? I failed to observe any violation of the law Sunday. Of course, if a man wants to follow up every man he sees with a chew of tobacco in his mouth and pinch him if he happens to let a trifle splutter on the curb in trying to reach the gutter, he could arrest at least a hundred men a day.

"I don't care about the job. That is a secondary matter with me. What I want, is to be cleared of these false charges, trumped up by Minton and Jones. I don't want to go out of office with such charges hanging over me, and believe me, mister, I won't either."

From the fact Mr. Gaines was prepared to resign, public opinion as far as can be learned, is in his favor. Just what action he will take in forcing Councilmen Minton and Jones to rectify the alleged misstatements, is not known nor will, the former officer say, but there is no doubt but what action will be taken shortly.

The salaries of public employes are always being raised; other wage-earners have to meet the increased cost of living the best way they may.
