A WHITED SEPULCHER

JUDGE GARY, chairman of the board of directors of the steel trust, made an address to the American Steel and Iron Institute at Chicago Friday that deserves more than passing mention, for it shows more clearly than anything that has appeared in print recently in just what light such men as Gary, the heads of the big trusts that have robbed everything in the United States from the general government down to the babies in the cradle, think of the balance of mankind, those who have had to pay for the robbing. He declared the business outlook was hopeful, and called attention to the fact that conditions were better for, said he: "The rich are becoming more liberal and charitable and the poor more grateful for what they receive."

Judge Gary is brutally frank. He lays emphasis on the fact that things are getting better because "the poor are more grateful for what they receive." Why should they not be more grateful? They get less and less each year to be grateful for and if such highwaymen as old boss robber Gary had their way, they would get nothing but what would permit them to live and work. Why should they not be grateful to such men as this old whited sepulcher who says he is getting more liberal and more charitable?

He has been the recipient, the beneficiary of the most unjust and damnable tariff laws that ever disgraced the statute books of any country since time began. He has had his clutches on every industry and levied unholy toll upon it. He has stood the people up on the one hand with the connivance of the government, and made them pay double prices for their supplies and has always cinched and degraded labor. He and his kind have always denied to labor any portion of the vast benefits they received from the tariff, while at the same time demanding that this tariff for their protection be given them so they could pay their laborers the extra wage that had to be paid in this country. Where this old buccaner paid labor one dollar of the take-off, he got from the tariff, he kept for himself a thousand. Yet this self-anointed old angel gets on his hind legs and talks about the poor becoming more grateful for what they receive from such disgraces to humanity as himself. Then he talks of business being timid because of "ill-considered criticism by those not having the best interests of the nation at heart." Now does that not sound nice and patriotic, coming from a man who just a few days ago tried to hold the government up for armor for its warships and to charge more than three prices for the material? Does it not sound patriotic coming from him to talk of "ill-considered criticism," which, by the way, was the ultimatum delivered to the steel trust that it must meet German prices for turret steel or the government would buy in Germany. The German price was not quite one-third of that asked by this patriotic old robber and his brethren of the steel trust.

Again he says: "Capital, always timid, is seriously affected by unreasonable and uncalled for agitation and attack, and it is becoming frightened. Its confidence has been shaken."

This is undoubtedly true but it has not been shaken any harder than it deserves, that is that kind of capital. What it needs, is that the capitalists as well as the capital needs a shaking up, and one that would last them for some time. Judge Gary is not helping his cause any by his talk of the poor being grateful for what they receive, for it is a dead certainty that the poor do not receive anything from the piratical individuals of which the steel trust is composed.

PREVENT HAIR LOSS BY USING HERPICIDE

EFFIE CRESWELL IS HELD TO GRAND JURY

Woman Who Plotted to Kill Officers and Inmates of Industrial School Is Unconcerned.

JOKES WITH DEPUTY SHERIFF WHEN TAKEN DOWN TO CELL

County Juvenile Officer Says She Is Toughest Character She Has Ever Seen or Heard Of.

Effie Creswell, the young woman who was a star witness at the time Mrs. Mary Goudy was tried, and found not guilty, on the charge of conducting a bawdy house in this city, and who was "reformed" by Matron Lynch, and later committed to the state industrial school for girls, was held before Justice Webster yesterday afternoon by Constable Cooper, and charged in a complaint filed by Matron Hopkins, of the state school, with the crime of attempting to kill and injure. The girl waived examination, and Judge Webster bound her over to await the action of the next grand jury under $500 bonds. Mrs. Creswell failed to furnish the necessary bonds, and she was locked up in the lady's department of the county jail, pending the action of the grand jury, which will convene in December.

The charge which Mrs. Creswell now faces is a most serious one, and means long years in prison in the event she is convicted. She is accused by Matron Hopkins and Mrs. Baldwin of attempting to poison both inmates and the authorities of the state industrial school for girls, in this city, by placing and causing to have placed deadly poison in the coffee and tea which was served to the occupants of the institution Sunday, as told in yesterday's Capital Journal.

Gay and Unconcerned.

When brought before Judge Webster yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Creswell was seemingly gay and unconcerned. She simply waived examination, and paid no more attention to the proceedings, other than answering questions, than if she was visiting a friend. She left the court laughing, and greeted Deputy Sheriff Needham in the same manner. "I just can't stay away from this place, can I?" said Mrs. Creswell when Constable Cooper escorted the girl into the sheriff's office. "It seems that I like men pretty much," she said as Deputy Needham requested her to remove her hat and hat pins. When the deputy walked from behind the steel barrier with the big bunch of keys that are usually regarded with dread by most people on the verge of being locked up, Mrs. Creswell looked at them and laughed, and when she was requested to "go below," the young woman gave a skip and a hop and preceded the officers down the stairs, still laughing merrily.

Tough Character.

According to County Juvenile Officer Jackson, Mrs. Creswell is the toughest character she has ever seen or heard of. Mrs. Jackson, who has had much experience in dealing with wayward girls, declares that Mrs. Creswell is about the most hopelessly wicked girl she has ever had occasion to meet, and she considers the escape had by both inmates and authorities in the girls' institution was both narrow and very fortunate. Mrs. Jackson visited the school just 24 hours prior to the time Mrs. Creswell is alleged to have poured poison in the coffee and tea.
