

DR. BARTLEY HAS NOT GIVEN UP PLAN

Still Enthusiastic Over Proposition to Have Independent Ball Team in Capital City.

NOT SANGUINE OVER LEAGUE PROSPECTS IN VALLEY

Thinks More Will Be Known About It After Meeting Is Held in Salem on February 7.

Dr. S. Z. Bartley declared today that he had not given up the plan to organize an independent ball team in Salem this season. He told the sporting editor of The Capital Journal that it was not at all certain that a league would be organized, as discussed at Albany, and he saw no reason, in any event, why he should abandon his plans.

"There are scores of Salem people who are willing to back the independent ball team proposition, and I have not changed my mind as to its feasibility," he said. "This is a good ball town, and the fans want a good team. The meeting in Albany was not representative enough to accomplish anything and nothing can be known as to the league outlook until the meeting February 7. This will be held in the commercial club rooms here, and it will be attended by a large Salem delegation, as well as delegates from Eugene, Albany, Woodburn and other points, it is expected."

"I don't want anyone to think that I have abandoned my plan to organize an independent team, for I am just as enthusiastic as ever in regard to the proposition."

OPINIONS OF VOTERS

Arthur Sleeper, merchant—"I can't talk intelligently on the matter, but believe it would work out for the best in the long run."

Andrew W. Rollo, farmer, Gervais—"The $850,000 is a lot of money, but I believe the roads need that much attention anyway."

Henry Holcomb, merchant—"Get the money first and then build roads independently."

H. B. Young, farmer—"If it will not boost our taxes too high, I guess this plan is just about as good as any. We need good roads and no mistake."

Henry Downey, farmer—"By all means. Let Marion county get in the swim but be sure where the money goes and see that it is all spent for good roads."

James McGilchrist, businessman—"Arrange for a liberal yearly good roads appropriation."

Mrs. Kinney, Aurora—"The plan is all right if the people will see that it is carried out without losing too much money."

Eber Smith, Rosedale—"That is a lot of money for one proposition, I think. Let them cut down the figure and I am with the game."

Wm. McGilchrist, Sr., merchant—"Am not in favor of bonding the county for $850,000. I am greatly in favor of good roads, but believe the county should set aside the interest alone on the sum which it is proposed to be raised and build permanent highways."

E. C. Albin, railroad official—"I don't believe we should boost the taxes any more. They are high enough, goodness knows."

Squire Johnson, real estate dealer—"Sure thing. Give us good roads and by bonding in order to get 'em is the only way."

Ben Robertson, Turner—"The people in Turner, including myself, are in favor of this bonding proposition, providing we are to know just who is to do the work, handle the money and be responsible in every way. Unless we do know we won't support it."

Michael Meehan, merchant, Silverton—"All the road improvement the better, but we should see that this money it is proposed to expend goes in the right places."

Babe Needham, deputy sheriff—"The plan is a fine one. We should boost it along and put it into action soon."

Geo. Paulis, accountant—"I don't know about this proposition. Am doubtful of its success."

Roy Niles, merchant—"Although I am only a small tax payer, would be glad to do all I can for the bonding plan."

Judge Cleeton, Portland—"If I was a taxpayer in Marion county, I would say 'go to it, boys.'"

Dave Drager, accountant—"I have not looked into the matter very thoroughly, but guess it would go all right."

Lafe Hill, capitalist—"I don't like the scheme. I guess it is because I have no automobile."

Harry Pooler, auto merchant—"If we were assured we would have the roads, I would even donate a little to the $850,000."

J. A. Cooper, stockman—"Guess its about as good way as any to get good roads. Pretty big price to pay though, without any definite plans to show us."

B. L. Steeves, mayor—"I think the plan good, but am not in favor of plunging in debt too far."

O. J. Mapes, merchant and farmer—"Money is money and so is good roads, but we should first see our way to get the former before we plan too much on the latter."

Albert Gilley, accountant—"I don't believe this bond matter is a good one. Requires too much time to get rid of the debt."

Dr. Skiff, dentist—"We need the roads, but I don't know anything about this bonding business."

Fred Charlton, fruit grower—"We might as well start something now as any other time."

A. N. Bush, banker—"I believe the matter of building good roads should be left in the hands of our county judge. Judge Bushey is a capable man and has made a long and careful study of the question of good roads. Another thing, I am not in favor of creating great indebtedness, unless some reliable returns are assured. However, I am heartily in favor of good roads, and I think County Judge Bushey should have the full say in the manner and form in which they are to be constructed."

Ed. Croisan—"You can say for me that I think this bonding plan now being proposed is a humbug. The city already has succeeded in confiscating the property of Salem people. Now they are trying to confiscate the property of the whole county by taxation."

George Hobeon, merchant—"I will vote for the proposition, and I think it a good plan."

Chris Paulus, capitalist—"Sure. More good roads the better. Let the bonds go."

Dr. W. H. Byrd—"I don't know much about the bonding plan people have been talking about, but I am not greatly interested."

William Thompson & Sons, merchants—"It may be a fair and square deal to the taxpayers, but we don't believe it will work out just right. Too much money dropped at once."

E. C. Pomeroy—"Well, let them try it out. I don't know much about the proposition, in fact."

Fred S. Bynon—"It is a mighty fine thing for everybody."

Robert D. McKinney, farmer—"Of course, the bonding plan is right. How could we get the money otherwise, without dragging ourselves in debt every year?"

W. A. Irvine, business man—"Yes. I have a kindly feeling for the plan, and I hope it is carried out successfully."

C. L. Patrick, merchant—"I can't tell just what will happen if we go $850,000 in debt. It may be all right, but I am not the one to express my assurance."

John H. McNary, lawyer—"It might work out all right. I have not studied the matter thoroughly."

Grant Corby, lawyer—"We need roads, sure, but I am unable to say whether we can get them by the proposed bonding plan."

WATSON IS WRONG

So far as the appointment involved counsel and legal advice to the commissioner, it may be said that if the officer was not well enough versed in the law governing his position to perform its requirements, he cannot expect the state to incur the expense of educating him thereto, further than may be implied from the functions of its regular law officers. If he desires independent advice he may secure it at his own cost. He cannot supersede the regular officers of the state. The terms clerk stenographers, assistants, are not comprehensive enough to include attorneys, or to work a repeal or amendment by implication of the laws providing legal advisers for the state and in its interest."

Three Departments. The opinion also calls attention to the constitution providing that the government shall be divided into three departments, legislative, executive and judicial, and that no person charged with official duties within one of these departments shall exercise any of the functions of the other.

In brief, the opinion holds that the appointment was not authorized by law, the claimant was not authorized to accept the office, and he could not claim pay therefor. The warrant of the secretary of state was not binding on the state treasurer, who according to the record and showing made to the court was justified in refusing to pay the same.

The writ was dismissed, and the matter of every department having a special attorney was decided finally. Under this decision the Workmen's Compensation commission will also be deprived of the luxury which in its case is also largely a necessity, of having a private tutor to teach it its duties, unless it pays the tuition fees.

Other Cases Decided. Other cases are as follows: Petitions for rehearing were denied in Simpson vs. Durbin; Wilson vs. Peterson; McFarland vs. Carlsbad Hot Springs Sanatorium.

Other opinions were handed down as follows: West Oregon Lumber company, appellant, vs. Martin Denny, appealed from Multnomah, suit to recover money judgment, affirmed.

E. R. Hannan, appellant, vs. S. A. Sanford, et al., appealed from Douglas, suit in equity to enjoin the prosecution of an action at law, affirmed.

S. S. Johnson vs. Miami Lumber company, appellant, appealed from Tillamook, action for fees for legal services, affirmed.

William L. Borthwick, appellant, vs. J. E. Johnson, appellant, from Multnomah, suit to quiet title, reversed.

Astoria Southern Railway company, appellant, vs. Pacific Surety company, appealed from Multnomah, action to recover on a surety bond, affirmed.

L. Y. Keady, appellant, vs. Hattie L. Martin, appellant, from Multnomah, action to recover dower, affirmed.

In the matter of the assignment of the Standard Cafeteria company, an insolvent debtor, vs. Standard Cafeteria company, appellant, appealed from Multnomah, involving an appeal by an insolvent from a judgment establishing a claim against it, affirmed.

W. J. Cook, et al., vs. J. D. Gordon, appellant, appealed from Multnomah, action for a broker's commission, modified.

Roy Fisher vs. Portland Railway, Light & Power company, appellant, appealed from Multnomah, motion to dismiss appeal, denied.

E. M. Vaughn vs. Canby Canal company, appellant, appealed from Multnomah, suit for the cancellation of a judgment, reversed.

Richard Willis, et al., vs. Horticultural Fire Relief of Oregon, appellant, suit to recover on fire insurance policies, reversed.

State of Oregon ex. rel. Walter H. Evans, district attorney Fourth district, against Rufus Holman and other commissioners of Multnomah county court, held that the duty of drawing the jury list remains with the county commissioners, and they were ordered to draw a list of 2,000, as ordered by the court.

PREJUDICE AGAINST MEN

against District Attorney E. B. Stanwood, head of the prosecution.

Probing Accusations. Summed up by the judge, these accusations are stated thus:

Following the man hunt after the Whootland trouble and in subsequent to obtain and manufacture evidence, this prosecution has violated the most fundamental rights guaranteed by the constitution and the humanities of civilization.

The alleged torture of Herman Suhr, one of the defendants, while in the Oakland jail, and the beating of Alfred Nelson, a witness, by a Burns detective, later convicted for this assault, also are cited.

"We will run down all these charges set forth and will go into every phase of this whole affair, so that the people of California and the nation may know the exact truth," said Dr. Parker.

Johnson Approves. Governor Hiram Johnson, in hearty approval of the move to make this impartial probe, wished to assure the people that this matter will be finally cleared up so as to reflect credit on California justice and further that day when economic justice shall prevail for all.

Roy Maxwell, son of the dead prosecutor, has withdrawn from the trial, following protests by the defense.

PATIENT AT ASYLUM IS ACCIDENTALLY KILLED DURING SCUFFLE

Frank E. Wallace, an inmate of the asylum, was killed almost instantly this morning by being hurled accidentally onto a block with which he was polishing a ward floor by Oliver Whitney, an attendant.

Wallace has been a very troublesome patient and had had many fights with the attendants. This morning he was engaged in polishing the floors on the day ward when Mr. Whitney approached him and spoke. Wallace dropped his block and sprang upon the attendant. Whitney grappled with the insane man and in attempting to hold him, stumbled and both fell to the floor with great force. Wallace's breast struck the block and he ceased struggling and lay quiet face downward.

Other attendants were attracted by the noise and making an investigation it was found that Wallace's ribs were broken and that he was in a serious condition. Physicians examined the patient and discovered that he had sustained two fractured ribs and internal injuries as the result of falling on the wooden block with the attendant's form on top of him.

The patient lived but three hours after the accident.

Wallace was committed from Multnomah county. He has a wife in Tacoma.

Coroner Clough was called and the remains will probably be sent to Washington for burial. Clough decided Whitney was not to blame.
