

A Little Talk on Stoves

It's not so much the first cost of a stove that counts—but it's what it costs to run it. It's false economy to save $10 on the cost of a stove and then pay $5 or $10 a year more in fuel than is necessary.

The Real Estate Range

is, without exception, the best and most economical range we have ever found. As we make a specialty of stoves and ranges, Salem people have learned to take our word as to what is the most economical range. The many Real Estate ranges which are giving satisfaction in Salem homes is the best proof of our claims. If you will call and inspect these splendid products, and then try one in your home, you will learn what real range satisfaction is.

"The Mascot" Heater

is the best heater we have ever seen for the money. It has a heavy cast iron lining and base. Be sure to see it before buying a new heater.

SENATOR BOURNE GIVES GOOD ROADS ADDRESS

Importance of Getting Better Highways in State of Oregon Explained by Portland Man.

FACTS AND FIGURES OF INTEREST ARE PRESENTED

Work Already Accomplished Is Reviewed and Necessity of Concerted Action Is Pointed Out.

The big hall at the Commercial Club rooms was comfortably filled last night at 8 o'clock when the Hon. P. H. D'Arcy rapped for order and in a few well chosen words presented ex-Senator Bourne, who came to this city for the purpose of discussing his plan for federal aid in the establishing of a system of good roads throughout the United States. Without preliminary flourishes of any kind Mr. Bourne, in a conversational tone, took the end of the thread, so to speak, and rolled it off the spool and up on another, explaining in minute detail every feature of the plan, which is based on the fact that the general government can borrow money more cheaply than can the states. It can borrow for three per cent, while the states must pay four.

He proposes that the government arrange for the issuance of $1,000,000,000 three per cent 50-year bonds for road-building purposes. This money to be apportioned among the states in proportion to population, wealth, area and some other bases. Under this plan Oregon would get $16,000,000. The states could call for this at the rate of 20 per cent a year. To protect the government the state, when calling for the money, would issue bonds and deposit in the U. S. treasury the amount it desired to use. These bonds would bear 4 per cent interest, and would be payable to the general government. If Oregon, for instance, wanted to take advantage of the

Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

So Says Eminent Specialist.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, stomachache and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural, and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may involve most serious consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, probably the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops the fermentation, and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. Fermentation, wind and acidity are dangerous and unnecessary. Stop or prevent them by the use of a proper antacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids.—M. F. P.

law (and it is optional with the states to do so) it would, in order to draw its 20 per cent, deposit with the U. S. treasurer 4 per cent bonds running 50 years, in the sum of $3,320,000. It would then be advanced this sum. On this sum it would pay 4 per cent interest to the general government for 50 years, or if it took out the whole sum, it would pay interest on this in the amount of $600,000 yearly. Of this sum the government would use three-fourths to cover its own interest charges and the other fourth, or one per cent interest on the whole amount, it would put into a sinking fund on which it would allow three per cent interest, compounded annually. This would in about 47 years equal the entire principal. At the end of the 50 years the original bonds would be returned to the state, canceled.

The senator then outlined the plan of using the money which would be left entirely to the states, the government only supervising it to the extent of seeing that the money was expended on the roads. The plan also contemplates a maintenance fund, the government giving yearly 2 per cent of the sums expended in building, in keeping them in repair, conditioned on the state putting up the same amount.

He then went into the question of the results and estimated that the building of these roads would increase land values more than $70,000,000,000, and this with the other increases would add more than $100,000,000,000 to the wealth of the nation. He estimated that the saving in the feeding of horses and mules used in farming and hauling would amount to $3,000,000,000 a year. Space forbids going into the full details of the plan, but it seems well considered and feasible. It shows profound research and a tremendous amount of labor. Mr. Bourne has gone into the subject to its uttermost depths, an every phase of the matter has been considered. He has a remarkably keen analytical mind, and as he has figured out the parcels post and the postal savings banks, and shown that they are possible and profitable, it can be assumed that he is not making any mistakes in his good roads plan.

He was warmly applauded at the conclusion of his talk and was also heartily congratulated by his friends and admirers. He has already demonstrated that he is one of the country's big men and when his road building plan is a success, as it seems certain to be, he will be about as near the top in the public estimation as a man can get.

MEN ARE BARRED

Not a man, or anything that looks like a man, will dare show his face at the special meeting Mme. Pearl Tangley will hold for ladies only. Poor man, why be so cruel to him, Madam. Friday at 2:30 the doors of the Ye Liberty theatre will open for this special affair. Every lady in Salem is invited. If you have any questions of the past, present or future that you want answered or any personal questions, take them to the theatre Friday afternoon and they will be answered free. No men allowed and all male house employes will be excluded, even her manager. This will undoubtedly prove the greatest feminine event of the season and it will be interesting to go see the crowd at the box office, if nothing else.
