FEATURES OF THE INCOME TAX LAW

Minimum Exemption Is Placed at $3,000 Annually.

$1,000 MORE FOR FAMILIES

Additional Taxes For Incomes Above $20,000, Increasing Until the Maximum of 6 Per Cent Is Reached on the Excess Above $500,000—Penalties For Failing to Make Reports.

The income tax feature of the new tariff law, made possible by the adoption of an amendment to the federal constitution, marks a new feature in tariff legislation. It is expected to yield an annual revenue exceeding $100,000,000, which makes possible the reduction of tariff duties.

Under the terms of the new law a tax of 1 per cent will be levied on all incomes in excess of $3,000 with certain exemptions. The bill provides that there shall be "an additional tax of 1 per cent per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $20,000 and does not exceed $50,000, and 2 per cent per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $50,000 and does not exceed $75,000, 3 per cent per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $75,000 and does not exceed $100,000, 4 per cent per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $100,000 and does not exceed $250,000, 5 per cent per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $250,000 and does not exceed $500,000 and 6 per cent per annum upon the amount by which the total net income exceeds $500,000."

Individuals to Make Returns. Every person subject to the income tax must make a report of his income to the collector of internal revenue in the district in which he lives or in which his business is carried on.

In defining what shall be considered income for taxation, the bill says:

"Subject only to such exemptions and deductions as are hereinafter allowed, the net income of a taxable person shall include gains, profits and income derived from salaries, wages or compensation for personal service of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, businesses, trade, commerce or sales or dealings in property, whether real or personal, growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in real or personal property; also from interest, rent, dividends, securities or the transaction of any lawful business carried on for gain or profit or gains or profits and income derived from any source whatever, including the income from but not the value of property acquired by gift, bequest, devise or descent, provided that the proceeds of life insurance policies paid upon the death of the person insured or payments made by or credited to the insured on life insurance, endowment or annuity contracts upon the return thereof to the insured at the maturity of the term mentioned in the contract or upon surrender of the contract shall not be included as income."

The provisions of the bill for exemptions as finally agreed on are:

"There shall be deducted from the amount of the net income of each of said persons, ascertained as provided herein, the sum of $3,000 plus $1,000 additional if the person making the return be a married man with a wife, living with him and being herself not taxable under the income tax law, or plus the sum of $1,000 additional if the person making the return be a married woman with a husband living with her and being himself not taxable under the income tax law, but in no event shall this additional exemption of $1,000 be deducted by both a husband and a wife."

Foreign Residents to Be Taxed. The bill contains provisions for the taxation of the incomes of citizens residing in foreign countries on incomes derived from property owned or business carried on in the United States. The bill also provides:

"That if any person, corporation, joint stock company, association or insurance company liable to make the return or pay the tax aforesaid shall refuse or neglect to make a return at the time or times hereinafter specified in each year, such person shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $20 nor more than $1,000. Any person or any officer of any corporation required by law to make, render, sign or verify any return who makes any false or fraudulent return or statement with intent to defeat or evade the assessment required by this section to be made shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding $2,000 or be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court, with the costs of prosecution."

The first tax is to be levied and collected on incomes from March 1, 1913, to Dec. 31, 1913. Thereafter the income shall be computed for calendar years ending with Dec. 31.

The bill also provides that the income of states, territories or political subdivisions shall not be taxed, and there shall be no tax levied on incomes derived by states and municipalities from the operation of public utilities, but this does not exempt the corporation operating the utilities from paying tax on the portion of the income due to the municipality.

HE GOT HIS PRICE.

In Fact He Had to Have It and For a Very Good Reason. Today Hamilton had an experience with an editor of a weekly paper in Michigan when he was general press representative with the Barnum & Bailey show that gave him a new view of finance.

The big show was billed to appear at Owosso, Mich., and the contract agent with the No. 1 advertising car had failed to come to terms with the editor of a weekly at a little junction point twenty miles distant. Hamilton went to the little town, sought out the editor and prepared copy for a double column advertisement.

"I'll give you $10 and twenty tickets for two weeks' service in your paper, two columns, mostly cuts," said Hamilton to the editor.

"Oh, no, you won't! You'll give me $63 or the advertisement won't go," replied the editor coolly.

"Sixty-three dollars! Great Scott!" roared Hamilton. "That's more than your infernal paper is worth. I never give more than $10 and twenty tickets for our stuff in any country weekly. Man, you're crazy, stark mad!"

All efforts at persuasion failed. The editor remained obdurate. It was $63 or nothing. Finally in despair Hamilton exclaimed:

"Why do you make it $63? You might as well make it $103. It's just as unreasonable."

"I'll tell you, friend," replied the editor calmly. "I have a note coming due shortly for just that amount, and you have got to pay it."

Hamilton did. For he needed the advertising in that particular weekly, and the editor knew it.—New York Sun.

PLAGIARISM.

Only a Crime When One Filches From the Commonsense.

Plagiarize all you please, provided you steal from the right sources, for the secret of individuality is familiarity with the masters. The great geniuses were meant to be objects of plagiarism. To be plain, the more you absorb of a first class mind the more your own originality is fed. Plagiarism is only a crime when it is a theft of commonsenses from mediocre sources.

Let the young musician soak full of Beethoven, Wagner, Mozart and Mendelssohn. That is the surest way for him to find himself. To absorb comic opera music is the way to another, lose and kill himself.

Let the young preacher preach Bunuel, Robertson and Brooks. So doing, he will come to preaching himself.

As for writers, there is truth in the advice given by a great man that the best way to acquire a good style is to read Addison and exercise oneself in endeavoring to rewrite him.

You cannot plagiarize the Bible, nor Shakespeare, nor Homer, nor Dante, nor Milton. These have ceased to be men; they are humanity. You can plagiarize Shaw, or Brete Harte, or the last "best seller."

To imitate oneself from the masters is not the road to originality; it is the road to vulgarity.

"Few English authors," says Hamerton, "studied past literature more willingly than Shelley and Tennyson, and none are more original."—Frank Crane in Woman's World.

Prehistoric Man in Belgium.

Prehistoric man has been traced in several periods in Belgium, and M. Patot, a Belgian geologist, has made a novel attempt to estimate the population at different stages. In the lower Aurignacian period five of Belgium's numerous caves seem to have been inhabited, their capacity being fifty to sixty persons. In the Magdalenian period the population was probably sixty. Retreat of the ice permitted leaving the shelters at the close of this period, and the settlers on the banks of the lakes may soon have numbered 100 or 150. The coming of the Corvides forests perhaps developed a population of 1,000, which may have increased to 4,000 or 5,000 at the beginning of the polished stone age.—New York Press.

Whist.

Whist undoubtedly is derived from the old game of trumps, which has a purely English lineage. There is no record of the origin of this game nor of its development into ruff and honors, which was the parent of whist. The earliest reference to it is believed to be in a sermon of Latimer about the year 1529. The name probably is derived from the "hst" or "silence" which closed attention to play demands of the players.

JUDGE HUMPHRIES' IMPEACHMENT URGED

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 6.—The Seattle Star, today, in a prominently displayed editorial on the first page, demanded that Governor Lister immediately call a special session of the legislature of the state of Washington for the purpose of considering impeachment of Judge Humphries.

As an alternative, the newspaper suggested that the prosecuting attorney take steps for the elimination of the judge from the King county superior bench.

The editorial followed Humphries' statement, during the fire which damaged the Times newspaper plant here yesterday to the extent of $75,000, that the Socialists who had signed the petition of defiance against Humphries were guilty of arson and should be arrested.

Fire Marshal Harry W. Bringham this afternoon had discovered no evidence that the Times fire was of incendiary origin. He declared today it was caused by a gas explosion.

HIDES MONEY WHILE ASLEEP AND THINKS HE IS ROBBED

Pierre Walker, a street car conductor, is still being joshed by other employees as a result of the temporary loss of $36 belonging to the company. He had collected that amount on his car, and was unable to turn it in when he finished his run. He stayed at the car barns, as did many other conductors during the fair week rush, and when he arose from his bunk could find nothing of his money sack. He reported his loss to the company, and was informed that he would have to make good the amount. Although convinced he had been robbed, Walker returned to the car barns and again searched for the cash. He found the money stuffed in his mattress, where he evidently placed it some time during the night, when he was too sleepy to know what he was doing.

AN AMENDED COMPLAINT IN PRISON FUND CASE

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

The attorney-general is preparing an amended complaint in the suit brought by the state against Governor West, Secretary of State Olcott and State Treasurer Kay, on account of alleged unlawful use of money received from the so-called prison revolving fund. There is no claim that the money was not well spent, or that it was used for any purpose other than needed state work. The only question involved is whether the law was complied with in the expending of the money. Judge Kelly held last week when the case came up, that no allegation of damage had been made and that this was fatal to the complaint. The amended complaint is to cover this point. It will be up to the state in the trial of the case to prove that the state has been damaged, and this it will probably be pretty hard to do, as the state has benefited by the expenditure of the money rather than damaged thereby.

BOXCAR IS TORN TO PIECES IN COLLISION

A box car being pushed south by an Oregon Electric switch engine and a work engine collided on the bridge on the west side of South Commercial street here this morning, resulting in the box car being practically torn to pieces, and the work engine receiving a badly damaged pilot and motor house. The switch engine was pushing two box cars and a baggage car west on the main line track with a view to returning to the Front street siding. The work train approached from the south, and neither motorman observed the danger until the two trains were close together. According to the men on the work train, their engine was backing up before the switch engine and train struck.

SENTENCE OF FROM ONE TO TEN YEARS GIVEN

A sentence of from one to ten years was given Frank Toland this morning by Judge Kelly. Toland was indicted on the charge of forgery, and pleaded guilty last Saturday.

WICKED OLD ELEPHANT CAUSES GIRL TO BLUSH

The circus elephant at the fair grounds pulled a stunt not on the program late Saturday afternoon. A girl and her beau were passing, and the animal, which had been rather unruly for some time, grasped the lower part of the girl's skirt with his trunk and endeavored to tear her clothes off.

"Stop that now," the girl shrieked in a high soprano, while her escort yelled lustily.

An employee of the circus made the elephant release the girl, and blushing furiously, she quickly disappeared in the crowd.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE OF MURDER

Homer Yates, the man who shot and killed Mrs. Myrtle Hayes, near Fruitland, recently, appeared before Judge Kelly, this morning, and, upon advice of his attorney, Frank Holmes, pleaded not guilty. His trial was set for 9 o'clock next Monday morning. Yates' general appearance in court this morning was that of a haggard, worn out man. He sat with his hands clasped in his lap and did not bat an eye during the entire proceedings.
