The Markets

Hops have changed their center of movement from Oregon to California, and the market there the past few days has been quite lively. Prices have jumped up to 25 cents again and the indications are they will go considerably higher. Horst, in his latest bulletin, gives the American crop as follows: Oregon, 135,000 bales; California, 100,000; Washington, 40,000, and New York, 30,000; a grand total of 305,000. To this he adds importations from Europe of 20,000 bales, or in all, 325,000 bales. He estimates the amount necessary for American brewers at 275,000 bales, leaving 50,000 for export. The European crop is very short, according to all reports, and the supply is not sufficient for the world's demand. With these conditions it looks as though hops were certain to go to top prices.

Wheat remains unchanged and the demand is not clamorous. The demand for Oregon prunes is good, and potatoes are tending upwards. Several carloads have been sold at $1 the sack. The prevailing price is from $1 to $1.10, but this for "fancies," the common article going at 75 cents.

Onions are quoted at $1.75 f.o.b. at shipping points, and in Portland at $2.15 the sack.

COST OF HIGH LIVING IS RAISED UNDER LAW

New Tariff Hits Pocketbooks of Giddy, Gay Gadabouts Hard Blow At Every Turn of Road.

EVEN BREATH DESTROYERS WILL BE HIGHER UNDER LAW

Diamonds, Silks, Jewelry and Other Things Will Cost More Than Before Law Was Passed.

BY BOND P. GEDDES (Written for the United Press)

Washington, Nov. 7.—Up a notch higher, under the new tariff law, goes the cost of high living. It's going to cost more—and a lot more at that—to keep up the reputation of being a "spender." From "hoose," to bank balances, the new law hits the pocketbooks of the giddy, gay, gadabouts. Sprees, it is declared, will cost as much more again, or more, while the income tax strikes the bank balances and the better-than-the-average incomes.

"Joy riding" may be some slight cheaper for the man who prefers foreign built cars. But there are mighty few spots in the new law which offer solace and cheer for the chasers of the bright lights.

For the man who likes his "licker," the new law promises no financial relief at the bar. It is confidentially believed that the bars where you can now get them two for a quarter will sell them at fifteen cents straight. The new law retains, and on many items increases, the duty. The former rate of $2.60 a gallon on brandy, whisky, absinthe, cordials and liquors is retained. So is the former duty of 80 cents a quart on champagne. So also is the old "indirect" tax of forty-five cents a gallon on imported beers, ale, porter and stout. On still wines, the import tax, which the consumer will have to pay is slightly increased in some instances. About the only thing that sounds like an intoxicant and which doesn't carry the same, or higher, tax is "bibulous paper," and that is not a thirst quencher, but a stereotyping commodity. The Democrats did decrease the duty on sponges, though, from twenty to fifteen per cent. No, it's not that kind of a sponge.

But the friendly "bar-keep" may have to economize in keeping the little china dish at the end of the mahogany filled with the "breath destroyers," for cloves will cost two cents a pound, and cinnamon chips one cent a pound more, if the new import tax is tacked on to the retail price, which it will probably be.

There's one chance, however slight, for the thirsty man, who doesn't have to have red-eye or kindred strongs. By drinking elder it might be possible to save as much as one-tenth of a cent on a glass, provided you buy it in gallon lots and drink it at home, for the tariff on imported elder has been cut from five to two cents a gallon. But who wants to do their drinking at home?

But pity the poor millionaires. In addition to plastering a fat income tax on his purse, the new law, in intent at least, boosts nearly everything on the "high living plane." Diamonds are up ten per cent. Jewelry is up five per cent. Silks are up considerably, and so it goes.

The jolly "joy riders" have one consolation in the reduction by fifteen per cent. of the duty on cheap foreign automobiles, which cost less than $2,000. It also provides no tax on gasoline. Some more consolation is that if the "poor millionaire" is a horse fancier, he can still import thoroughbreds for his breeding stables without one penny of tariff cost.

But there is this to be said for—or against—the new law. The tariff on chickens has been cut to the limit.

LULU GLAZER WILL RECOVER.

SEEK FAVORABLE RULING

(UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.) Washington, Nov. 7.—Cocoa and chocolate manufacturers today argued to the Department of Agriculture that cocoa and sugar constitute "sweet powdered chocolate," although the department held that chocolate is ground cocoa without the fats removed and therefore it means it will cost the manufacturers more money to make it and sell it.

There are people who, if their brains were dynamite, wouldn't have enough to blow their own noses.

For pastry there is nothing to compare with

Cottolene

Cottolene "creams up" beautifully, always, and every cook knows what an advantage that is. It is always plastic and blends readily with the flour or sugar. This makes Cottolene especially pleasant to use in cakes, pastry, sauces, biscuits and the like.

Have you tried Cottolene yet? If not, do at least test it for yourself. You will then understand some of its many advantages. At the same time, do not forget that food experts advocate this wholesome shortening as reliable, economical and digestible.

CHICAGO

ROYAL RECEPTION IS PLANNED FOR FLEET

(UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.)

Rome, Nov. 7.—Arrangements were completed today for a royal reception to the officers and crews of the American battleships now cruising in Mediterranean waters. The American ship of war will make stops at all ports of note on the Italian coast. The battleships Connecticut and Kansas and Florida will anchor in the Bay of Naples. The boats will remain in port at those places until November 30. At both Naples and Genoa the streets today are decorated with American and Italian flags and banners. The ships will steam into the harbors full-dressed. Reception committees from the Italian navy will formally receive the officers of the American vessels, immediately anchors are let go. Banquets will follow in the evening. An almost endless program of entertainments for members of the crews as well as the officers has been planned for the entire stay. Under orders from the State and Navy Departments at Washington, the American embassy at Rome will do as little formal entertaining as possible, in order that officers and men may have more time for travel and sightseeing in the interior. This plan is a part of Secretary Daniels' promise to make life as a member of Uncle Sam's navy really attractive and instructive to the men as well as the officers.

It was formally announced today by Vatican officials that all details have been completed for the Pope to receive sailors from all four battleships in special audience. Special trains will convey the sailors from Naples and Genoa to Rome for this event, and after the audience they will be given as much time as is compatible with the rules of government of shoreleave, to see Rome and historic places nearby. It having been officially announced to the Italian government today that the Wyoming, Rear Admiral Badger's flagship, will reach Naples on Nov. 12, to remain only one day, plans were rushed through to accord the commander-in-chief of the visiting fleet and his immediate staff one of the greatest receptions ever given to the officer in charge of any foreign fleet. The Italian Minister of Marine, personally will be in charge. Among some of the features of the stay of the American blue-jackets will be a series of baseball games and other athletic events. If the baseball games the Italian naval officers will be guests of the American officers, the former having expressed a desire to witness exhibitions of the national game. Included in the athletic events will be boat races among crews of the ships.

DRY IN ILLINOIS

(UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.) Chicago, Nov. 7.—In all, nine towns, formerly wet, went dry; six wet towns stayed wet; in one town the vote was a tie; all other towns formerly dry stayed dry. Not one dry town went wet.

BILLY PAPKE QUILTS FIGHTING.

(UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.) Chicago, Nov. 7.—Billy Papke, "Illinois Thunderbolt," once regarded as a terror in the middleweight ranks, has decided that he is done with boxing.

The Kewanee middleweight, who won the championship from Stanley Ketchell, and then lost it to him, has written a Chicago acquaintance that he has decided to engage in business.
