For the Children A Small Parade of Very Little Children.

Photo by American Press Association.

The two mites in the picture were doubtless inspired to go forth in battle array by witnessing a parade of soldiers, or perhaps they remembered last Flag day. The warm sun and soft airs have made play in the house out of the question, and so they seek the open to enjoy the welcome springtime. The flag, symbol of the greatest nation of the earth, probably has no meaning to them beyond its brilliant colors. But they are parading, and that is all they care about at present. When they grow older they will learn the significance of the stars and stripes. Today their home is their country, and they have no wish to wander far. On Memorial day it may be their lot to see a column of veterans of the civil war marching to the cemetery to decorate the graves of their fallen comrades. But to them it will only mean glorious music and waving flags.

Conundrums.

If androus and coal bucket cost $7 what will a ton of coal come to? To ashes. What is the naval definition of a kiss? A pleasure smack. What is that which is often found where it is not? Fault. What does an artist like best to draw? His salary. What two letters of the alphabet make a philosopher? YZ (wisehead). Why are your nose and chin always at variance? Because words are always passing between them. Why are your bedroom slippers like a deferred resolution? Because they are put off till next day. Why is a man in front of a crowd well supported? Because he has the press at his back. Why is an engraver fearless of drowning? Because he is accustomed to die sinking. What word is there of eight letters from which you can subtract five and leave ten? Tendancy.

The Stork.

In Holland and Germany especially the stork is treated as a welcome guest, and there, as indeed elsewhere, it annually returns to the nest which has cradled many generations on the steeple, on the turret, on the false chimney that the Hollander has erected for its site. In a box or on the platform which the German has placed for its use. The stump of a decayed tree is sometimes chosen by the bird, and the nest is made of sticks and twigs, in which are laid from three to five cream colored eggs about the size of those of the common goose. The hatching continues for about a month, when the young are hatched. These are carefully attended by the parent birds until they are fully feathered and able to obtain food for themselves.

An Ancient Flame.

The ancient sacred fires have not all been extinguished. One still exists which was consecrated twelve centuries ago in commemoration of the voyage made by the Parsees when they emigrated from Persia to India. The fire is fed five times every twenty-four hours with sandalwood and other fragrant materials combined with dry fuel. This fire, in the village of Oodwada, near Bulsar, is visited by Parsees in large numbers during the months allotted to the presiding genius of fire.

Life's Best Thing.

The only really valuable thing in this world is character. Every organization of any kind—bank, corporation, manufacturing, church, government or society—is on the lookout for character. If you have it you need not fear that you will be overlooked, for the search is too sharp for character to conceal itself.—St. Nicholas.

Memorial Day.

Dear little girls, bring bright flowers In memory of those you once knew. Bring flags made of gay bunting And garlands of red, white and blue. Deck all the graves with sweet blossoms And say as you shed a tear: "Dear friends, we will never forget you. We will come again next year."

Dear little boys, bring bright banners To place o'er your friends once so dear. Remember the good in them only As you shed a fond, boyish tear. Forget not those who have left you. Remember they stand "in the light." Say as you plant your gay banners, "Dear friends, your memory is bright."

Brave soldiers, wave your loved banners! Play softly the fife and the drum. Ever remember your comrades. Oh, never forget to come! And as you march with the living In each beautiful month of May Ever bring flags and gay flowers To honor Memorial day.

Of old residents of Oregon, there is probably a greater proportion of old people than anywhere else on earth.

No doubt when all is done the tariff law will need a lot of fixing, but its framers must make an end some time.
