

BIG PRUNE ORCHARD FOR KAISER BOTTOM

One Tract of 160 Acres Just Set and Several Others of From 20 to 30 Acres.

One tract of 160 acres in Kaiser Bottom, four miles north of Salem, five prominent men of Salem recently purchased from W. W. Beardsley have completed planting it to Italian prune trees. The men who are developing the land are C. L. McNary, of the law firm of McNary, Brothers, ex-Mayor Louis Lachmund, John A. Carson, lawyer and member of the state senate, Julius Pincus, hop grower and dealer, and C. O. Constable, county fruit inspector and member of the city council.

Before being purchased by the Salem men the tract was sown to vetch. There is a theory among fruit men that vetch is of much advantage to the soil, giving a nitrogenous quality, which is considered essential for the best development of fruit trees.

The prune industry is continually growing in the Kaiser bottom section. Among other men of prominence who are extending their prune orchards in that section is Gideon Stolz, one of the city altermen. Mr. Stolz is planting 40 acres from the best stock to be had.

Fred Kurtz is planting 20 acres and E. A. Kurtz is planting 10 acres to the Italian variety on the river road, in addition to his present 30-acre orchard.

Jim Wilson, Frank Derby and C. F. Lansing, who have planted the Claggett places to peach trees, are beautifying the land by planting English walnut trees along the roads bordering the land.

BILL WOULD CREATE 47 FRUIT INSPECTORS

A bill now pending before the legislature which is of importance to the fruit growers of the state, and which is being watched with great interest is that for the creation of the office of state fruit inspector and assistant with salaries of $4000 and $3000 a year, respectively. Further provision is made that the head inspector is to appoint to work under his direction 45 subordinate inspectors.

Under the present system of fruit inspection in Oregon there is a total of only 11 inspectors. Only about one-third of the counties of the state are fruit growing counties, and it is anticipated that the bill will be stoutly opposed by representatives from those counties that are not producers of fruit.

C. O. Constable, fruit inspector for Marion county, is of the opinion that the law would be a good one. He says that there are enough fruit trees in Oregon to keep 45 inspectors busy.

SOME LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

During a momentary lull while Chief Clerk Drager was reaching for another bill after a bill had been passed yesterday afternoon, Representative Nolte of Multnomah exclaimed: "Mr. Speaker, are the gentlemen of the house aware that our time is costing the taxpayers of Oregon about $10 a minute?"

The house in these closing days of the legislature has been rushing through business so fast that even a few seconds inactivity is noticeable.

Reading Clerk Dudley Clarke of the house is out of commission with a boil located on his chin. Glen P. Holman is substituting for Clarke. The boil on the back of Speaker McArthur's neck is getting better, although it was not such a bad ball at the start.

Representative Belland of Clatsop county never neglects an opportunity to give the steam roller a rap. He was especially out of patience yesterday afternoon when the bill for an experiment station at Hood River was passed, as his own bill for an experiment station in Clatsop county, like all the others except for Hood River, was killed in committee.

"To get anything through this house," said Mr. Belland in an address "it seems one has to be a thirty-second degree member of the Oregon Legislative Steam Roller Association."

The house laughed and the leaders proceeded to oil up the bearings of the machine.

"Give me ten cents worth of dog meat," said Mailing Clerk McAdams in a State street market yesterday.

"Will you eat it here or do you want it wrapped up?" inquired the butcher. "No, I feed Bruno at home," replied McAdams, as he took the package. "Come on dorgie," he said to a homely cur that followed him out.

Several minutes later McAdams began to see a light. He leaned up against a phone pole and soliloquized: "I wonder if that darned butcher was kidding me?"

Late last night a number of temperance members of the house got quietly excited at seeing a big pall on the newspaper men's table, and the writers dipping cups into it and swallowing the contents of the cups with relish. It was just a pall of hot coffee from a downtown restaurant. Another sensation exploded.

During the discussion of a bill yesterday afternoon, Speaker McArthur was on the floor and Representative Upton of Multnomah in the chair. Some one moved the previous question, there was a second, and Upton in the interest of expediting business put the motion quickly and announced it carried.

All this time McArthur was on his feet vainly yelling, "Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker!" Then McArthur, pretending to be in a terrible rage, shouted: "Mr. Speaker, I demand my constitutional rights, etc."

It was a splendid imitation of the anger and words of Parsons of Lane one days last week.

Colonel B. S. Bush, heavy taxpayer and prominent citizen of Bull Run, who has been in Salem several days watching the legislature at work, has queried his candidacy for governor with ill-timed comments. He has proudly been proclaiming that he has taken the Oregonian for 50 years and read every issue.

These late night sessions are conducive to hunger along about midnight. Saturday midnight Upton of Multnomah went to the cloak room and fished two 35-cent club sandwiches from his overcoat. He unwrapped

Fried Potatoes "Cottolene" style

Did you ever eat French Fried Potatoes made with Cottolene? If not, you've never eaten French Fried Potatoes at their best.

Cottolene makes them rich and crisp and appetizing, but never greasy.

If you have been frying and shortening your food with butter, try Cottolene. It is every bit as good, at less than one-third the price.

If you are using lard for shortening and frying, we would simply suggest that Cottolene is recognized and recommended by leading physicians, domestic science authorities, and culinary experts generally, as being more wholesome, digestible and producing a better food.

Cottolene is a vegetable product—pure in source and making—and is bound to be better and safer than lard.

them on a corner of the newspaper table, and just then Olson dragged him away for a whispered conversation.

At this psychological moment Westlund of Jackson passed by and saw the sandwiches.

That's all.

Inskip, Ten., Feb. 2, 1913.

Board of Trade, Salem, Ore.: I have spent 19 years in Oregon, returned to my old home in Knoxville, Tenn. After traveling over many states I have made up my mind that Oregon is the finest country on earth. I lived near Salem on a farm, but I find a great many things I have forgotten in regard to the population of the state, the area of its farming lands and cities. Please send me some literature along that line. A great many people say they are going home with me when I go back to Oregon. I still own property in Salem. I have great faith in our city. I am in the goods business here in Inskip; farming in Oregon beats it all, so I will always have a good word for Oregon.

All that men could reasonably do for the safety of Captain Scott and his companions did, yet interminable and unimaginable hard luck conquered them.

DON'T WORRY

The American Magazine for February has the following article on worrying:

The worries of today are the Jokes of tomorrow. What are the incidents that you find funny now? Every one of them was a worry at the time it happened. You laugh as you look back at past worries. Well, why not laugh at the worries of today and tomorrow as well?

Worry doesn't get you anything or anywhere. There's no use worrying about things that are past. Whatever has happened is right or it would not have happened. The whole universe is run on harmony. Don't be concerned enough to suppose that you have done anything out of harmony with the universe. If it was, the whole world would soon get out of kilter.

There's no use worrying, either, about what's going to happen. Nobody knows that. Remember, too, the worst never happens. And why worry now? You either can help or can't help what you are worrying about. If you can help it, go ahead and do it and stop worrying. If you can't help it, what good does worrying do.

"But," you say, "I just can't help worrying." How absurd! Of course you can. Try this plan. Sit down calmly and ask yourself what is the very worst result that can come from your present trouble. Look it in the face boldly. Square your shoulders and say to yourself: "Well, if that's all, I can face that. Lots of worse things have happened to millions of other people, and they have survived. I guess I can."

Most worries are over more trifles. Probably George Washington's wife used to worry when he got home late for dinner, but what difference does it make to either of them now?

Get a Worry Book. Put down in it today everything that worries you. Look at it a week from today. How many of the things you are worrying about will happen? The longer you keep a worry book the shorter will grow the entries.

The Secret of Holding a Successful Auction Sale

The season of Auctions is now here (and during the next few months many thousands of dollars' worth of farm property will be sold at public sales in The Capital Journal territory. The prices at all of these sales will depend on various circumstances and conditions, but they will depend largely on how the sale is advertised. A sale insufficiently advertised cannot possibly produce the best results. A sale well advertised will always succeed unless weather prevents.

THE NEW AND THE OLD WAY.

In the old days when circulations were small, and it was impossible to reach all the people through the newspapers, it was necessary to use auction bills. But that day is gone by. Advertising is so cheap and so wonderfully effective, that the auction bill has become a back number.

In this territory the use of advertising space in The Capital Journal has superseded auction bills, just as it has altogether superseded the use of bills by merchants.

Why is this?

REASON WHY.

The Bill reaches only a few hundreds; the Capital Journal reaches thousands of readers.

The Bill covers only a limited section; the Capital Journal covers a large territory thoroughly.

The Bill is seen only by the people when they are away from home. The Capital Journal goes into their homes and finds them.

The Bill is not seen in bad weather, because the people stay at home; that is just the time The Capital Journal is more carefully read.

The Bill makes the busy man stop when he is in a hurry, in the wind and cold, and maybe take out his spectacles. The Capital Journal finds him at home in a comfortable chair, leisurely reading his paper.

The Bill must be tacked up and distributed—a day or two of hard work for a man with a rig. The Capital Journal distributes the same information to nearly every house all at the same time, without trouble or extra cost.

THE GREAT AUCTION PAPER.

Remember, it is not enough to simply put your ad. in some newspaper. It must be in a paper that reaches the People You Wish to Interest in Your Sale, and one which covers the Whole Territory. It is astonishing how far men will go to attend a sale and bid on some particular property advertised; these are the very men you want to reach, for they come to do business and not from curiosity.

YOU HAVE ONLY ONE CHANCE.

Bear in mind that all your goods are going to be sold in One day, and on that day depends whether you make or lose perhaps several hundred dollars. A few dollars' expense is absolutely nothing at all compared with the importance of advertising your sale Right.

You Cannot Take Chances on Scrimping on Your Advertising.
