Forced to Raise Money

Owing to the business depression throughout the country the past few months the Oregon Shoe Company of Salem are confronted with a great misfortune, having anticipated a heavy fall trade, overbought to such an extent that they now have on hand twice the amount of stock necessary, and are forced to raise money at once, and being aware that it would be impossible to dispose of this great surplus through the regular course of business unless some drastic measures were used, and therefore are forced to sacrifice this fine stock of Men's Ladies' and Men's High Grade shoes at once. Thousands of pairs of shoes must be turned into cash at once. Cost will be entirely forgotten, as we must raise money at once. Conditions exist whereby this big stock must be turned into money at once. Settlements must be made and parties concerned have ordered this enormous stock of high grade shoes sold at once, regardless of all loss entailed thereby. The greatest shoe sale of the year starts

Thursday, January 22d, at 9 A. M.

A chance of a lifetime. Store has been closed to arrange the entire stock over for the greatest shoe selling event of the year. Everything goes on sale--nothing held back, and will be sold at once, as we are forced to raise money at once. Read these prices carefully. This means money to you.
