DRUGSTORE-BLONDE FINDS LITTLE HOPE

Artificial Beauty Can Gather Very Little Comfort from Democratic Tariff.

PERFUMERY, COLOGNE AND OTHER THINGS BOOSTED

False Teeth and Bustles About Only Beautifiers That Will Come Into Country Duty Free.

BY BOND P. GEDDES.
(Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 12.—There's mighty little hope for the drug store blond and the artificial beauty, in the new Democratic tariff law. If not naturally beautiful or entrancing and the ancient and masculine partiality for the girl who classes as a "good looker" doesn't change, it's good night for yours. One thing seems evident and that is that the Democratic tariff framers did more to discourage the use of face paint and enamels and ghostly nose powders than all the mothers' clubs and reformers' organizations could have accomplished in a hundred years. Of course if your beauty can't be washed off, the tariff doesn't affect you. But if you got the color of your cheeks or hair from a drug store, and depend solely on artificiality for your beauty and attractiveness, you'd better make up your mind to ask father or hubby for a bigger allowance or prepare to be a "wall flower," henceforth.

With the exception of false teeth, talcum powder and bustles, everything from "switches" to cosmetics will cost more than heretofore because of increases in import duties. Paint and pastes, lotions and lozenges, powder and perfumery, sachet-smell and switches—in fact, practically all the beautifiers so dear to the feminine heart, have had the import duties increased—and therefore they'll be dearer. The beautifiers which haven't had the import raised, haven't had it lowered, so they'll cost as much if not more. Those Democratic tariff framers, if they are at all to be judged by their attitude toward artificial beauty, are as straight-laced when it comes to face powder and rouge, as the most inexorable Puritan preacher who ever, from the pulpit, denounced frills, furbelows and feathers. Taking all the increased duties on toilette accessories and striking an average, women and girls will have to pay from 2 to 5 per cent more than formerly for the following articles:

Perfumery, cologne, toilet water, sachet powder, all applications for the hair (including dyes), mouth washes, tooth pastes, skin preparations, tooth soaps, cosmetics, some face and body powders and many others.

False teeth and bustles, which latter are classed as "attire made of wire," are about the only beautifiers that will come in duty free. Nothing personal is meant by saying that a good many more women than will admit it will be thankful for these. The new law does decrease the tariff on talcum powders and some perfumed soaps and camphor. But the tax on musk, that seductive, overwhelmingly and perennially popular perfume, is boosted. Missy's powder rag of chamois will come in with a 20 per cent reduction, but as one of these lasts a mighty long time, the decrease hasn't produced an awful lot of cheering and applause. Yes, there is one other hope. The duty on manicure instruments has been shaved, so you can keep your fingers "pretty" as cheaply as before, at any rate.

WILL DISCUSS COFFEE CLUB NEXT TUESDAY

The matter of establishing a coffee club in Salem, similar to that now in operation in Eugene, will be discussed at a meeting of the Salem Men's Six O'clock club next Tuesday evening. Prof. E. C. DeCau, president of the Eugene Coffee club, will be here and will tell what has been done in the university town. The meeting will be open to all the men of the city, whether members of any church or not.

The movement to start the club is a result of the recent election, in which the saloons were voted out. It is believed that the Coffee club will furnish a place for those who desire sociability. The club at Eugene has been a great success, and is self-sustaining, it is asserted.

SECRETARY OF LABOR

cure a department of labor, and which did not succeed until the last congress. Fort Worth Wants It.

Communications from Governor Colquitt, of Texas, and several union officials were read at today's session extending an invitation to the federation to hold the 1914 convention at Fort Worth.

The report of C. L. Bain and Louis

Kemper, fraternal delegates from the A. F. of L. to the English Trade Congress, which met in September, 1912, was read by Kemper. Kemper then read a report on his own behalf, saying he had found that the political efforts of British trade in the United States had done much toward extending the cause of labor and that without the labor party the work of organized labor in England would lose much of its attractiveness.

Bain arose and explained that he did not sign the report because he was not in sympathy with the movement to establish the American Federation of Labor into political organization and that he realizes it was in support of such a move.

Seats as delegates were given to Jas. A. Morgan, of the United Mine Workers of Wyoming; William J. Donovan, of the Central Labor Council of Philadelphia, and Thomas B. Constant, of the International Steam Engineers. Constant was seated in place of Mat Comberford, who could not attend.

Knew of His Treachery.
It was learned at the convention today that President Gompers and other high officials knew of the double-dealing of Delegate Jacob Tazelaar, who was driven from the floor of the convention yesterday, three years ago, but could not convince the international of which he was a member of his shortcomings. At that time Tazelaar, who had been an American Federation of Labor organizer, was discharged from that position.

Thomas Greenall, of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain and a fraternal delegate to this convention of the A. F. of L., urged the delegates to adopt the policy adopted in Great Britain of combining industrial with political activity.

He reviewed the recent legislation beneficial to labor which has recently been enacted into law by parliament and said that labor bills could not have been passed without the labor members in the house of commons.

Will Buy Mines.
"We are going to nationalize the mines of Great Britain," said Greenall. "The bill is drafted and the plan has been worked out. We shall not confiscate the mines. We shall buy them at a fair valuation."

In urging a policy combining political and industrial activity, the speaker said: "In Great Britain we obtain the laws we need by political activity. We compel their enforcement by industrial activity."

Ivor H. Gwynne, Greenall's colleague said: "Trade unionism in England is on the upgrade today. Work is growing more plentiful. The difficulties of organization are much less than here."

IMAGINES HE IS MARRIED UNTIL MIDNIGHT HOUR

[UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE]
Albany, Or., Nov. 12.—For three hours Monday night T. A. Roberts, an Albany young man, believed he had been married legally to Miss Mabel Biggs, a prominent young society woman of Portland, who is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy A. Young in this city. The unique situation grew out of a joke played on Roberts as a result of a remark he made.

A few days ago friends of Roberts' were joking him about his attentions to Miss Riggs, and asked why he did not marry her.

"I will if you get her consent and get the license."

Miss Riggs was taken into the conspiracy and Monday evening, when several people had been invited to the Young home, Roberts was informed, when he arrived, that Miss Riggs' consent had been obtained and he was shown a license, apparently in due form. He was convinced that the conditions of his bargain had been met so promptly, and said he was ready to "make good."

President Crooks, of Albany College who was present, consented to perform the ceremony. Mrs. Young played the

How to Destroy the Dandruff Germ

By a Specialist.

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well known fact, but when we realized that it is also indirectly responsible for many of the worst cases of catarrh and consumption, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are, therefore, particularly pleased to give herewith the prescription which an eminent scientist states he has found, after repeated tests, to completely destroy the dandruff germ in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair growth after years of baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you: 6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Composes, 1/2 drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing half an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger tips. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. While this preparation is not a dye it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color.

wedding march, and Miss Riggs was given away by Mr. Young. Miss Isabelle Young was bridesmaid, and Harry Hawkins best man.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Young served a wedding dinner, and Roberts shared the opinion of some of the guests that he was legally wedded. He even telephoned to his mother that he had been married. It was not until the party began to break up at 12 o'clock that Roberts was informed the marriage license was a fake.

Can anybody explain why one town goes wet and another dry? Apparently the same sort of people live in both.

WINK AT SALESGIRL BRINGS HIM 20 DAYS

[UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE]
New York, Nov. 12.—On evidence that he had winked at a salesgirl in the waiting room of a Sixth avenue department store, Daniel Sager was sentenced to 20 days in the work house by Magistrate House yesterday. Two of ten other young men arrested by Detectives at the same time on the charge of flirting were sentenced to 30 days each. Eight other prisoners will be tried today after passing the night in jail in default of $1000 bonds.

The arrests resulted from the complaint of a young woman, who wrote to Police Commissioner Waldo that, when shopping recently, she had been insulted. The detectives were assisted by several salesgirls, who were assigned to places in the waiting rooms frequented by young men.

The crusade to eliminate the flirts, it was said, will be extended to other department stores.
