SEVERAL ARE HURT IN WACONDA RUNAWAY

Muriel Smith Is Most Seriously Injured But Will Recover, According to Physician.

Twenty persons were jolted Saturday when a team of spirited horses hitched to a wagon in which a score of hop pickers were riding ran away and tipped the rig bottom side up at the Wolf Bros.' hop yards near Waconda. The party composed of men, women and children, was being transported to a nearby hop field in the wagon, when a dog ran out and nipped at one of the horses. The team lunged to one side causing the front wheels to cramp and throwing the driver to the ground. Screams from the frightened occupants caused the horses to bolt and they ran down the road toward the hop field full tilt.

The jolting wagon threw several people out, but the real damage took place when the team snaked its load, or attempted to at least, across a sharp sink in the road at the hop yard gate. When the team ran through the gate, the wagon bumped into the rut with such force as to cause the box to leave the running gears and the bed and load were hurled to the ground. Among those injured were Muriel Smith, Loren Smith, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Smith of Salem, Frank Vanatta of Brush Prairie, Wash., and three young people.

Although receiving a terrific fall on her head, Miss Smith is doing as nicely as could be expected, according to Dr. Harry Clay, who was called to Waconda to give medical assistance. She is somewhat dazed as yet, but the wound on her head will not prove serious, it is believed. Mr. Vanatta, the driver of the team, received two broken legs and other occupants of the wagon sustained many minor injuries about their bodies and faces. Dr. Clay states that there was not a person but what was bruised more or less, but with the exception of Miss Smith and Mr. Vanatta no one was seriously injured. The Smith family returned to their home here at 1549 Oak street Saturday afternoon and the remainder of the unfortunate party were housed at H. L. Eldridge's place near Waconda until they could be treated by Dr. Clay.

MARION COUNTY HOPS

but is a specimen in itself for an exhibit and along with their general outward appearance they have interior value equalled by none. This is a fact which is admitted by visiting merchants from California, New York and the middle states and the local merchants are overjoyed now that the crops are nearly all safe and sound.

Automatic Pickers Work.

Although not considered as yet a success from the standpoint of economy, the new hop-picking machines are being operated in some yards in this county, including the Horst yard near Independence. The big pickers perform the work speedily enough but it requires much picking over and sorting out by an especially selected crew of men and women to keep the hops clean of leaves and stems. The machines strip the hops and carry them on a revolving canvas to the hoppers. Before they reach their storage places, however, people see to it that all of the leaves and stems left by the picking devices are thrown to one side.

The new wrinkle in hop harvesting will be a fine thing if it can be perfected, but it is doubtful if they take the place of the human pickers for a long time to come. In other words, several pickers interviewed yesterday declared, with a broad grin: "We should worry."

Auto Trucks Used.

For the first time in the history of the Marion county hop yards, the gasoline auto truck is taking the place of the horse in transporting the hops from the field warehouses to the city and to the nearest railroad stations. The big trucks were busy all day yesterday scurrying here and there with bales of hops piled high and the growers declare that this mode of transportation is of great assistance in getting the crops speedily to their destination. One truck yesterday made five trips to a Polk county yard and returned to this city with 65 bales. With a team and wagon it would have required two days to make this many trips to this city from the yard in question, which is four miles from the west end of the steel bridge.

With the new branch railroads which have been constructed over Marion county during the past two years, the growers will have little or no difficulty in transporting their crops to this city and the expense will be comparatively small.

DISMISSAL OF PLIMPTON ASKED

Multnomah Union Demands Secretary of Printing Board Be Ousted Because He is Not Qualified.

The state printing board has received a letter from Multnomah Typographic union No. 55, stating that a committee appointed by it had reported on the matter of the appointment of Mr. Plimpton as secretary of the board, and found that he was not "a practical printer with at least five years' experience," as the law requires, and so the union objects to his being retained in the office. The board has taken no action in the matter, but will probably do so soon. Mr. Plimpton has been connected with the office for some years, under the late State Printer Dunaway, is familiar with the work in the office, and thoroughly competent to handle it, and if he cannot hold the office it will be on purely technical grounds.
