Philip Mackaye's "Canterbury Pilgrims" has been selected by the juniors as their class play to be presented, according to custom at the Grand opera house on the evening of May Day. Two old Civil War veterans met in this city last week in the persons of A. Olinger, who resides at 961 Mill street, and Melvin Porter, whose home is in New Orleans. The old soldiers met for the first time since they fought side by side during the greatest battles in this country, both wearing the blue. Mr. Porter left yesterday for Portland, and will return home by way of Los Angeles and other southern points. The old scenes and experiences were gone over again by the old veterans, and a most enjoyable time was had by them.

On account of the howling wind last night, Mrs. E. J. Sauder, wife of Ex-councilman Sauder, failed to hear an approaching street car, while she was crossing State street, between Liberty and High, with the result she collided with the side of the car and received several painful cuts and bruises about the face and body.

The fire department was called out three times last night in quick succession to different part of the city where chimney fires were in progress.

The central department responded to a false alarm by some one in the vicinity of 21st and Center streets and the chemical engine was hardly back to the station when another call was turned in from the George Smith residence at Marion and Church streets.

A chimney burned out in Mr. Smith's residence without doing any damage and less than a minute following the auto was sent whirling through the storm to Asylum avenue where another chimney was smoking but doing no harm, however. Despite the rain and strong wind the chemical truck acted nobly and the firemen were on the job all the time.

According to the railway authorities Mrs. Sauder, in company with another lady, were crossing State street from the north side to the south and were struggling with their umbrellas in face of the high wind. Mrs. Sauder approached the track first and just at that time a car came up and was abreast of the woman when she suddenly bumped into it. Mrs. Sauder was thrown to the street but the other woman observed the car in time to stop.

In compliance with a resolution adopted at the last meeting of the board of governors and members of the Commercial club, Secretary Hynon has sent a communication to the Oregon delegation in congress asking them to make further investigation into the proposed plan for purchasing the Oregon City locks. H. O. White is responsible for the matter being agitated again, saying at the time he made the motion for the resolution that locks plant had died down to an alarming extent, and should be revived as soon as possible, in order to keep it before the people, and congress especially.

Governor West has issued an ultimatum to Mayor H. A. Stewart and his saloonkeeper cohorts, who had control of Copperfield until the governor sent Miss Fern Hobbs and Colonel B. K. Lawson to close the saloons and relieve the saloonkeepers of authority by declaring martial law. If the saloonkeeper officials do not resign and permit a re-organization of the town government, suit will be brought to have the act of incorporation of the town declared void.

If there are to be any time clocks around the state house, Governor West favors having them for state officials as well as employees. Secretary of State Olcott is considering installing one for his department. The time clock is a device for registering the time a person arrives on the job in the morning and when he leaves at night. "It is a fine scheme," declared the governor, "but we ought to have them for state officials, if for anybody. I would like to have one for my office."

Judge Kelly is hearing the damage case of Raymond Reed by J. R. Reed, his guardian ad litem against R. C. Hallberg. The plaintiff is seeking to recover the damages in the sum of $485 for being run into and knocked down by the defendant's automobile. The complainant avers that while he was riding west on State street, near High, the defendant approached in his auto at a speed of 15 miles and hour, and negligently and wrongfully ran him down. Attorney John H. McNary is appearing for the defendant, while Attorney Walter Winslow is representing the plaintiff.

Although open for business and patiently waiting, Chief Deputy Clerk Paulus and Deputy Oscar Bowers, in the Marlon county tax collection department, are not very busy today. The taxpayers apparently are not so anxious to rush to the front as would seem from the manner in which the sheriff's office was being swamped with inquiries as to when the rolls would be turned over and where the collection stunt was to be carried on. The clerks are expectant, however, and hope to gather in a few shekels before the office is closed.

Governor West is in Portland attending a meeting of some kind and at the same time looking into the matter of the unemployed. He is expected home tonight, and will probably take some steps toward solving the problem of finding work for the army of idle.

A ship in distress, in the form of a man, was rescued from the gutters last night by Night Officer Sanders and lodged in the warm city bastle. The man's name was Frank Marquett, and the cargo he carried was sure a dandy, according to the police. Marquett could not face the heavy gaule blowing down Commercial street, and, after Sanders picked him up, Officer Swaiders gave him a pint bottle of whiskey in his pockets, and, according to his own story, carried about two quarts inside. Judge Elgin fined him $8 this morning, which Marquette paid.

That everything will not be clear sailing for the prohibition movement this year appears probable from the fact that a number of pastors of Salem have stated that they are going to attend the meeting Tuesday night, in W. C. T. U. hall, when, according to his promise, George G. Pendell, representing the state prohibition committee, will discuss the recent action of Salem ministers, requesting the prohibition party not to put a ticket in the field this year.

Mr. Pendell has promised to answer questions, if any are asked, and it is not improbable that some very pointed questions will be fired at him. Some of the pastors of Salem have expressed themselves very strongly upon the question at issue. They feel that the prohibition party ought not to place a ticket in the field this year. The ministers' union claims to stand for the principle of non-partisan organization, and co-operation in working for both the prohibition amendment and for officials to enforce it.

And that is where Mr. Pindell and the state prohibition committee differ emphatically from the ministers' union. Mr. Pindell keeps smiling, but he is working every day, strengthening the party activities and developing plans for a campaign to win at election time, not only the prohibition amendment, but for the prohibition party as well. The meeting Tuesday night may develop some sharp passages between the conflicting elements.

Wallace Nutting produces pictures which appeal to everyone. You will enjoy the exhibition of his full line, to be shown at 279 North Commercial street, Tuesday, the 27th of January (tomorrow). One day only. The Frame Shop.

Eugene Williamson, of Klamath Falls, arrived this morning, and will visit friends for a few days. On his way to Salem on the S. P. Mr. Williamson declares that the train was compelled to pick its way cautiously, for the reason that many telegraph poles were thrown across the track by the wind last night, and at one place, just below Eugene, the trainmen were compelled to cut a large tree in two, which had blocked the way.
