Delaware Ratifies Income Tax

Washington, Feb. 3.—Ratification by Delaware of the constitutional amendment to tax incomes was reported to the senate today by United States Senator Richardson, who announced the receipt of a telegram from Delaware's secretary of state to that effect. This means that congress must now act, ratification by Delaware making the 36th state to favor the amendment.

RUMMEL A MUSICIAN OF DISTINGUISHED ANCESTRY

Nature has done much for William Rummel, the violinist, if it be true, as Emerson says, that a man is a quotation from all his ancestors. His grandfather, was the illustrious Samuel F. B. Morse, the inventor of the telegraph, whose early life was given to art. Many of his relatives in Germany have won distinction in musical circles, his great-grandfather, Christian Rummel, having been court conductor at Weisbaden, besides being a composer as well as pianist and violinist of note. He was a friend of Richard Wagner, who dedicated one of his compositions to him.

Mr. Rummel's father was the late Franz Rummel, the distinguished pianist of Berlin, whose achievements and reputation place him among the men of note in modern musical history. An enthusiastic critic recently said of Rummel, "He speaks our tongue. That is his music goes straight to our hearts, for he and his violin speak an idiom that all can understand."

Mr. Rummel will assist Miss Lillian Nordica at her concert here on February 12th.

After two weeks' illness with the la grippe, Dr. G. T. White is again at his office.

A Genuine Philanthropist.

J. C. Perry, proprietor of the pharmacy near the Portland, Railway Light & Power company's office, has posted a cheerful sign in his show window, extending a cordial invitation to the public to step into his place of business and wait for the street cars, which meet at the intersection of State and Commercial streets. Since the Portland, Eugene & Eastern company took over the Salem lines, there has been no place where street car patrons can comfortably wait for their cars, and Mrs. Perry's invitation should be greatly appreciated. The druggist stated yesterday that he was planning upon placing a comfortable seat in front of his store this summer, where people can wait for the cars and rest at the same time.

Groundhog Day.

Sunday was groundhog day, and according to the legend, as that animal came out and saw his shadow, he went back in his hole for six weeks, during all which time the weather will do all kinds of stunts except good. However, the shadow here was not very distinct as the sun seemed quite shy about showing itself and about all the ground hog could see was the penumbra, from which it is hoped that the weather-wise animal, whose correct every day name is sausage, may relent and consent to come out in half time, say about three weeks, or when the legislature adjourns.

Moose, Attention!

Big doings tomorrow night. Spelling match and introduction of new Moose orchestra. H. H. TURNER, Secretary.

A dispatch from Seattle says: "The carrying out of the order of the government to dissolve the Harriman railroad combination the officers of the S. P. and O.-W. R. & N. will occupy separate offices," and this is about all there is to the separation, anyway. The divorce is only "a mensa et thoro."

THIRD HOUSE SESSION THURSDAY EVENING

The most interesting, and, without doubt, the busiest session of the state legislature will be a joint gathering of the house, senate, press, stenographers and clerks, together with the third house in the hall of representatives on Thursday evening.

This session has come to be a regular event of the legislative period in Oregon. Numerous bills of a burlesque nature are proposed for introduction on that evening. That there will be a big crowd in the hall on that evening goes without saying.

No More Adjournments.

The report at the beginning of this week of the legislature is that there will be no more Friday adjournments. Speaker McArthur is especially determined to give Saturday to the work of the session. It was practically impossible to avoid adjournment last Saturday on account of the numerous committee investigations, and the trip of both members of the house and of the senate to Pendleton, and to the site of the proposed Cello dam.
