ENGLISH PAPERS TAKE CALIFORNIA'S VIEW OF IT.

THE BIG London dailies are having some fun at America's expense just now, and are playfully poking their fingers into Secretary of State Bryan's ribs as they joke him about his trip to California in the interest of peace and incidentally rub it in a little on the old man for being such an enthusiast over international arbitration. This can do the great commoner no harm, and will probably amuse him, but the comment is noticeable for one thing, and that is that the English papers all take the Californian's view of the situation, and hold that Uncle Sam is making several kinds of a fool of himself to pay any attention to Japan, as what laws concerning her lands America or any American state may choose to make is no business of any foreign country.

efficient body, ready to do the city's work, and to reach out after all things helpful to her growth. It is hoped this result will be attained not later than next week for, while we hesitate and delay, opportunities that will not come again are daily passing us by.

FOR SUNDAY EXCURSIONS.

AS the hot summer days are all due, none having arrived, the question of the summer outing is coming to the front. Those who are tired of the daily grind at counter or desk are looking with longing eyes towards Newport, the mountains, any old place where they can go and recuperate, by getting tired in a new way. While they are figuring on where they will go there are many, by far the larger part, who are not figuring on going anywhere, partly because they have no desire for a change of work, and partly because of the expense. Now while these latter are compelled, as it were, to stay at home, why would it not be a good plan for the steamboat companies to give Salem folks a chance for a regular Sunday outing, as it is doing for Albany folks? Why not run a steamer from Salem to points up or down the river Sundays giving Salemites a chance to spend the day out in the open. We believe that such a proposition would be well received, and that the steamboat company would not only do a good thing for the people, but would be generally patronized. A trip or two would demonstrate this.

THE ROUND-UP.

There are 92 names on the Portland city ballot for the June election. Five of these are for mayor, three for auditor and 84 for commissioners.

The grand old battleship Oregon is to be used as a target by the big modern dreadnaughts, but she will be spared until after the completion of the Panama canal.

Portland society is all "shook up" because a valuable handbag, belonging to a guest, mysteriously disappeared at a social function. No servants had been in the room, so it's up to some "sassy" dame to explain that it was taken by mistake.

A board of engineers is at Klamath to pass upon proposed changes in the irrigation system now being constructed at that place.

Fire starting in the dry kiln of the Wheeler lumber company's plant at Wheeler, Monday night, destroyed two kilns. A bucket brigade of 200 saved the mills. The loss was about $8,500.

Friends of Mrs. H. M. Hansen, of Newberg, are much worried over her mysterious disappearance, Monday.

Some of the big wigs of O. A. C. were over at Tillamook Monday telling the dairymen of that rich section how to make cheese.

The new Christian church at Pleasant Hill, Lane county, was dedicated Sunday.

G. W. Henderson, of Portland, has been elected superintendent of schools at The Dalles. The salary is $2100.

Miss Orsh Harkness, of Albany, graduated from the Columbia School of Expression at Chicago, Saturday, and is expected home next month. She attended the school 16 months.

The Pall Mall Gazette also takes a fling at the proposal that "The Hague shall arbitrate between California and Japan." It says:

"If it be true that Japan wishes to carry the land question to The Hague tribunal, we may shortly obtain a fruitful lesson in the practical limits of arbitration. If the Chinese and Japanese are to have free entry to the Pacific coast it means eventually the extirpation of white labor from that region. All the arbitration in the world will not persuade the people of the western states that it is their duty to give up their bread and butter to an alien race, and we can imagine how much likelihood there is of the government at Washington taking measures to enforce such an award against its own subjects. We should rather like to see the experiment for its usefulness in bringing dreamers back to hard facts."

Considering that that statement is made by an English newspaper, the most conservative press in the world, it certainly should have weight. Truly, as the Gazette says, it would be a remarkable sight that of government enforcing an award against its own citizens that would deprive them of their homes, or their means of livelihood. The California alien land law will become the law of the land, and Japan may as well accept that as a fact right now, for it is sure to come.

ARE MISSING OPPORTUNITIES.

WITH quick action needed both in the matter of securing the round houses and shops of the Southern Pacific here, and in getting the flax industry under way, it is unfortunate that Salem is practically without a board of trade. True, the board is still in existence, but just at the present it is in a semi-bereaved condition, trying to get itself adopted, or married, or something, and is not in condition to do good, effective work. This is indeed unfortunate, for the Board of Trade has always been active, energetic and wide-awake, and if it was in good working order now something might be done for the securing of both of these benefits for Salem. However, the Illihee club meets tonight and will, probably vote on the matter of combining with the Board of Trade in some shape. Until this matter is settled the Board of Trade is all at sea being neither 'fish, flesh nor good red herring,' until it finds out 'where it is at.'

Friday evening there will be another meeting to discuss the matter further of organizing a commercial club. Whatever the results of any or all of these meetings may be, it is pretty certain that in another week or two, out of the combination will arise a strong and ef-

PRETTY WOMEN ARE POLITICAL HOODOOS

Many Instances in Which They Have Been Used to Ruin Men Who Attained Prominence.

The failure of the attempt to bring political ruin and disgrace on Lieutenant-Governor O'Hara, of Illinois, through a pretty woman recalls instances in which such conspiracies were successful. In many cases the official kept the facts from the general public by resigning on a plea of ill health, but the politicians understood and again endorsed the idea that women can be used advantageously in politics.

The case of Parnell, the Irish leader, was one of the most notable. Parnell died disgraced, following the exposure of his relations with the wife of a member of the police department. Direct evidence has never been given that it was a frame-up, but it is easy to believe that such was the case.

Over in Montana the still talk about the governor who was hired out of the state by the inevitable pretty widow. It cost just a little over $100,000 to turn the trick. W. A. Clark had been elected United States senator by purchased votes. He faced expulsion and a frame-up was planned by which the hostile governor could be lured from the state, so that the lieutenant-governor could make the appointment. The widow was introduced to the governor, and they became warm friends. She explained that she was interested in mining claims in Nevada, and the governor was willing and anxious to tell her all he knew about mining. The subject was discussed several times, and after several weeks, when everything was ready, the widow wrote the governor and told him he was going to inspect the claims, and she knew of no one on earth who could better tell what they were worth than his excellency. It was finally arranged that they would meet in Salt Lake and proceed to the claims. The governor no sooner reached Salt Lake than the widow sent a couple of telegrams. Clark's resignation was received and accepted by the lieutenant-governor, and resignation of Clark made at once. The governor continued to Nevada, and they examined claims which had been purchased as a part of the conspiracy. It was not until he was returning homeward that he realized that he had been tricked. He was so exposed and ridiculed in the press that he was glad when his term ended so that he could retire into obscurity.

per concern at its own game of controlling the courts, and was in full possession of the legal machinery of Montana. As always, the copper trust had its knife ready for Heinze, and proposed to get back the money it paid him. Heinze was duped by a woman, who met him in a fashionable New York hotel, and was represented to be a wealthy heiress. She got the inside facts concerning Heinze's copper pool by pretending that she wanted to invest $50,000. In order to allay suspicion the trust furnished her with the money, and she turned it over to Heinze. Armed with Heinze's plans the Amalgamated proceeded to break the pool at the right time, and the result was the disastrous panic of 1907 in which banks crashed and ruined hundreds of thousands. When it was all over Heinze had only a remnant of his fortune and faced an indictment for illegal banking, the indictment being another of the Amalgamated's little ways of showing it never forgets.

The Judge Got Foolish. Heinze should have been wary, for the Amalgamated had used a fascinating woman to get secrets from one of Heinze's district court judges in Butte. The judge told her so much that he was finally forced out of office, disgraced and discredited.

Montana is not the only western state with peculiar political methods. All of them have had pretty women lobbyists, who have aided in carrying through legislation which was often not in the best interests of the state. The instances cited are more particularly of interest because the facts became public and were widely discussed. Some of the Salem old-timers could tell of instances of successful flirtations with the lawmakers. They are willing to agree with the man who said in reply to a question as to when man was not susceptible, that there was no particular age—that the youth, the middle-aged and the old man were all alike—all easy for the clever woman.

A man living at Auburn, New York, had a severe attack of kidney and bladder trouble. Being a working man, not wanting to lose time nor run up a heavy doctor's bill, he cured himself completely by using Foley Kidney Pills. A year later he says: "It is a pleasure to report that the cure was permanent." He has had no return whatever of the pain, backache and burning. His name is J. A. Farmer, and he says: "Of course I recommend Foley Kidney Pills as a very effective cure for kidney and bladder trouble." Dr. Stone Drug Co.

QUESTION MORE HOW THEY KEEP STRAIGHT

Rescue Worker Tells of Conditions Involving Girls and Startles His Hearers.

The Presbyterian Brotherhood enjoyed a chicken dinner last evening, and listened to an address by W. G. McLaren, the well-known rescue worker, of Portland. McLaren said the question in Salem and Portland was more as to how girls manage to keep straight in the face of the temptations, rather than why they go wrong. He told his hearers they should be alive to the needs of the times. He quoted statistics of interest and backed his statements as to moral conditions, especially in Portland, in a way that convinced his hearers. He gave his audience an idea of the great rescue work that is being carried on.

Benefited Many Who Had Tuberculosis

Those who suffer from Consumption are generally troubled with night sweats, fever, loss of strength and little or no appetite. Fresh air, good food and the proper care of the body are essential to a recovery, but in many cases something else is needed. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine which has been most successful in stopping night sweats, reducing fever and promoting appetite, and many who have used it declare it saved their lives. Investigate what it did in this case:

"Declaration: For four years I was troubled with cough, which gradually became worse; I had night sweats and rashes in my chest. I was losing my appetite and had become so thin and weak I could not attend to my household duties. A physician pronounced my case Consumption. Not being satisfied, I was examined by the physicians of the Polyclinic Hospital. They also pronounced the disease Consumption, which was proven later by an examination of sputum, as Tuberculosis Bacilli were found. I was ordered to a Consumptive Hospital. My nephew would not allow me to go until I had tried Eckman's Alternative. Before I had taken the medicine three weeks I had marked relief. Night sweats ceased, pain in the breast relieved, cough became loose and easy, fever let up and I commenced getting well. My health became normal. I am in excellent health now and have been completely cured for ten years. I strongly recommend it." (MRS.) MARY WASSON, Care Ed Green, 1728 S. 17th St., Philadelphia, Pa. Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poison, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for evidence. For sale by all leading druggists J. C. Perry, Druggist.
