Pretty Witness Missing in Case

White Slave Prosecution Balked Because of Disappearance of Evelyn Christine Neal.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 15.—Because of the recent mysterious disappearance of Christine Neal, pretty motion picture actress, who is a corroborative witness, the cases against Richard Hollingsworth and William La Casse, charged with contributing to the delinquency of Evelyn Quick, another motion picture actress, were not heard today. The new date set was October 16. La Casse and Hollingsworth were arrested during the recent investigation here of alleged white slave conditions that was featured by the arrest also of Millionaire George H. Bixby and others. Both are wealthy business men. Miss Neal escaped from the state reform school at Whittier. All efforts of the juvenile officers to find her have failed.

NINE IN MARATHON TO MT. BAKER'S SUMMIT

Two Trails Are Followed and Distance to Be Covered on Foot Totals About 45 Miles.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] What the Winners Get. First prize, $500. Second prize, $250. Third prize, $150. Fourth prize, $100. Time of last year's race, 9 hours and 45 1/2 minutes.

Bellingham, Wash., Aug. 15.—Facing the prospects of being unable to reach the summit on account of a raging blizzard, nine qualified contestants in the third annual Mount Baker marathon started for the summit of Mount Baker at 5 o'clock this morning. Running with them was Victor Norman, a well-known indoor racer of Seattle, who was disqualified before the race started.

Three of the contestants left the city in racing automobiles for the foot of the Deming trail, and after making the ascent, will return by way of the Glacier trail. Seven others, including Norman, were taken to Glacier in a special racing train of the Bellingham and Northern and will return to Bellingham in autos after making the descent on the Deming trail. The distance to be covered on foot is about 45 miles.

Magnuson, of Bellingham, who won the Deming trail prize last year, took the lead at Glacier with other following in close succession. On the Deming trail Jote Frankovic, who is touted as the winner, led his rivals. Only a short distance behind was Paul Westerlund, of San Francisco, who is expected to compete close to Frankovic for first money.

Lively Chase. Arriving in Independence, Arstall stopped at a livery stable, and was talking with several by-standers, when ex-Sheriff Minto and Sheriff Esch hove in sight. He then ran into the river bottom lands, and, for a time, it was hide and seek between the posse and the highwayman. Arstall had a gun on him, and would undoubtedly have used it had not the sheriff and deputy tricked him. While Arstall was running across a wheat field, with Mr. Minto in close pursuit, Sheriff Esch ran around and located himself directly in the fleeing man's path. The highwayman came toward Sheriff Esch with gun in hand, but, before he could realize what had happened, he was looking into the big gun held by Sheriff Esch. Arstall gave up grudgingly, however, and, for a time, the sheriff and the posse, which was a short distance behind, believed that there was going to be a gunplay between the highwayman and the officers.

Champion Willie Ritchie Starts for Canada to Defend His Title

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] San Francisco, Aug. 15.—Champion Willie Ritchie left here today for Vancouver, B. C., where, on September 1, he will defend his title against Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of England. Ritchie goes unaccompanied, but in Portland or Seattle he expects to pick up a couple of sparring partners. Ray Campbell and Percy Cove are in the north, and may be engaged to assist the champion. Ritchie has heard nothing from Harry Foley, his trainer, since the latter left for Vancouver, but anticipates that everything will be straightened out without much trouble. Ritchie looks strong and rugged, and will be in a good shape when he meets Welsh, barring accidents, as when he met Wolgast and Rivers.

When Welsh and Ritchie face each other in Brighthouse arena Labor Day it will be the first time since Kid Lavigne invaded England fought Dick Burge, the champion of England for the world's title that the championship has been fought on British soil. Lavigne beat Burge on that occasion, although Burge came in at catch weights, about 145 pounds. His victory brought to America the undisputed title of lightweight champion of the world, which has descended through Erne, Gans, Nelson and Wolgast to Ritchie. Previous to the Lavigne-Burge contest, the world's title had been fought for by Jack McAuliffe and Jem Carney. They were the champions of American and England, respectively, but they never finished their argument, the fight breaking up in a row at a time when Carney had a distinct advantage over the American. It was not, therefore, until the wonderful Lavigne, weighing about 125 pounds, invaded England with the determination of settling once and for all the question of world supremacy in the lightweight division, that the much-coveted title came to America. Owen Moran once had a fling at the lightweight title, but he was not the champion of England, as is Welsh. Moran tried to wrest the crown from Wolgast, but was knocked out.

SAYS TAMMANY HALL BRIBED FOUR MEMBERS OF STATE LEGISLATURE

Governor Sulzer's Adviser Declares Conspiracy Leaders Face Jail.

GLYNN MAKES DEMAND

Asks Sulzer to Relinquish His Office, But Governor Declines to Recognize His Claim.

BY JOHN E. NEVIN.

[UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] Albany, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Flat charges that Tammany paid cash for the four votes it needed to adopt the impeachment resolution in the assembly. They also used money to keep other wavering votes in line. We will be prepared to prove this before we are through. There are some gentlemen mixed up in this conspiracy who are headed straight for jail. That is all I care to say now.

Lieutenant-Governor Glynn's letter, demanding possession of the executive offices was formally delivered to Sulzer at 12:20 o'clock this afternoon. Sulzer will continue.

Glynn's letter declared that Sulzer was constitutionally disabled to act as governor. Sulzer declined to recognize the merit of Glynn's claim. He said he intended to continue to "exercise and discharge his constitutional duties of governor, first, because the assembly now in extraordinary session does not possess either the power nor the authority to prefer articles of impeachment, and, second, because the lieutenant governor is not authorized to act as governor in case of the impeachment of the governor unless the impeachment is sustained."

Sulzer suggested that the attorneys for both sides agree to a method of submitting the question to the courts. Sulzer admitted this afternoon that his wife's condition is troubling him. "Just wait until she recovers," he said, "and then we will have something to say to those damned scoundrels who are dragging her name into this case."

ARRIVE WITH CUP.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] New York, Aug. 15.—Maurice E. McLoughlin, R. N. Williams and H. H. Raekett, with the Davis tennis cup in proud possession, arrived here today on the liner La France. Williams and McLoughlin will go on to Newport, R. I., where McLoughlin will defend the American championship title.

Man Who Bunked Salem is Caught

Sheriff Receives News From Martinez, Cal., That Fake Soliciting Agent Is in Jail.

Sheriff Esch today received a communication from the sheriff at Martinez, Cal., stating that Floyd Nims, a fake soliciting agent, who bunked several Salem merchants and other business men, is serving a term in the jail at that city. The California sheriff does not state the nature of the crime the young man committed. Nims succeeded in winning the confidence of about 15 local people recently with a false blotted proposition. He offered to sell, at a very reasonable price, blotters showing conditions under which children labored and which also dealt with the child labor law. He professed to be a worker for the Y. M. C. A., and showed apparently great interest in the work being done in behalf of the child laborers. As yet, he has not delivered the goods and the people taken in have no returns for their good money.

TERRIFIC HEAT IS CAUSING DEATHS

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Omaha, Neb., Aug. 15.—Several deaths of babies were reported here today as a result of the terrific heat, the thermometer registering 104 degrees this afternoon. All building operations have been suspended account of the heat.

Heat Is Terrific.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 15.—Terrific heat scorched Nebraska today and torrid winds are blowing. At Omaha yesterday the thermometer reached 106. Here it touched 111 degrees and the average since Sunday has been over 100. In many sections corn is practically destroyed.

Cooler in Kansas.

Topoka, Kan., Aug. 15.—Today is the coolest here since July 23, although the thermometer stands at 97. Half an inch of rain fell today, and it is believed that the drought is broken. The water works company at Medicine Lodge reports that it is unable to supply the town with water.

Beef Prices High.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 15.—The drought and the tendency of farmers to sell veal rather than beef is given here as the reason for the higher beef prices which are already quoted here. Dresses beef today is selling at from 11 to 13 cents per pound to the packers.

Want Rain Prayers.

Topoka, Kan., Aug. 15.—The governor's office here is receiving hundreds of letters daily urging that he issue a proclamation calling upon all citizens to meet at a specified time and pray for rain. The governor is out of the city, but is expected to respond to the appeals when he returns.

MISS WARRINGTON'S COLD REPLY TO DIGGS IS TOLD IN HIS TRIAL

Refused to Fix Her Testimony So as to Help Him Out of His Trouble, and She Thought More of Her Parents Than She Did of Him—"It Is Too Late," She Told Miss Barton, Who Was Sent to Persuade Her--Government Rests Its Case and Defense Begins Introducing Evidence.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

San Francisco, Aug. 15.—"The government rests." The termination of the prosecution's side of the Diggs white slave case came with startling suddenness a few minutes before noon today.

Special Prosecutors Theodore Roche and Matt I. Sullivan and Attorney Robert T. Devlin for the defense, had carried Miss Lola Norris, Miss Nell Barton and Martin Beasley, friend of the Warrington and Norris families, through the final chapters in the quadruple intrigue which resulted in the indictments against Diggs and Caminetti. Bares Every Secret.

Even more composed and voluble than yesterday, when she bared every secret of her illicit entanglement with Drew Caminetti, Miss Norris today clothed the bare, sordid acts to which she admitted with the revealing relation of motives. She seemed even more girlish than yesterday, frequently looking to her father, who with a kindly nod of the head, encouraged her to spare no detail in ridding herself of her shame by public confession.

Martin Beasley, who has throughout the trial acted as sort of mediator and protector of the two girls involved, told very simply and plainly how pathetically eager they were to be assured that their parents would forgive and receive them with open arms, when he with Chief of Police Hillhouse discovered the quartet at the Reno bungalow. Attempt to Frame-Up Failed.

The frustration of the alleged attempt of Maury I. Diggs and his attorney, Charles B. Harris, of Sacramento, at the last moment to persuade Miss Warrington to perjure her testimony in order to shield Diggs and Caminetti after their arrest, was related by Miss Nell Barton, close friend of Marsha Warrington.

"It is too late," were the words ascribed to Miss Warrington by Miss Barton, when she carried the pleading message of Diggs and his attorney. "It is too late. I think more of my parents than I do of Maury."

Even in repeating the girl's refusal to further intrigue herself, the witness' words rang through the courtroom to where Diggs and Caminetti crouched low in their chairs. Witness for Defense.

At the resumption of the trial this afternoon the first witness to be called was to be W. H. Diepenbrock, of Sacramento, proprietor of a local theatre whose testimony was to support the contention of the defense that Diggs had actually been warned by certain Sacramento policemen that prosecution was imminent because of his relations with Miss Warrington.

Diggs himself, according to the defense attorneys, will be placed on the stand, probably late today. It has also been stated that young Caminetti, his boon companion in all the wild escapades charged, will be a witness for Diggs.

No Particular Object.

"Was there any particular object in going to Reno, rather than Los Angeles or any other place?" began Attorney Devlin, opening the cross-examination of Lola Norris when court convened at 10 o'clock. "Not that I know of," she replied. "Did you know that Diggs and Miss Warrington were intimate?" "Not then." "Were not you in Diggs' office when Miss Warrington and he were engaged in immorality?" "No." "Did Miss Warrington say to you when you came up to the room 'What are you doing here? Do you want to see a show and if so, why don't you buy a ticket?' Didn't Miss Warrington say that?" "Nor, sir," Miss Norris said emphatically, and repeated it, "no, no." "Did you tell your father and mother where you were going?" asked Devlin, referring to the Jackson trip. "I told them where I thought I was going, but Mr. Diggs took us to another place—to Stockton." "Did Not Call Her Piker." "Did Miss Warrington say you were afraid—you are a piker—when you demurred about going to the Grand hotel in San Francisco?" "No, Miss Warrington didn't say that." "And did not you go out to the beach resorts and race with other automobiles?" The court interposed and did not permit an answer. "When you talked to Mr. Roche this morning, was your testimony discussed?" queried Devlin. "No, sir." "In Room All Night." "Did you and Caminetti stay in the same room together all night in a San Jose hotel?" "I did yes, until we came out in the morning." "Did you rap on Miss Warrington's door?" "Yes." "On the Stockton trip?" "Yes." "Were you and Caminetti in the room several hours?" "I do not remember." "Did you tell your parents you were with Caminetti and Diggs?" "Yes, I did. They knew we were with the men, but they did not know who they were." "Why didn't you tell your father and mother their true names?" "Did Not Think Wife Wronged." "I knew myself that I was doing wrong in going out with Caminetti, because he was married, but I did not think I was doing Mrs. Caminetti such a great wrong, because I thought the time he spent with me would not be spent with her, anyway." "Did you parents ask whether or not Caminetti was married?" "No." "Miss Norris then related briefly several trips to Sacramento road houses, where the party of four had drinks. The full extent of the admitted deception of her parents by Miss Norris was curtailed by Judge Van Fleet, who held it was immaterial. Does Not Remember Warrant. The witness was then shown a purported warrant by Attorney Devlin, and asked if she was not served with it on the train returning from Reno. "I do not remember," she said. "We girls used to go out for little walks occasionally for a few blocks from the Reno cottage," she continued in reply to interrogations, which reverted to the escapade which led to the arrest of the four. Miss Norris told about how Miss Warrington and Diggs had gone out to purchase a night gown for her while at the Riverside hotel in Reno. "Did you girls, after returning to Sacramento, discuss the reconciliations between Mr. and Mrs. Diggs and Mr. and Mrs. Caminetti? Did not Miss Warrington say after that, 'If I can't have him now, no one else can; I'm going to send him to the penitentiary?'" "No," was the answer. "She did not say that to me." "She Did Not Believe It." "When both men said their wives
