HUERTA IS UNWILLING TO RETIRE

Dictator Will Stay in Office Despite Reported Decree of His Cabinet.

ENGLAND BLAMED FOR PRESENT SITUATION

Mexican Rebel Junta Tells Carranza to Get Busy, and Battle Is Expected.

Mexico City, Nov. 8.—President Huerta today summoned his cabinet to meet him this evening. It was believed he would announce finally whether he would or would not resign. A report was current that he had engaged passage to Europe, but his friends denied it.

Washington, Nov. 8.—It was rumored in Mexico City today that Huerta's cabinet had decreed his retirement. His friends said he would not do it. Probabilities seemed to be that he was waiting for European nations to join in the American demand for his resignation, that he might not appear to be yielding to the United States alone.

In Washington it was no secret that the administration blamed England for the present Mexican situation. Huerta was said to have made promises to the British government which the latter wished him to keep, and had therefore, encouraged him to resist America's demands for his retirement. The administration meant to insist that England keep its pledge to follow America's policy in Mexico. It was said John Lind told this to English Minister Sir Lionel Carden plainly last night.

Big Battle Probable. The Mexican rebel junta in Washington sent General Carranza word to "go in and fight." If he makes a strong showing, members of the junta believed President Wilson will leave it to him to overthrow Huerta instead of intervening. Carranza's men showed immediate signs of activity, and a desperate struggle was looked for in northern Mexico at once.

Reports that Huerta had recalled Minister Covarrubias from St. Petersburg to succeed him as president were unconfirmed, though it was conceded that Covarrubias would be a good man. The report that Huerta had resigned was not believed in Washington.

WOMEN BARRED FROM JURY BY SUPERIOR COURT JUDGE

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—Until the legislature changes the code, women cannot be jurors, Superior Judge Lawlor ruled here today.

J. C. Westenberg was tried for libel recently by a men's jury, which disagreed. He had accused social workers of graft in connection with white slavery cases. The matter was one, he said, which interests especially women. So he expressed that women try him. Judge Lawlor held the law specifically says jurors must be men.

Other California judges have held otherwise, and in San Mateo county several women were included in the last grand jury panel.

THAW AGAIN WORSTED IN NEW HAMPSHIRE AND MRS. THAW KICKS

Concord, N. H., Nov. 8.—Harry Thaw was given another setback in the courts here today when he sought freedom. Thaw and his mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, received the verdict calmly. They both said it was in accordance with their expectations.

"I am disappointed, however," said Mrs. Thaw, "that an executive who is empowered to rebuke crookedness and irregularities, such as were shown in the papers prepared by a hired agent, and presented in the name of New York, failed to take advantage of such an opportunity and thereby prevented us going home for Thanksgiving."

By an agreement reached between Thaw's attorneys and the New York representatives, the Thawites have until November 17 to file an amended habeas corpus writ with the United States district court. The new writ will charge that Thaw is illegally held. Governor Felker this afternoon ordered Sheriff Drew to keep Thaw in his custody.

CUPID INVADERS CAPITAL JOURNAL TELEGRAPH ROOM

Daniel Cupid, not content with taking pot shots at the man on the farm and an occasional city fellow, has invaded the hang-out of Fred Zimmerman, The Capital Journal's telegraph operator. Mr. Cupid evidently got in touch with Fred over the United Press wire, as the lightning-jerker waltzed up to the county clerk's office yesterday afternoon with Ivan Pooler backing him up, and demanded a marriage license, with all the side issues and frills necessary to make him the lawful husband of Miss Ethel Mae Bell, a popular young woman of this city. The ceremony is scheduled for 6 p. m. today. The Journal force extends its congratulations to Fred and the future Mrs. Fred.

Hearing of the occurrence this morning, Colonel Cradelaugh threw his hat in the air and shouted for joy. Why not? The solemnizing of Mr. Zimmerman's marriage means at least two good votes for the veteran newspaper man when the ballots cast for the next governor of this state are counted.

AGREEMENT HEADS OFF FURTHER STRIKE DANGER IN INDIANA

Street Cars and Interurban Cars Are Allowed to Run Once More.

TEMPORARY DEAL MADE

Unionists Start Working Temporarily With Non-Union Men, in Order to Aid Public.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 8.—Interurban cars were permitted to run into Indianapolis this afternoon pending adjustment of grievances between motor-men, conductors and directors of the various lines. Labor leaders said an agreement similar to the one which settled the local street car strike would be signed before night.

Danger had developed of a strike throughout the state, tying up all urban and interurban traffic. The Indianapolis company's helplessness in the face of the strike on its system and the evidences of an overwhelming public opinion in favor of the men was a surprise even to the union organizers. On the strength of it they began "working on" the interurban crews at once and quickly found them in a frame of mind to respond to the union advances.

Work With Non-Unionists.

The chief difficulty locally was the union men's refusal to work with non-unionists, of whom there were still a number in the company's service when the strike was declared. Strenuous efforts were made to settle the complication without upsetting the entire arbitration agreement, and, through the aid of Agent Moffitt, of the federal labor department, who arrived today to relieve Ethelbert Stewart, the unionists at length agreed to work temporarily with the non-union men.

This arrangement was only made, however, according to Organizer Thorpe of the International union, to cover

Bunco Ring Has Made Cleanups

Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Secured by Oakland Outfit With Aid of Police.

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 8.—That a bunco ring has been operating in Oakland within three blocks of the city hall for two years, and fleeced hundreds of persons of thousands of dollars by fake race horses, games, and mining investments, was the substance of information supplied to Chief of Police Peterson today by a prominent banker. These bunco men, he said, lure their victims into the very bank lobbies to give their schemes standing.

A letter which reached the chief's informant, signed "A Victim," was also delivered to the police. It charged that some of the Oakland police are concerned in the ring's operations. A sweeping investigation will be started.

BUSHEY WILL WAIT AWHILE.

Judge Bushey stated this morning that he would not issue an order declaring the result of the wet and dry election in this city until a day or so prior to the time such declaration is required to be made by law. November 15, or 11 days following the election, is the latest date upon which the county court may declare an election.

SANITARY CONDITION OF SALEM PLACES IS SHOWN IN THIS REPORT

Deputy From Dairy and Food Commissioner's Office Tells of Inspection.

SOME ODD COMBINATIONS

Cleanest Front of Place Often Coupled Up With Filthiest Back Room, It Is Asserted.

A deputy from the dairy and food commissioner's office was in the city recently, inspecting the sanitary condition of the markets, slaughter houses, bakeries, candy factories, hotel kitchens, restaurants and dairies. Deputy City Health Officer Hartwell accompanied the inspector in his visiting the places. This is only a part of a general sanitary inspection work the dairy and food commissioner has inaugurated that is intended to cover the whole state. Deputy G. H. Fullenwider, who did the inspection, says they find in almost every town some very clean places where it is very difficult to give the proprietor the full measure of credit that is due him. On the other hand, they find often times the cleanest front coupled up with the filthiest back room, in the form of kitchens, candy factories, rendering rooms or store rooms.

Local Board Does Good Work.

Deputy Fullenwider says the office which he represents wants to congratulate the local health board on the steps taken along the line of city inspection, and that a great work has been done in cleaning up the alleys, every stable and such places where filth accumulates very rapidly. He also speaks well regarding the groceries. Dr. Miles has planned to make a thorough inspection of the places where food products are manufactured and handled during the winter months, and expects to have them in much better condition by spring.

In the dairy and food commissioner's work of inspection a score card is

Seek to Cut off State's Supply

Union Officials of Colorado Plan to Head Off Mining of Product in Other Regions.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 8.—In an effort to bring additional pressure on the owners of Colorado's strike-bound mines, union officials were taking preliminary steps today to completely cut off the state's coal supply.

Their plan was to prevent the mining of coal in other states for Colorado consumption. "The federal courts could have held that it was a violation of the interstate commerce laws to stop cars carrying coal from state to state," said Vice-President Hayes, of the Miners' Union, "and we intend to abide by that law, but it is not a violation of any law if we can stop the mining of coal."

With a view to the execution of this program negotiations have already been opened with the New Mexican operators looking toward a unionization of their mines, and either Hayes or some one representing him, will leave shortly for Cheyenne to ask the Wyoming operators to mine no more coal for shipment into Colorado.

Simultaneously with this, the union's policy committee has telegraphed the union leaders in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, naming the companies which sell coal to Colorado, and the amount mined for that purpose. If the outside operators prove balky, it is the union's intention to reach them through their employees.

SPLENDID CORN EXHIBIT BROUGHT HERE BY BUSY CHILDREN

Every available nook and corner in the auditorium of the Commercial club taken up today with the different varieties of corn which have been placed on exhibit by the juvenile farmers in Marion county, and the show is one which every one should see from the busy business man to the industrious farmer. The display shows that Marion county land is just as capable of producing corn as that located in the "corn belts" of the middle west, and the success of young people have had in growing corn here can only be appreciated by looking over the tons of fine ears in the Commercial Club quarters.

This is the first corn show ever held in Salem and Marion county, and due to the efforts of the officials of the Capital National Bank, Superintendent Walter Smith, and others, it is now assured that the show will be an annual one here and the young folks both in the city and on the farm will be encouraged along this line as much as possible.

Some very suitable prizes for the best grades of corn displayed are being offered by the Capital National Bank. John H. Albert, president of the institution, offers $15 in gold and a blue ribbon for the largest display of high grade corn; $10 for the second largest display; $5 for the third largest display and the next ten contestants will receive awards of $2 each.

Professor Boquet, of Corvallis, highly praises the efforts made by the young corn-growers and states that the exhibit at the Commercial Club is among the finest he has ever seen.

WANTS TO FIND OUT HOW REPORT ORIGINATED

Washington, Nov. 8.—Congressman Richard Bartholdt, of Missouri, introduced a resolution in the house yesterday afternoon, calling for an investigation of a report that the administration recently sent an ultimatum to Mexico and of Secretary Bryan's subsequent denial that such an ultimatum had been sent.

"The publication of unauthenticated, unreliable news jeopardizes the national welfare," he said. "In a case where questions of war or peace and the property and life of a nation are at stake, its dissemination is dastardly—absolutely criminal."

"I understand that this particular piece of news was sent out originally by the Associated Press, usually a trustworthy source. It is because of this fact that it is doubly important to learn whether a willful mistake was made, or if the administration changed

YATES GETS LIFE TERM FOR KILLING

Slayer of Mrs. Hayes Is Found Guilty of Second Degree Crime by Jury.

HAS NOTHING TO SAY BEFORE HIS SENTENCE

Now Wearing Prison Suit at Penitentiary, Where He Is Taken at Once.

After hardly an hour's deliberation, the jury in the Homer Yates murder case brought in a verdict this morning of murder in the second degree and, upon defendant's counsel waiting time for sentence, Judge Kelly sentenced Yates to serve the remainder of his natural life in the penitentiary. Yates had nothing to say when called upon to arise and make any statement he saw fit, prior to the pronouncing of sentence. He seemed unconcerned when the clerk of the court read the verdict and, with the exception of a slight twitching of the muscles of his face, showed no emotion when the words that sent him to prison for life were pronounced by Judge Kelly.

While the insanity defense made by the defendant's counsel was not credited with any great importance, the jury and the court took some consideration of it. The court, in instructing the jury, did not give full credence to the testimony introduced by the defense for the purpose of showing that Yates was insane at the time of the shooting of Mrs. Myrtle Hayes, but said the contentions of witnesses could be taken under partial consideration in arriving at a verdict as to whether or not the defendant was guilty of willful and premeditated murder.

He Is Now in Prison.

The conviction and imprisonment of Yates was probably the most expeditious one ever occurring in this county. Last September Yates shot and killed Mrs. Hayes in a fit of rage occasioned over the home-coming of Mrs. Hayes' husband, who had been working in eastern Oregon. He was indicted by the last grand jury, convicted this morning and this afternoon he is wearing the prison garb of the life-term. Hardly two months elapsed following the date of the shooting before the defendant was committed to prison. Sheriff Esch committed Yates to the penitentiary this afternoon.

INDORSE UNITED ACTION IN STRIKE AT BIG SEATTLE MEETING

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 8.—Industrial unionism, championed by the railway workers in the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, scored its first victory in this year's labor congress, when united action in strikes was favored by a vote of 1213 1/2 to 1096 1/2.

The proposition, pushed forward to victory by the solid delegation of the machinists' union, was that strikes may be called upon the vote of 75 per cent of the international union, or two-thirds of the members involved.

This will force the remaining unions into line. If they do not accept the edict of the majority of the unions they will be ousted from the metal trades department. It is also provided that no single union can reach an agreement and send its men back to work until all the unions have secured a settlement.

some statement it had made, so late that it could not be recalled. "If the latter should prove to be the case the secretary of state will not hesitate to admit it, thus aiding to restore public confidence."
