It is true that women more frequently suffer from kidney trouble than men. It is also true they suffer more intensely, owing to their more sensitive organization. Katherine L. Norton, New Bedford, Mass., says: "I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling left me, I felt toned up and invigorated. I am glad to recommend Foley Kidney Pills." They are tonic in action, quick in results. Dr. Stone's Drug Store.

JESTS OF THE JOCUND

WHY is a horse that can't hold its head up like next Wednesday?
"Don't know."
"Why, because its neck's weak."
"Oh, I heard that joke about a week back! Good night!"

The Wrong House. Two hard citizens were standing in a secluded spot talking confidentially. One of them suddenly sneaked away, while the other stood on guard. Soon the first one was seen to emerge from a window and join his pal.
"Did youse git anything?" whispered the one in waiting.
"Naw; de guy what lives in dere is a lawyer," growled the other.
"Dat's hard luck," said his pal. "Did youse lose anything?"

Same Here. "Prosperity has ruined many a man," remarked the moralizer.
"Well," rejoined the demoralizer, "if I was going to be ruined at all I'd prefer prosperity to do it."

Circumstances Alter Cases. "I am going to learn to swim this summer," announced Marion.
"I thought George taught you last summer," said her dearest friend.
"But I am no longer engaged to George."

The Reason. Owner of the Car—Why did you leave your last place?
Chauffeur—The guy I worked for went crazy—started shingling his house when his car needed new tires.

THE VANITY BOX

An exceedingly dainty boudoir set, consisting of three articles—namely, cap, slippers and garters—is developed in dotted net and embellished with lace ribbon and a delicate ribbon vine of tiny pink rosebuds and leaves. The cap is constructed entirely of the dotted net, lined with white chiffon and gathered on a plain, straight band of pale blue satin ribbon about an inch and a half wide, covered with heavy lace insertion and outlined with the rosebud vine. This band extends halfway around the cap and is met by a fringe of the net edged with lace, which finishes the back of the cap and produces the Dutch effect.

Lamb's wool soles form the foundation for the slippers. The upper parts are made of blue satin, covered with the net and finished with a rosette of blue satin ribbon, in the heart of which nestles a group of pink rosebuds. The garters are plain, round and narrow, made of blue satin, covered with net and ornamented with the rosebud vine.

The child's wardrobe is incomplete this season without a colorful frock.

DON'T TURN UP YOUR NOSE AT SARDINES.

Why is it that the sardine is spoken of lightly as a food to be eaten only when more desirable fare fails? Recently a paragraph in an English scientific magazine spoke of the food value of the sardine, of the fact that sardines seldom suffered deterioration from the tanning process and that the only adulteration possible in these sardines is the substitution of other fish, often minnows, and other oil for the sardines and oil generally used to preserve them. These adulterants are harmless—in fact, nourishing—and so are not to be dreaded. The higher price paid for the better quality of sardines usually insures the genuine sardine. Sardines have other good points. They are cheap. Nobody can gild them. They are not distressingly rich, and those who like them seldom grow tired of them. They can be prepared in many different ways without much trouble. Lastly, doesn't the popular comment "Packed like sardines" suggest that these fish must be always given in good measure? For baked sardines roll drained sardines in fine cracker crumbs, and sprinkle them with lemon juice. Then bake them in the oven until they are thoroughly heated, about fifteen minutes. While they are in the oven make a good tomato sauce, flavored with onion juice, and slices of this, whole wheat bread toast. Put the fish on the toast and pour the hot sauce over them. Serve at once.

Sardines can be made into a delicious salad. To do this bone and skin the sardines and mix them with an equal amount of cream cheese. Halve sweet pepper shells and remove pith and seeds. Wash and dry them and put them on lettuce leaves. Into each shell put some of the sardine and cheese mixture, and moisten it lightly with French dressing.

An Old Favorite As by the Shore

As by the shore at break of day A vanquished chief expiring lay Upon the sands with broken sword He traced his farewell to the free. And there the last unfinished word He wrote was "Liberty!"

At night a sea bird shrieked the knell Of him who thus for freedom fell. The words he wrote ere evening came Were covered by the sounding sea. So pass away the cause and name Of him who dies for liberty! —Thomas Moore.

The Home Beautiful A Drawing Room Suggestion

SUGGESTION for furnishing a drawing room which has a rather gloomy outlook is illustrated here. This apartment had soft green walls, with white moldings and a white mantel decorated with floral wreath and bow designs. A plain white wainscoting runs around the room to the height of about three feet. The light finish of the walls is charmingly duplicated in the upholstery of the furniture and the handsome rug on the floor.

HOUSEHOLD NUGGETS.

When pressing tucks in crepe de chine use a piece of tissue paper between the iron and the right side. The tucks can be seen and at the same time protected.

When next cooking bacon try putting it in a sieve and pouring boiling water over it. Then cover for a few moments with cold water, drying the bacon on a cloth before putting it into the sizzling frying pan.

A useful little article is an organ sign, made of a piece of cardboard, on which is written, "Inquire Within." Attach a string to this cardboard. If you put anything in the oven hang the sign on the door handle. It will prevent many burned dishes.

It is possible to have smooth hands even if one is housekeeper and dishwasher. Dissolve a spoonful of trisulphate in a very small amount of water, twenty-one feet high and twenty-three inches thick at the top. Its weight is said to be 217 tons. It has never been hung.

AT A GLANCE.

In the number of building associations Pennsylvania leads all the other states, with Ohio second.

The government printing office at Washington employs between 3,500 and 4,000 people, many of whom are women.

The gross earnings of the railroads in the United States in 1912 were well over $3,000,000,000. The net profits totalled close to $340,000,000.

The city of Dresden, Germany, has a prosperous newspaper (the Dresden Anzeiger) obtained without cost, which was written to it by a Dr. J. G. Gwentz. Its profits are used solely for beautifying the city and for charitable purposes.

The largest bell in the world is the great bell at Moscow, which is eighty-six feet in circumference at the bottom, twenty-one feet high and twenty-three inches thick at the top. Its weight is said to be 217 tons. It has never been hung.

POINTS OF ETIQUETTE

With very few exceptions, the expenses of a wedding are met by the parents of the bride or by the bride herself if she be an orphan. The parents pay for the bride's trousseau. They also meet the expenses of engraving the invitations, announcements and cards, with the mailing of them. The cost of music at a church during the wedding, the decorations at both church and home, the awning at the door and the servant at the church door are met by the parents. They pay for the carriage that takes the bridesmaids and brides to the church and for any reception or breakfast afterward.

If you have not a great amount of money it is foolish to make an expensive display in the form of a large formal wedding. Indeed, the tendency is apparent among many sensible people to make the ceremony simple and unpretentious. Unpaid bills and useless expenses are not a good beginning for a married couple. A wedding that entails sacrifice and hard work on the part of the parents should never be.

It is now no longer incumbent on the parents of the bride to provide her with her household linens.

This is an old custom and is observed as much as it is ignored. Marking on the contents of the linen chest, if this be provided, is in the form of initial or monogram of the unmarried name of the bride.

COURTESY TO CHILDREN.

Great injury is done not only to the present happiness of children, but to their future character and conduct, by lack of politeness in our intercourse with them. Their possessions are their own. How often do we forget that. They are ridiculous trifles, they are worthless and in our way, yet we have no right to throw them out and burn them without warning or consultation.

A sister's or an aunt's gentle persuasion will do much to gain pleasant consent to yielding up the treasures which encumber too much space or are hid down in improper places. A box or basket provided to hold these priceless articles and stones and once or twice a little pleasant aid in gathering them and the collector will be gained over to what he sees will surely preserve his property and at the same time the little fellow will have learned respect for other people's property and the proper way to ask leave to touch and handle.

While mothers are busy with their often overwhelming duties it often happens that to an older sister much care of the children who are able to amuse themselves is given, and here she will have a delightful chance to help them to acquire the attractive manner which is such a help in future life and give them practical demonstration of the comfort and joy of a home governed by courtesy to old and young alike.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

Riddles.

When is a schoolmaster like a man with one eye? When he has a vacancy for a pupil.

What kind of a robbery may be said to be not dangerous? A safe robbery.

What is the difference between 100 and 1,000? 0 (naught).

Why is a horse a curious feeder? Because he eats best when he has not a bit in his mouth.

Why is a banker's clerk necessarily well informed? Because he is continually taking notes.

Statue in a Tree. While sitting in a century old fir tree on the Simpson, France, foresters found in the heart of the trunk a bronze statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary. It was almost a foot tall and perfectly preserved. It is supposed that the statuette was placed in a niche carved in the tree and that the wood gradually grew around it.

The Old Wolf Wind. The old Wolf Wind is let loose in the sky. Howling and fierce and bold. He frightens the little cloud sheep on high into the Sunset Fold. —St. Nicholas.

Burning Without Fire. To cut a thread inside a bottle without touching it in any way is very easy, although it does not sound so. Tie a shoe laces to a thread, tie the thread to a bent pin and insert the pin in a cork. Now choose a large bottle of thin, clear glass and push the cork into its mouth, allowing the thread to hang down inside. Now place the bottle in a strong beam of sunshine and concentrate the rays upon the thread by a magnifying glass. The smallest of glasses will suffice to burn the thread. It is better to use black thread, as this burns more readily.
