

Bourne Would Make Caves a National Park

Senator Bourne, busy as he is with postoffice and post roads matters, has found time to champion the creation of a new national park to preserve the natural feature known as the Oregon caves.

To bring about this consummation, the senator on January 4, introduced a bill (S. 7915), "to create the Oregon Caves National park in the state of Oregon." This bill provides that "the tract of land included in township 40 south, range 6 w., Willamette meridian, in the state of Oregon, including the Oregon Caves," shall be reserved and "withdrawn from settlement, occupancy or sale, under the laws of the United States, and dedicated and set apart forever as public park or pleasure grounds for the benefit of people of the United States, to be known as the Oregon Caves National Park."

It is also provided that the reservation to be established shall be under the control and custody of the secretary of the interior, who shall establish rules and regulations, and "cause adequate measures to be taken for the preservation of the natural objects within said park, and also for the protection of the timber from wanton degradation, the preservation of all kinds of game and fish, punishment of trespassers, the removal of unlawful occupants and intruders and the prevention and extinguishment of forest fires; also,

"That it shall be unlawful for any person to establish any settlement or residence within said reserve, or to engage in any lumbering or other enterprise or business occupation therein for any speculative purpose whatever, and any person violating the provisions of this act, or the rules and regulations established thereunder, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, and further be liable for all destruction of timber or other property of the United States in consequence of any such unlawful act; provided, that said reservation shall be open, under such regulations as the secretary of the interior may prescribe, to all scientists, excursionists and pleasure seekers, and to the location of mining claims and the workings of the same. And provided further, that restaurant and hotel keepers, upon application to the secretary of the interior, may be permitted by him to establish places of entertainment within the Oregon Caves National park for the accommodation of visitors at places and under regulations fixed by the secretary of the interior, and not otherwise.

It is further provided in section 4 of the bill that the secretary of the interior may, in his discretion, grant leases, transportation and other privileges covering the occupation and use of lands and the transaction of business for the accommodation of tourists within the park. Such other privileges may be granted by said secretary as will not be inconsistent with the objects for which the park was established and which will not injure or destroy any of the forests, natural wonders or other objects of interest or resort in the park or prevent access to any such use or the enjoyment thereof by the people. Leases or privileges granted shall run for a period of not exceeding twenty years, but may be renewed or extended at the expiration thereof; no exclusive privileges, however, shall be granted within the park except on the ground leased."

In section 5 it is provided that: "The secretary of the interior may enact such charges as he deems to be proper for leases, privileges and so forth, granted hereunder, and all funds derived therefrom, or from any source whatsoever connected with park, shall be covered into the treasury of the United States, to be expended under the direction of the secretary of the interior in the management, operation and improvements of the park."

The Workmen's Compensation Bill Discussed

The much talked-of workmen's compensation bill was discussed before the committee on Industries in joint public session in the house from late yesterday afternoon until late last night. Numerous speakers addressed the joint committee in favor of the bill, and only one speaker was openly against it. Many of the house and senate members heard the arguments, as well as a large number of employers from all parts of the state, especially Portland, and labor delegates in attendance at the state labor convention.

In general it can be stated that the majority of employers seem to favor the bill, while labor seems to be divided in opinion. While most of the house and senate members have open minds on the subject, many of them have expressed approval of the main ideas in the measure, but would like to see it amended to some extent. One thing seems sure, however, and that is that the bill will not be enacted into a bill without a hard fight.

As stated before, union labor is divided on the question, some of the larger and more powerful of the unions being opposed to the bill, and preferring the present employers' liability law, while the smaller unions prefer the compensation bills. The bill threatens to be bitterly fought at the present convention of the State Federation of Labor.

Among those who spoke in favor of the bill were James H. Wallace, a coal miner, of Olympia, Wash., who explained the workings of the compensation law in that state, after which much of the Oregon bill is modeled. James B. Kerr, one of the members of the commission which drew up the bill; Andrew J. Madison, one of the three labor members of the same commission; H. M. Lawrence, of the Astoria fishermen's union; Dr. Hall, of Portland, and Representatives Mitchell and Nolte.

Attorney W. M. Davis, of Portland, was the only speaker against the bill, and in his address he admitted that he had never seen a copy of the bill until 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and had not had time to give it careful study. His appeal was mainly made to prejudice against capital and corporate interests. "Beware of the Greeks bearing gifts," was one of his favorite expressions. The joint committee will give further hearings on the bill.

When the weekly forecast, issued at Washington, D. C., predicts, at this time of year, varied and unsettled weather in some portion of the country, it is likely, occasionally to guess somewhere near right.

INDIAN TROPHY SHOW IS BEST

HISTORICAL COLLECTION, MADE BY WOMAN AMONG EIGHTEEN TRIBES, AT COLISEUM, CHICAGO

The land show at the Coliseum, Chicago had the greatest individual collection of beaded-buckskin wearing apparel in the world. This included historical war dress worn by Old Si-Yeh, Little Plume, distinguished warriors of the Blackfoot Tribe in Glacier National Park.

The exhibit, which formed a picturesque part of the Glacier National Park booth, in the property of Mrs. Margaret Carberry of Blackfoot, Mont. Mrs. Carberry devoted twelve years of her life in the United States Indian service as a school teacher. She has been twenty-two years gathering the 2,344 articles of Indian wearing apparel, every piece of which has been worn by an Indian.

Trading Woman, as she is known among the Indians, made her collection among eighteen tribes in New Mexico, Arizona, Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana. She has the gala and ordinary attire which were worn by the tribes of the Sioux, Piegans, Chipewas, Modoc, Comanches, Shoshone, Arapaho, Moki and Cheyenne nations. One of the most prized things in her collection is the complete "full dress suit" of the late Little Plume, a noted warrior, which was worn for the last time by Little Plume in the Roosevelt inaugural parade in Washington. Little Plume was proudest in this attire on that occasion when President Roosevelt saluted him as the Indian chief passed the reviewing stand before the Great White Chief of the nation.

This is the first time Mrs. Carberry's exhibit ever was displayed. The Smithsonian institution has endeavored to get possession of the collection, but Trading Woman would not sell a single moccasin. She does not even attempt to fix a financial value on it. In fact, she is so solicitous about the safety of the collection that she insured it for $15,000 against fire and Louie W. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern railway, who induced her to bring it to Chicago, agreed to hire two night watchmen to guard it before she would even consent to ship the stuff to the Chicago show.

The seven Blackfoot Indians who were guests at the land show took turns staying in the booth to keep an eye upon the passing throngs during show hours.

There is one string of 150 elk teeth in the collection.

Minna von Bornhelm.

With an unsurpassed cast, special scenic effects, high class music and gorgeous costumes an old, ever-popular German drama of four big acts is to be presented in Salem. The play was written by Gotthold Ephraim Lessing, while acting as foreign member of the Berlin Academy of Sciences, and was immediately recognized for its powerful depiction of German life and sentiment. The plot reflects vividly and gracefully the great struggle and aspirations of the period immediately following the bloody seven year war.

The literary perfection of the play is hardly surpassed in any language. Lessing was a profound scholar, probably showing more of the philosophy of Spencer and quarreling more with Voltaire than any of his contemporary thinkers. The cast is composed entirely of Willamette students, and is conducted under the auspices of the Teutonia Club.

A complete English synopsis will be furnished of each act, so that those unacquainted with the German will be able to follow the story with ease.

Staged at the Grand opera house, January 24. The prices of admission are low enough to be within the reach of everyone. Seats on sale Friday morning at the Grand. Everyone loosen up and see the talk of Northwest literary circles.

The chorus of the Salem German club will render classic German selections between acts. Twenty voices.

Scene from Minna von Bornhelm, at Grand Opera House, January 24.

To Curtail Powers of the Courts

Olympia, Wash., Jan. 21.—To take from the supreme court its right to declare unconstitutional any act unless the opinion of the court is unanimous, is the intent of a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Pierce of Skagit county.

The Pierce bill provides that legislation cannot be ruled against by the highest court of the state unless every member concurs in the decision. By a vote of 20 to 10, the scheme to submit all bills for re-writing to a committee composed of the attorney general and two lawyers, was submitted to the judiciary committee today. This is said to mean its final as the supporters of the plan expressly asked that it sent through direct and not sidetracked to a committee.

The plan to spend $8,500 of the public funds by sending the entire legislature on a little junket around the state has been unofficially declared no good by a majority of the senators, and it will probably be blocked. Discussion of the matter during the recess since Saturday brought but the opposition.

The Civic Secretary.

There is a new official in American city life—the "civic secretary." He represents the link between education and life in the big cities. For a number of years American educators have been striving to bridge the chasm that seemed to exist between educational influences and the everyday lives of the people. By means of evening schools, libraries, extension lectures, and, more recently, civic, social and recreational centers, much has been done. It has remained to combine these connecting educational forces under one active officer, and this has been accomplished by the new position of civic secretary.

The "civic secretary" at Duluth, Minn., is appointed by the board of public welfare of that city, according to information received at the United States Bureau of Education. He has charge of all the local social-center work. Plans to secure the same sort of an officer are reported to be under way in several other cities of the Middle West. The official may not always be called the "civic secretary," but his functions are generally the same. He organizes educational extension work; gives intelligent and sympathetic aid to play and recreation; stimulates discussion of public problems; in short, he consolidates and directs the civic agencies of the community for the benefit of all the citizens.

In Superior, Wis., a "city exposition" is planned by the civic secretary, who is here called "director of the civic center department." In this city exposition not only the local industries but the educational and municipal institutions will have an opportunity to exhibit their methods and results. The exposition idea is only a single item in a large program mapped out by the director. There will be various social and recreational activities, lecture courses, civic and ward improvement clubs, and a social, civic and municipal matters.

EVERY CHILD SHOULD BE GIVEN THIS TONIC

When children have no appetite; when they are continually peevish and irritable; when they are restless in their sleep it is almost a certain indication that their digestive organs are troubled with worms or other parasites. This is a very common ailment and easily remedied. Physicians will tell you that nearly every child is so troubled at some time, and, in fact, many adults suffer in the same way. Among adults this trouble is invariably referred to as indigestion, when in reality it is due to a small parasite which infests the intestinal tract.

For children, Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge is unsurpassed, as it is not only destructive to these parasites, but completely removes the nests in which their young are deposited. Seldom does it purge, and the improvement in the health of the child will be the first and best indication of the beneficial results of the medicine. Not only will the Vermifuge destroy all the parasites, but its wonderful tonic effects will restore the digestion which has been impaired.

For children, the addition of a little sugar will make it so palatable that they will take it readily. Millions of parents have praised it for more than eighty years. Insist on Jayne's; accept no other. Sold by druggists everywhere. Dr. D. Jayne & Son, Philadelphia, Pa.

HOW MRS. BROWN SUFFERED

During Change of Life—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. BROWN, 809 N. Walnut St., Iola, Kan.

Owes Life to This Consumption Remedy

It is beyond human power to perform miracles. The makers of Eckman's Alternative, a remedy for Consumption, do not claim that it will cure any disease to perfect health, but so many have voluntarily testified to have their lives, that all who have this dread disease should investigate and try it. It should stop the night sweats, reduce fever, promote appetite and in very many cases, prolong life. Read what is accomplished in this case:—

Catherine Ave. and Ascut Place.

"Gentlemen: In the Court, I. I. was taken with a heavy cold and a nasty cough, and went to several doctors, inquiring a specialist. Their medicines failed. I then went to the Catalkis, but the cough still kept up. I stayed there a year and then went on a farm near Jersey City, a very sick man.

"My brother then recommended Eckman's Alternative to me very highly. At first I would not consent to use it, owing to the fact that I had taken so many medicines without being helped in any way, but finally I consented. It is now nearly two years since I first took it. I am now cured and I dare say that if I had not been for Eckman's Alternative, I wish to thank you for the goodness to me. Wherever I go I highly recommend the Alternative, as I owe my life to it."
