CITY NEWS.

Local barbers are "making hay while the sun shines" now. Hop pickers, with long whiskers are flocking home, and the nifty man behind the razor is having the time of his life mowing the crops.

Prunes are fine and the geese hanging high, according to August Huelstein and son. The postmaster and the cigar man made a visit to their ranch south of the city yesterday, and found everything in tip-top shape.

After rambling about some of Oregon's finest territory for a week, Jack McGlyn, night clerk at the Hotel Marion, has returned much refreshed and satisfied. Mr. McGlyn visited Foley Springs, sojourned at Belknap Springs and waded in Blue river. He took in the mining district near Blue river and enjoyed a general good time, and last night he was seen posted at his old stand behind the counter of Salem's popular hostelry.

According to Secretary Bynon, of the Commercial club, local people will celebrate the opening of the Panama canal by making a big racket. Secretary Bynon communicated with the Commercial club of Portland, and has made the necessary arrangements for the notification of the opening. Tooting whistles and ringing church bells in connection with various noise-making devices will be heard in Salem when the Atlantic and the Pacific are made as one.

The Willamette river is losing its bottom, according to the old time rivermen and launch owners. They declare that the water is so low that a small launch can hardly navigate the river in certain places. This is rather unusual at this time of the year, as the records at the O. C. T. company's dock show that the stage of the Willamette at this time of the year heretofore has been much higher.

William Petzel, administrator of the estate of the late Joe Petzel, yesterday afternoon commenced an action for damages in the circuit court against the Oregon Electric company. It is alleged in the complaint that the defendant company operated a train at a great rate of speed without giving due warning that it was approaching a motor truck in which Joe Petzel was riding, and who was killed as a result of the train running into the truck. $7500 damages are asked for in the complaint. G. B. Traak and J. D. Densmore are also complainants against the company in a separate suit filed to recover $3100 damages alleged to be due on account of the defendant's train running into the truck while being operated negligently.

NEW YORK APPLAUDS ALDA.

Mme. Frances Alda made her first appearance at the Metropolitan Opera house this season on December 11, in one of her favorite roles, that of Mimi in "Boheme."

When Alda first came to the Metropolitan a few years ago, she was at once recognized as the possessor of a voice of exceptional beauty. That the prima donna is also fortunate enough to possess abundant intelligence and an unbounded capacity for hard work is evidenced by the manner in which her art had broadened since her debut here.

The following excerpts from the New York press show with what appreciation the diva was received on her appearance. If ever before she has sung so well at the Metropolitan as she did last night, then the occasion escapes memory, and the huge audience appreciated her work. She resisted temptations to force her voice, singing with repose and beauty of tone. Her phrasing was musical and she sang her first
