GOOD LAW AND GOOD SENSE.

THE UNITED STATES Supreme Court has rendered a decision said it 'fess up, prevailed with them. by railroad attorneys to be of "momentous importance and alarming." In Lamar was stated in this language: this specific case the court held that, "a creditor of a corporation not a par- ly embarrassed often find it necessary ty to its re-organization, may hold its to scale their debts and readjust stock successor for the debt." This decision issues with an agreement to conduct has one really bad feature, and that is, that those who so ardently insist that erty under a re-organization. The decision referred to was handed down in a suit brought by a man named Boyd, against the Northern Pacific railroad. Boyd had a judgment against the Coeur d'Alene Railroad company for $125,000. The Northern Pacific company bought the road, and Boyd brought suit against it to recover the corded a lien on the property when the Northern Pacific purchased the road. that gentleman, in the mental condition dealers, To the layman, this looks like a very in their legislation, even in the way of Magazines to Be Circulated at the Pubsimple case, that, decided upon its merits, could have but one answer, and protest. It seems the whole thing was that, that the purchasing road was bound and that the Cocur d'Alene road ing of the bill. These numby turning its property over on a so-called sale to its daddy, which the Northern Pacific was. Yet this case was decided by only one vote, the court to citizenship may hold lands in the standing 5 to 4.

The dispatch from Washington announcing the decision says:

"Corporation lawyers who heard the decision declared it was a direct blow at the practice of re-organizing corporations to get rid of onerous contracts or escape payment of unsecured credit ors. Its effect, they thought, would be far-reaching."

Here is an open, free admission of the enstorn of corporations doing under handed work to beat unsecured creditors, which it seems the courts have heretofore connived at. When debts got "onerous," the companies found it more convenient to re-organize, swindle their creditors, and this by the very simple process of changing the name of the corporation while its ownership remained unchanged. In private life, if this were permitted, all John Smith would have to do to settle all his debts, and release his property from all liahilities would be to change his name, and travel under an alias.
