PORTLAND.

THE BIG Broadway bridge at Portland was opened for traffic Tuesday with appropriate ceremonies. It marks another of the many great strides Portland has made toward the fulfillment of her destiny, toward that time certain to come, when she will be the biggest and most beautiful city on the coast. This may seem a foolishly optimistic statement to those who have not given the subject much study, but without being unduly optimistic we believe the future will demonstrate the truth of this statement, and that Portland will eventually take rank above San Francisco, Los Angeles or Seattle, and will be the metropolis of the Pacific coast. The immensity of the timber resources tributary to her, the fertile valleys lying like a string of emeralds, between the Cascades and the Coast range, the unequalled water power of the state that will some day place the state in the front rank as a manufacturer, her situation on the direct line of traffic between the Orient and our own east, and Europe, as well as being on the shortest line of communication between the great sixth continent, and her mother country, and more than all the great cleft in the Cascades, where Nature as though fore-seeing the needs of mankind, with mighty hand removed the mountain barrier, and sent the great Columbia pouring its majestic flood through it, to bear the commerce of the Inland Empire on its broad bosom, the Inland Empire itself, a veritable treasure house, all these are hers. The completion of the big bridge yesterday solidifies the city. There is only one Portland now; the Rose City of the world, the queen city of the Pacific, the crowning gem in the great ring of the northwestern states, the pride of Oregon.

THE ATMOSPHERE CLEARING.

THE city council thought better of it Monday night and allowed the city printing to still go to both local papers. We are glad it took this action, not on account of the few paltry dollars involved, but because the councilmen acted in a manly way, and considered the interests of the people rather than their own feelings. The Capital Journal realizes that some of the councilmen very naturally feel sore and bitter towards it. It also feels and believes that before long this feeling will pass away, and the councilmen will know that the Capital Journal's course has been correct. It has stood for the right, for the broadest publicity in all city affairs, for absolutely square dealing, for the city officials taking the people into their confidence, and against the system of dictatorship that has gradually grown up in the city council.

Councilmen have a right, as individuals to take opposite views on any subject to those of the people, but once understanding what the latter are, they should carry them out, for they are the people's representatives and should do the people's bidding even though it is against their own personal judgment. This, and this only, is what the Capital Journal has advocated. It may be that it has not at all times made its position clear, but if so, that is due to inability to present its ideas in perhaps the best form.

It wishes, however, to say once more that it has no personal feeling against any city official, and it calls attention to the fact that it has not impugned the honesty or integrity of any man. It has called some names—mild ones—but this was only in retaliation for names called it, and to show that it could say "you're another" just as easily and pointedly as any one else could. It has called attention to some political tricks, some sharp practices, but these things belong to politics, or at least are considered a necessary adjunct to American political affairs, but it has made no charges against any individual other than this political by-play.

It has criticized the council for raising the salary of the city attorney while he was in office, not because it objected to Attorney Page, or to the amount of salary paid him. The office is probably not now too high-salaried, but it was the principle of raising the salary of a person in office.

It has pointed out the carelessness of the city council, in permitting the charter amendment to be submitted with a joker in it.

It has pointed out with the aid of City Attorney Page, the bad condition of the North Salem sewer proposition.

It has criticized the action of the council in certain paving matters and some other things, but it is willing to submit to the calm judgment of the councilmen themselves whether or not its statements have not all been absolutely true.

The atmosphere has been somewhat cleared, and the council is, we think, disposed to get in touch with the people. We hope so, at least. We would much rather commend than criticize, and it certainly is better for the city if the council, the city administration, the people and the press all get on a common ground where we can all boost together for what the Capital Journal feels is the desire of all, a bigger and better and a more prosperous Salem.

We are all in the same boat, all interested in the same result—the upbuilding of the city. We can't accomplish this by pulling in opposite directions. When the council and the administration take the people into their confidence, show down their cards on the table, and play open and above board, then there will be a unanimity of purpose, for there will be nothing to criticize. If mistakes are made they will be the mistakes of all, and all will share the blame and get together to right any wrongs. The Capital Journal has taken the side of the people and it sincerely hopes that hereafter, it in continuing to stay with the people, may also be in accord with the entire city government, and the latter with the people.

TWISTING THE LION'S TAIL.

SENATOR CHAMBERLAIN has introduced a joint resolution to abrogate the Hay-Pauncefote, and Clayton-Bulwer treaties. He was moved to this, or says he was, by the English objection to the proposal to let American coastwise shipping pass through the Panama canal free.

The webfoot senator waves Old Glory and flourishes Yankee Doodle in the face of the Anglomaniacs and with a "give me liberty or give me death, or another six years in the senate, or any old thing," whoop up, he points out how England is trying to boss this country and how Uncle Sam will be prevented giving the coast-to-coast shipping free tolls through the Panama canal. He forgot to point out that the coasting vessels, or practically all of them, belong to one company, and that giving them free tolls, is simply presenting this shipping company that much money. Pulling the lion's tail and making him roar no longer amuses the American people. They are big enough and powerful enough to take care of themselves and jingoism and bluff are back numbers. Was the webfoot senator working for

That Tired Feeling

That comes to you every spring is a sign that your blood is wanting in vitality, just as pimples and other eruptions are signs that it is impure.

Do not delay treatment, but begin at once to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which accomplishes its wonderful results, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla, but because it combines the great curative principles of many roots, barks, herbs and other valuable ingredients.

There is no real substitute; insist on having

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The Medicine that makes people feel better, look, eat and sleep better; the remedy for stomach, kidney and liver affections, rheumatism, catarrh, scrofula, skin diseases, boils, debility, and other ills arising from impure or impoverished blood.

"I felt tired all the time and could not sleep nights. After taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a little while I could sleep well and the tired feeling had gone. This great medicine has also cured me of scrofula." Mrs. C. M. Root, Box 24, Gilead, Conn.

his constituents, or did he have the interests of the shipping company at heart?

A LAW THAT MAKES GOOD.

THE Illinois legislature has before it a bill that seems on the face of it to fill a long felt want. It provides that all children born out of wedlock shall be legitimate, and that the birth of a child shall constitute a common law marriage between the parents, and that it shall take the same procedure in the courts to dissolve such marriage as in all other marriages. No provision has been made for cases wherein one of the parties is already married, and this is made the one serious objection to the law. It would seem from this distance at least that the law needs no other additions, if the birth of a child constituted a marriage, then the law would be worse on married folks straying "from simple virtue's unadorned paths," than on unmarried ones, for by the act they would commit bigamy, and be responsible criminally, as well as in heavy damages to the other party. It is a law that would cause some thinking as "a condition precedent."

X-RAYS AND SMILES.

One of the catchiest pictures appearing in the papers is that of Miss Zelle Emerson, as she appears during the scrubbing act in the English prison. Zelle said when she left America that she was going to do things in England, and she is keeping her word.

The automatic switch on South Commercial street is one of the most valuable conveniences the P. E. & E. has installed since acquiring the property. This notice is a bit premature, the switch not being installed yet, but it is something like what we will say about it when it is installed, providing we are still alive.

Councilman Stolz should buy one of those Capital Journal dictionaries, and try to discover the difference between the meaning of the words "blackmail" and "criticism." Does the councilman from the Third imagine we have been trying to beat him out of his supply of bushings for vinegar barrels, when he charges us with blackmail?

Japan could easily declare war on the United States, but she will find that she has "bit off more than she can chew."

A public utility that company always kicks against the law; when any of its "inalienable rights" are touched is always the first to invoke it—and insist upon law and lots of it.

Fred Huffman, a 16-year-old boy broke into a restaurant in Ashland and stole nine pies and a lot of other truck. He ate some of the pies and smoked up several packages of cigarettes he had stolen before he was caught.

Cause for Alarm

Loss of appetite or distress after eating—a symptom that should not be disregarded.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, healthiest persons are moderate eaters. Nothing will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people contract serious maladies through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

THE OPEN FORUM

The Capital Journal invites public discussion in this department—Let both sides of all matters be fully brought out—it is not the purpose of this newspaper to do the thinking for its readers.

Indorses Capital Journal.

I feel the editors of The Capital Journal are worthy some bouquets. Not because they are doing more than their duty, for placing before its readers a principle of right and justice, but because they are right, inasmuch as they represent the interests of the people. It is the custom of the day to laud few as heroes while living, but after they have braved this life, in the face of sorest trials and bravest deeds, and have closed their eyes on scenes forever here, then they are remembered as heroes. No expense is spared for floral and funeral display, when the faithful are past enjoying them. I would extort the readers of The Journal, and everyone else, to learn of their brave efforts on the side of right to pay tribute, at times, with a floral display of encouragement in their "Open Forum." Help to hold up their hands by making known to them our appreciation of their untiring efforts. I think it something of great credit, that our city can boast of daily columns of the press, airing and discussing the problems of interest to every citizen and property holder.

Pains in the Stomach.

If you continually complain of pains in the stomach, your liver or your kidneys are out of order. Neglect may lead to dropsy, kidney trouble, diabetes or Bright's Disease. Thousands recommend Electric Bitters as the very best stomach and kidney medicine made. H. T. Alston, of Raleigh, N. C., who suffered with pain in the stomach and back, writes: "My kidneys were deranged and my liver did not work right. I suffered much, but Electric Bitters was recommended and I improved from the first dose. I now feel like a new man." It will improve you, too. Only 50c and $1.00. Recommended by J. C. Perry.
