

A Sweeping Clearance of Women's and Misses' Stylish Suits---Prices Cut Exactly in Two--- Your Choice of Any Suit

Salem's greatest suit sale attracted many enthusiastic buyers yesterday, but dozens of beautiful suits still await owners. Every suit must be sold---we want to be rid of them now, and profit is entirely overlooked in our effort to clear the decks for holiday time. The suits are of broadcated wool poplin, serge, ratine, brocades, etc., and are in the popular colors of navy blue, brown, Copenhagen, Russian green, mahogany, terra cotta, taupe, etc. Beautifully made and finished---every one a worthy garment and well worth its regular price. Surely you can afford two suits at these prices. See the suits and you'll be convinced of the unusualness of this offering.

Saturday, November 15, the local high school football team will play Eugene high on the latter's field. The game with Eugene always creates the greatest interest, because of the close rivalry which has existed between the schools for years. The local team is planning to take along a full delegation of "rooters," and have secured a special train over the S. P., which leaves at 9 a. m. Special rate of $2.00 has been secured, which includes admission to the game. Every one turn out and cheer the team to victory.

Ben H. Williams, A. M., gave an interesting address to the students of the high school this morning, his trip through Europe last summer being described. He had an interesting experience, working his way over and back again on a cattle steamer. Most of the trip through Great Britain, France and Belgium, was made on foot, and, as a result, he got in close touch with the people. As the holder of the North-west record in the pole vault, Williams is best known in this section.

Dr. Mendelsohn fits eyes correctly. First-class dentistry at Dr. Arnold's, the dentist.

The parties to the case of D. C. Min-to and wife against the Oregon Electric Railroad company settled their dispute, according to a stipulation filed in the circuit court yesterday. The plaintiffs in this action brought suit to compel the Oregon Electric company to comply with an agreement made, in which the defendant was to establish and maintain a certain kind of crossing over its line in South Salem. The defendant has now stipulated to pay to plaintiffs the sum of $1200, and further that the plaintiffs may construct and maintain the crossing in any manner they see fit so long as traffic is not molested.

"Speed Kings" in Salem who are wont to tear up the atmosphere on North Commercial street, now stand a good chance of having their necks broken, according to residents in that end of the city. One man has already jumped the curb on the curve just north of the North Commercial street bridge and others are in a fair way of performing the same stunt if they do not slow down a little during the present foggy weather. The curve in question is a sharp one and last week a machine belonging to a well known local auto enthusiast left the street and tore across lots.

The remains of the late Joseph W. Fournier were buried yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in City View cemetery. The funeral services took place at the Lehman & Clough undertaking parlors and Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the Christian church, officiated. Services were conducted by members of the Yonama lodge, of which the deceased had been a member. Mr. Fournier was formerly a member of the Oregon National Guard, and in honor of his past services, a special guard was selected by Captain Gahbar of the local company, which escorted the deceased to the grave and fired the customary military salute. A quartet from the Christian church rendered special music.
