PORTLAND SENDS GREAT CROWDS TO STATE FAIR

ANOTHER GIGANTIC IRON WORKERS' DYNAMITE CONSPIRACY IS UNEARTHED

PORTLAND DAY BIG ONE AT FAIR

Travel Here by Train and Auto, and, Although Attendance Is Not as Large as Salem Day, It Is Bigger Than Monday or Tuesday--Percherons Re-Judged Because Wrong Man Performed Job--Willamette Valley Representatives Hold a Meeting and Discuss Exhibit in San Francisco--Combined Exhibit Best--Another Meeting October 30.

The crowd at the fair grounds, while not as large as yesterday, continues to be of massive proportions. This being Portland day, the citizens of the state's metropolis are very much in evidence. The members of the Portland Transportation Club are here in full force, and are easily designated by their white hats with red ribbon hat bands, bearing the club's name. All the morning trains, and especially those from Portland, brought throngs of outsiders to the grounds, and the matemen had their hands full all day. Large numbers have been visiting all the departments, and the smaller ones experienced great difficulty in caring for the crowds that desired to visit them. The tent where the Oregon Social Hygiene Society has its display became so crowded this forenoon that it was necessary to station guards at the door and admit visitors only as the others left. Percherons Re-Judged. The main excitement of the forenoon was at the stock judging ring, where the percherons were all being re-judged. Through an error, the blame for which cannot be placed, E. A. Harris, who has been judging the driving horses, judged the Percherons yesterday, and, following the awards, a complaint was immediately placed by John B. Stump & Son, a prominent breeding firm of Monmouth. Investigation showed that the Percherons, being draft horses, were listed to be judged by Leslie Smith. This morning, after a long wrangle between yesterday's winners and the fair officials, the ribbons given out were finally collected and the re-judging begun. The awards for the first lot of stallions reversed entirely the places ac-

DISBARS TWO LAWYERS WHO HAVE BEEN AFTER HIM FOR SOME TIME

Seattle Judge Takes Drastic Action in Case of Wells and Hoover.

SPURNS SUPREME COURT

Pays No Attention to Writ of Prohibition and Deals Severely With Several Socialists.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 2.—Surpassing even the most astounding exhibition ever given by him before, Judge John E. Humphries, of the King county superior court, sitting in Seattle, this morning without any warning whatever, summarily disbarred from the practice of law in this state, Attorneys Glenn E. Hoover, former assistant attorney-general of the state, and Hulot M. Wells. Attorney Hoover was in court to answer to a contempt charge laid against him by Judge Humphries for criticizing the court in a public speech. In addition, he appeared as the legal representative of others of the famous 99 whose arrests had been ordered by the judge. One of these 99, a man whom Hoover supposed was included in the list of those he was to defend, informed the court that he had other legal representation present. Roasts Lawyer. "What you butting in here for, then?" exclaimed the judge, pointing at Hoover. "You don't know that man and still you say you represent him. I'll fine you $100 and forever disbar you from the practice of law in this state." Hoover attempted to ask for an explanation but the court would not hear him. Then, later, came Hulot M. Wells who had signed a protest against the action of Judge Humphries in his treatment of Socialist street speakers. Wells went on the witness stand, in the proceedings against him for contempt and admitted that he had drafted the letter of protest that had been sent to the judge and that he had signed it. Wells Also Disbarred. "I find you guilty of contempt," said the judge at the conclusion of the testimony, "and fine you $100. Also you are forever disbarred from the practice of law in this state." Some of those cited by Judge Humphries for contempt, secured during the last day or two, orders from the state supreme court restraining Humphries

Murderer Schmidt is Examined for Two Hours by State's Alienists

Hans Schmidt and His Victim, Anna Aumuller.

New York, Oct. 2.—Disheveled and without collar or tie, Hans Schmidt, the confessed murderer of Anna Aumuller, was taken yesterday from his cell in the Tombs prison for an examination as to his sanity, conducted by four alienists in the office of District Attorney Whitman. Schmidt was closeted with the alienists two hours. Another examination by the alienists will be held Friday, after the coroner's inquest into the death of Anna Aumuller. On the report they make to the district attorney will depend the course to be taken in the prosecution of Schmidt.

The Weather

The Dickey Bird says: Oregon: Fair tonight and Friday; westerly winds.

HETCH HETCHY GOES OVER.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The desire of certain senators to debate the Hetch Hetchy bill prevented its consideration by the senate today, as had been requested by Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada. It will be called up after the senate has disposed of the tariff bill.

ROSE CRITICALLY ILL.

San Francisco, Oct. 2.—Ralph Rose, shotput record-holder of the world, a competitor from America in the Stockholm Olympic games, and local attorney, was critically ill today of typhoid.

Oldtimers Will Entertain With Interesting Dances Tomorrow

Friday will be Oregon manufacturers' day at the state fair, and a splendid program has been arranged for it, that will not leave an unemployed moment from start to finish. At 10:30 in the auditorium, C. A. Black, of the Union Meat Company, of Portland, will deliver the principal address of the day, and will give the farmers some valuable pointers as to raising stock for markets. Mrs. Edyth Tozier Weathered will tell how the payrolls of Oregon can be helped, how the building up of the home industries can be accomplished. Mrs. Margaret Longacre Connell and Mrs. Hallie Parrish Hinges will sing. Thomas Mann, president of the Oregon Manufacturing Association, will head the delegation arriving from Portland. One of the features of the day, and a most delightful one, will be the awarding of prizes to the dwellers in the tented city, the famous old camp ground, by the Manufacturers' Association. These will go to the oldest couple in camp; family traveling longest distance to attend the fair; family camped greatest number of years on the camp grounds. In the evening at the "Social Center" tent, the manufacturers will entertain the campers with an old-time dance. Lanterns will shed "the light of other days" around all, and old-time fiddlers, not "violinists," will "fiddle" the old-fashioned tunes. Many of Oregon's most famous pioneers have spoken for places in the "Virginia Reel." This will be for campers and their friends. The grand march begins at 9 o'clock, after the concert is over in the auditorium. It will be a noteworthy event.

ANOTHER NATION-WIDE DYNAMITE CONSPIRACY LEADS TO 2 ARRESTS

Partner of McManigal Jailed and Implicates Secretary of Iron Workers--Jones, Who Succeeded McNamara, Jailed--Davis Makes Confession and Says It Was Planned to Dynamite Non-Union Buildings Wherever Found--Confession of McNamara Spoiled It--Secretary of International Iron Workers' Union Arrested--McNamara Refuse to Talk.

New York, Oct. 2.—Following the arrest at the Hotel Breslin today of Geo. E. Davis, sought by federal agents for two years, Assistant United States District Attorney Wood issued a printed statement which said Davis has made a complete confession to participation in the McNamara dynamiting conspiracy and revealed many new details in connection with the affair. Davis admitted, the statement said, that he was a partner of Orrie McManigal. Davis, as a matter of fact, really has been the prisoner for three weeks of Detective Foster, of Louisville, who located and apprehended him in Pittsburgh. The two talked the dynamite cases over and then came here, Davis, according to Foster, dictating his confession on the road. Implicates Jones. On arriving in New York, Foster communicated with the federal authorities and the confession was elaborated. It implicates Harry Jones, who, as secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, succeeded H. S. Hookin, who, in turn, succeeded John J. McNamara. One of the most sensational assertions credited to Davis is that he was selected as head of an organization of fifteen dynamiters assigned to blow up every non-union building they could find in the country. Confession Upset Plans. The plan, Davis was quoted as saying, was conceived while the McNamaras were on trial and was intended to convince the public that the brothers were not dynamiters, inasmuch, being in custody, they could not be held responsible for dynamitings taking place during the progress of their trial. Their pleas of guilty, however, upset the scheme, the confession was said to state. The confession is most voluminous and was said to include many facts developed in connection with the McNamara trial. Attorney Drew helped the federal authorities in handling it. Davis, arraigned this afternoon before United States Commissioner Shields, waived examination and will be taken immediately to Indianapolis, where another hearing will be held. Is an Ex-Convict. The prisoner, who served a term under the name of George McDonald in the Massachusetts penitentiary under conviction of complicity in the dynamiting at Somerset, was wanted as a witness against the defendants in the Indianapolis dynamiting cases. Elected Last January. Jones formerly was financial secretary of the New York iron workers' local and was elected secretary-treasurer of the International organization last January. Assistant United States Deputy Marshal Merrill Wilson arrested Jones after Assistant United States District Attorney Clarence Nicholas had preferred the charges. United States District Attorney Miller is now in New York. He will have active charge of the New York end of the case.

Have No Interest in It. San Quentin, Cal., Oct. 2.—Neither John J. McNamara nor his brother, James B., serving terms in San Quentin prison for dynamiting the Times building in Los Angeles, would discuss the arrest in Indianapolis of Harry Jones, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, or that in New York of Geo. E. Davis. Warden Hoyle declared neither man showed any interest in the matter.

"We have no interest in this affair," John McNamara told Hoyle, "so what could we have to say about it? No, we have no comment to make."

John J. McNamara was secretary of the iron workers' organization at the time of his arrest in connection with the Times dynamiting.

Jones Is Arrested. Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2.—Harry Jones, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was arrested here today on charges of conspiring to transport explosives. This is the same charge whereon 38 iron workers were convicted recently in Indianapolis.

Jones succeeded H. S. Hookin as secretary of the Union. Hooking succeeded John McNamara, now serving a term in San Quentin prison for his part in the dynamiting of the Times building in Los Angeles.

McManigal Knows Davis. Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—Orrie McManigal, confessed dynamiter, admitted that he had known Davis.

CHILDREN GO UNBATHED FIVE MONTHS AND TUBS SUGGESTED

Stockton, Cal., Oct. 2.—Ascertaining through the report of the department of health inspection that many children attending the public schools have not bathed for more than five months, the Stockton school board is seriously considering today a plan to install bath tubs in many of the local schools. It has been suggested that pupils be given baths as a reward for good work and deportment. The medical inspector believes that soap and water form the best method of combating disease and that the schools should teach children to bathe regularly.

DEVILFOOT AND LAWSON MAILED AN EXPENSIVE BOOK TO SOLONS

Portland, Or., Oct. 2.—With the announcement that he had presented to members of congress perhaps the most expensive free book on the "high cost of living" ever published, Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston financier and writer, is here today, after spending a month on his eastern Oregon ranch. The book, which was written by Lawson, cost $10,000 and only 1000 copies were struck off. The concluding chapters were telegraphed from Oregon and treat of the currency bill now before congress, to which Lawson is opposed. Lawson stated that he had learned that "the devil was afoot in the currency bill."
