

LITTLE TALKS ON EVERY-DAY FINANCE

What Would You Do?

If confronted suddenly with a large opportunity, to grasp which would require more money than you have on hand, what would you do?

1. Are you in position, because of your relations with a good bank, to lay a business proposition before its officers and receive the bank's assistance?

2. The best way to cultivate terms of intimacy with this bank is to deposit your income here, check it out as needed, and adapt its facilities to your use.

3. The officers will gladly co-operate with you in laying your financial foundation.

FORMER INMATE OF ASYLUM IS MURDERER

Man Released Last February From Institution Here Slays Judge Taylor at Astoria.

FANCIED GRIEVANCE IS CAUSE OF HIS CRIME

Taylor Was Attorney for Mrs. Hansel When She Sought Divorce From Husband Four Years Ago.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE]

Astoria, Ore., Sept. 15.—Ex-Circuit Judge Frank J. Taylor, president of the state board of pilot commissioners and one of the leading members of the legal fraternity of western Oregon, was slain by Oswald C. Hansel, a Clatsop plains rancher, on Commercial street, near the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad depot at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

The shooting came as the climax of a fancied grievance which Hansel had had for years against his victim for what reason no one knows and the further fact that, four years ago, the judge acted as attorney for Mrs. Hansel in filing a suit for divorce, an action that was later withdrawn.

Without a word or a moment's warning Hansel whipped out a .32-caliber revolver and fired, the bullet striking his victim above the right eye, passing through the brain and causing instant death.

Throwing his arms to his head as though to ward off a blow, Mr. Taylor fell to the sidewalk on his face. The slayer fired two more shots at the prostrate body, both of them taking effect.

After gazing a second at the prostrate form of his victim, Hansel, tossed his revolver into the river and started to walk away. He was grabbed by bystanders. He remarked that he was going to the police station to give himself up.

On being asked why he committed the act, Hansel replied: "He separated my family." Later he said to the police: "Ask my wife, she will tell you."

Former Wife Says He's Sane. Since the dismissal of the first divorce suit, nearly four years ago, friends of Mr. Taylor say, he had not been connected in any way with the couple's affairs. Mrs. Hansel was granted a divorce on June 27 of this year, but her attorney in that instance was E. E. Gray.

Told yesterday afternoon what Hansel had said and that he complained of terrible pains in his head, Mrs. Hansel replied:

"He's just trying to start a scandal and is feigning insanity. Judge Taylor has not been my attorney for years and I never spoke to him in my life excepting at the time I brought the first action for divorce, four years ago."

Hansel is not insane and never was, although he tried to make people think so. He has had a grudge against Mr. Taylor for years, but why I never knew. He often threatened to kill the judge, but then he has threatened other people, including the members of his own family, who assisted me in getting a divorce."

Trouble in West's Office. During the past few years there has been more or less speculation as to whether or not Hansel was insane. He has been in frequent trouble with his neighbors and acted queerly, but in business matters he was shrewd. About a year ago he went to Governor West's office at Salem and became so aroused in reciting his troubles and threatening to kill people, he was committed to the insane asylum, being released from there last February. Since then he has made frequent visits to Astoria.

Frank J. Taylor was a native of Oregon. He was a son of the late Colonel James Taylor, an Oregon pioneer, was born on the family homestead at Clatsop plains, on May 11, 1851.

"CASCARETS" ALWAYS STRAIGHTEN YOU UP

If Costive, Headache, Bileous, Stomach Sour, Breath Bad—Clean Your Liver and Bowels.

Get a 10-cent bottle now.

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison of the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

ARISTOCRATIC BOVINES BOUGHT BY J. J. HILL

John C. Shaw is in receipt of a letter from his brother, Thomas Shaw, who is now in Europe purchasing thorough-bred cattle for James J. Hill, giving the information that many aristocratic bovines will be added to Mr. Hill's herd. The very best which can be found across the water are being selected, and the question of price is not entering into the matter to any great extent, as $2,000 has been paid for a bull, and others are being bought at correspondingly high prices.

The letter states that twenty-eight short horns and twelve Ayrshires have been purchased, and that the writer has visited many lands before buying the short horns, as he was determined to get only the best. He continues: "I am positive that we have bought the best herd of short horns that ever left England. The average price for them was $600, and for the Ayrshires, $350. One of the bulls cost $2,000, and was a 4-year-old at that. No one can tell me dual purpose cattle cannot be bred. The highest priced cattle in England are the dual short horns. Many give 10,000 pounds of milk per year, and at the same time produce the best of beef steers. I have secured twenty-two Oxforas and twenty-two Shropshire sheep, and Mr. Hill has cabled me to get three Angus bull, and I am starting tonight for Aberdeen, Scotland, to get them."

Before returning, Mr. Shaw will visit Holland for the purpose of obtaining a herd of Holsteins, and from there will go to France to buy French dairy cattle, a breed little known in this country.

Mr. Shaw was for several years head of the agricultural college at Guelph, Ontario, and was afterward an instructor in the University of Minnesota. He is the author of fifteen works on agriculture, many of them being used as text books in the different colleges, and is designated by James J. Hill as one of the best—if not the best—agriculturalist in America.
