MORE BATTLESHIPS ARE ORDERED TO AID IN CURBING MEXICANS

[UNITED PRESS LEASSED WIRE.]
Mexico City, Nov. 28.—The navy department today ordered the battleships Kansas, Connecticut and Ohio, the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet, from the Mediterranean to Mexican waters at once.

It was said they were going only to relieve the second division at Vera Cruz but this was said also when the third division went, and yet both divisions stayed.

Satisfaction was expressed in administration circles at England's decision to waive its naval right in Mexican water in favor of the United States.

It was also evident that Lord High Chancellor Haldane, of England, had won officialdom's regard by a speech commending President Wilson's interpretation of the Monroe doctrine.

The president told a visiting English diplomat that he believed the British representatives had exaggerated the seriousness of the situation in Mexico's Tuxpan-Tampico oil district. He owned he was afraid some foreign property would be destroyed, but said the rebels had promised to pay for it.

General Villa reviewed his rebel troops at Juarez and prepared to lead 12,000 men, first against Chihuahua City and then against Mexico City.

Juarez citizens are glad of this, for their refusal to accept rebel money has brought threats of confiscation from Villa and of looting from his men.

The food and fuel shortage in Mexico City near the proportions of actual famine and it was admitted that a typhoid epidemic had broken out.

Desperate efforts were made to rescue a high federal officer's wife, caught by guerrillas south of Mexico City and subjected to frightful indignities.

The insurrection government announced it would soon begin admitting American cotton duty free to keep the mills going.

General Aguilar and General Gonzalez rebels were reported joining to attack Tampico.

Several small battles were reported, some ending in rebel and some in federal victories.

PLAN TO SHUT OUT TWO BIG STEAMERS TOLD IN THIS COMPLAINT

[UNITED PRESS LEASSED WIRE.]
Washington, Nov. 28.—Illegal combination of California terminal railroads to shut the steamers Yale and Harvard, of the Pacific Navigation company, out of San Pedro and San Diego business from San Francisco in favor of competing lines, was alleged today in a complaint registered with the interstate commerce commission. The complaint declared that the Pacific Navigation company maintained a first-class service, but that the railroads had arranged to shift their passengers to the Pacific Coast Steamship company and the Portland Steamship company, as the result of a rate agreement.

PIONEER FAMILY HAS AN ENJOYABLE REUNION

Magers Gather at Festive Board and Recall Happenings of Early Days in State of Oregon.

DR. MAGERS ONE OF FIRST PHYSICIANS IN THIS STATE

He Traded Horse and Buggy for 160 Acres Which Is Now Heart of City of Portland.

Members of one of the first Oregon families held a reunion at the home of A. G. Magers yesterday. The event was attended by brothers and sisters of the time when the late W. B. Magers, father of those present at the reunion, and who crossed the plains 61 years ago, were revived, and, while the pathos and suffering of those days were recapitulated by those who, while children, followed the sturdy pioneer to the West, it was the pleasurable incidents that remained fresh in the minds of those of the family who gathered for a brief while to live over the old days. Upon each Thanksgiving day, A. G. Magers, of this city, celebrates this occasion. An elegant dinner was served, and a more hearty and vigorous family of pioneers never placed their feet under a festive table. Mr. Magers looks upon these annual occasions as being one of the greatest pleasures in his life, and that every detail is looked after that is necessary to making the reunion memorable remains without saying.

Oregon's First Physician.

Going back over the old trail made by the late W. B. Magers, the older members of the family related some interesting history. The elder Mr. Magers crossed the plains with his family in 1852. He located in Oregon City, then about the only town in the state, and there he hung out his doctor's shingle, which was one of four then in Oregon. Dr. Magers rode on horseback all over this state in response to calls. He answered the call of the ill as far south as Klamath Falls and over into Eastern Oregon.

When Mr. Magers, Sr., first arrived here, he had an old horse and buggy. He traded the outfit for 160 acres of land upon part of which now stands the Portland Hotel. Nothing but an old cabin stood on the property at that time.

Go Cross Lots.

Going over his experiences of long ago, A. G. Magers declared that he can well remember the first time he came to Salem. He rode horseback from Oregon City to this place, across country. No fences enclosed fields or anything else was then in the way of travel. Mr. Magers also declares that at that time elk and deer roamed what is now the city lots in North Salem, and that wild horses were grazing in almost every suburban district in the city.

Those attending the enjoyable affair were: Hon. J. E. Magers and wife, of Portland; Mrs. George Roth, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Wooster; Mrs. S. E. Woodington and Mrs. Rosella, of Silverton; Miss Minnetta Magers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Magers and A. G. Magers, of this city.

SALEM GETS STOCK COMPANY.

Fine Stock Organization at Wexford for Coming Sunday.

The Colonial Players, one of the best stock organizations on the coast, will open for a indefinite season of stock in Salem's cozy little play-house, the Wexford, with a matinee the coming Sunday afternoon.

Everything possible is being done to insure comfort to the patrons. Every one seems to think that the time is ripe for a good stock company and all is activity in the vicinity of the Wexford, preparing for the opening. The company are all in and rehearsals are in full swing.

Among the company are a few old favorites, conspicuous among them being Ollie Cook, who visited Salem three years ago as leading woman for the Columbia Stock Company at the Grand. Also Virginia Carlisle, formerly character woman for the same company. Clifford Lancaster played Salem about a month ago playing the lead in Earl Dwire's Empress act, "The Lily White Slave," at the Ye Liberty. Steve Burton, leading man for the Colonial Players, is a leading man of unusual ability. Richard Darling is a character man, well known throughout the west, and will be a big favorite.

The Coward, the opening play, has been produced but little and not recently in Salem. Probably no play could be found which would give the company any better opportunity to display their talent than does this drama of the home.

From a dramatic standpoint, the play is equal if not superior to the two really great plays, "The Man of the Hour," and "The Lion and the Mouse." The third act is especially strong in dramatic construction and holds the audience in breathless attention from rise to the fall of the curtain.

The company is composed of sterling actors and actresses and is without doubt one of the best stock companies in the west. After the first week the company will change twice a week and the plays to be produced will include every class of drama and comedy that appeals to the public taste. The prices will be 10 and 25 cents.

AMERICAN STORIES.

The story cycle of the different nations closes this week, with the American Indian and Thanksgiving stories combined to characterize the land of the Stars and Stripes. The stories for December will be miscellaneous, leading up to the Christmas tales. All of the little Americans are invited to the public library on Saturday mornings at 9:30.
