BLUECOATS ARE GUARDING LEGATION

Battleship South Carolina is Hurrying at Full Speed to Strife Scene.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The battleship South Carolina was steaming at full speed today from Guantanamo toward Port Au Prince, Haiti, to help the cruiser Montana in protecting foreign residents endangered by the latest revolution.

With President Oreste's sudden resignation and flight on board the German cruiser Vineta, it was said complete anarchy prevailed at the Haitian capital. Shooting was said to have been continuous throughout the night. American bluejackets from the Montana were on guard over the United legation, the cable station and the French hospital. The other legations and German stores in the city were guarded by detachments from the Vineta.

DENY JAPAN IS AIDING HUERTA

Washington Claims Arms and Ammunition Are Not Being Forwarded to President of Mexico.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The circumstantial story that Japan is sending arms and ammunition to President Huerta was not only denied today at the White House but was referred to as "baseless and foolish."

"It's an old story revamped," said private secretary Tumulty. "It's as old as last summer, and it's utterly foolish."

So far as Japan's attitude toward Mexico is concerned, it was added that the Washington administration was not prepared to hold the Tokio government responsible for the action of the Mikado's officers and sailors in Mexico City. It was not denied, however, that Huerta might make capital out of their presence there.

President Wilson, it was declared, is supported passively by every one of the world powers in his Mexican policy and eventually it was asserted that this surely will mean peace.

It was not stated when the embargo would be removed on the shipment of arms across the border from the United States into Mexico.

Just why the immigration authorities are holding Miss Robins was not stated in the letter. Wm. Grayson was married to the woman in this city April 1, 1912, Judge Kelly performing the ceremony. According to the communication Grayson deserted his wife and has not been heard from since. Grayson was an electrician while in Salem and is well known by the members of the local electrician's union.

MARKET IS NARROW AND IRREGULAR AT OPENING BUT RALLIES

New York, Jan. 28.—A narrow and irregular movement marked the opening of the stock market today. The widest movement was in Union Pacific, which declined 1. Small gains were registered by a few stocks, but a majority of the changes were toward lower levels.

Later trading was pushed up materially and tobacco stocks and other investment shares made a good showing, but the general upturn was slow. At noon the level was still slightly below yesterday's close. Before the close the list hardened, reading, by rising to 170 1/2, accelerating the rally. Tobacco issues rose from 3 to 4 points. TO LEAVE IT TO PRESIDENT TO CHOOSE ORGANIZERS

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 28.—There was a hot debate in the United Mine Workers' convention here this afternoon over a proposal to elect organizers, instead of leaving it to the union's president, as at present.

The plan was defeated, but not until after delegates from the Clinton, Ind., local had charged openly that there were grafters among the appointed organizers and attacked a few of them by name. President John White, in turn, roundly denounced those who made the accusations.

As soon as a man begins to think he knows a woman thoroughly something crops out in her personality that entirely upsets his calculations.

GIRLS KICK AND FIGHT WHEN CAPTURED AFTER ESCAPE FROM SCHOOL

Officer Gains Has Strenuous Experience With Two Wards of State.

GET OUT OF BASEMENT

Reach Fair Grounds Store on Way to Salem When Headed Off and Battered Strenuously.

Jeanette Van Zile and Myra Grisson, two obstreperous inmates at the Oregon Training school for girls, escaped from the institution early this morning and succeeded in getting toward Salem as far as the Fairgrounds store when Officer Gains, who was notified, met and arrested them and escorted the two back to the school. The girls fought and yelled when the police officer took them in charge and one of them broke loose and started to run but was caught by the policeman and compelled to submit to being taken back.

When the officer arrived at the school with the girls, another dash for liberty was made by one of them but she was caught and handcuffed.

The inmates escaped through a hole in the basement wall of the school. They were not missed for some time and were making their way toward Salem on the Oregon Electric track when one of the attendants of the school called up the police station and notified Officer Gains.

The Van Zile girl was committed to the school from North Bend while Myra Grisson came from Eugene.

The matron of the school borrowed a pair of handcuffs from Chief of Police Shebeck and the runaways were shackled itself when they were bound together by the bracelets.

Dialogs School.

It is more than evident from the vociferous remarks made by the Van Zile girl, when arrested, that the training school is disliked.

"Leave me alone. I want to go to the penitentiary, where I belong, and that's where I'm going," said the girl, when Officer Gains asked her to go with him to the school. Miss Van Zile fought desperately and screamed that she was determined to go to the penitentiary, where she belonged.

Are Punished.

As punishment for their misconduct, the girls had their hair cut off when they were taken back to the school. The hair was bobbed, and the girls will be deprived of much of the liberty they formerly enjoyed.

Officers Gains said that the girls had knocked things right and left at the school ever since they were committed, and, in his opinion, the attendants have been unable to cope with the situation very well.

Professor's Explanation of How He Was Fatally Stabbed by Men Is Disbelieved.

Bosworth was found unconscious in his office this morning with blood pouring from a deep gash in his throat.

"Two men did it," gasped Bosworth during a brief interval of consciousness. "One was a white man and the other a mulatto. I think they were thieves." The only other clue is a woman's broadcloth coat found in Bosworth's office. The police do not think robbers were responsible for the attack, because valuable silver trophies were left undisturbed.

Rocco Pucciarillo was another witness. He said he usually acted as lookout for the gang.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 28.—In a resolution charging that there is in Seattle a combination in the fish industry in restraint of trade in direct violation of the Sherman law, the Seattle Commercial club demands a federal investigation.

The resolution, offered last night, by Carl A. Ewalk, of the board of directors, recites that local fishermen are paid four cents a pound for fish, which sells at wholesale in the east at 20 cents, and at retail at 26 cents.

The matter was referred to the fishermen's committee.

BECK AND BAGAN DENY TAKING PART IN SHOOTING

Marysville, Cal., Jan. 28.—William Beck and Harry Bagan, accused with Richard Ford and Herman Suhr, of responsibility for the Wheatland hopfield riot last summer, in which four men were killed, told their own stories from the witness stand at the forenoon session of their trial here today.

"I was inside when the shooting started," said Beck, "but when I heard the shots I ran out and looked on. I had no gun. I never handled one in my life. I didn't know Bagan, Ford or Suhr at the time. I am absolutely innocent."

"I didn't even see the fight," was Bagan's version. "I was playing cards in the ranch stable at the time, and we didn't so much as hear the shots."

SENATOR NELSON CALLS IT DISLOYAL

Intimates Western Newspaper Union Has Earmarks of Trust.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Advertising Manager Washington, of the Western Newspaper Union, admitted today before the senate lobby investigating committee that his concern had received $42,000 annually from the Canadian government for the past 16 years for boom writeups in Canada's interest in the "patent insides" of small newspapers. By way of an offset, he pleaded that Chicago newspapers, mentioning specifically the Tribune and Record-Herald, published similar articles. "You were hired by a foreign government to do a thing disloyal to your own country," said Senator Nelson, of Massachusetts. "Aren't you ashamed?"

The particular writeup which called the committee's attention to the series of articles, the Western Newspaper Union was publishing was an interview purporting to come from a former Iowa farmer, who said he had left poverty in the United States and found prosperity in Canada.

Washington said it appeared in 4500 newspapers.

President Joslyn, of the union, said that the concern had been accepting money from the Canadian government for 16 years for favorable publicity.

Senators Nelson and Overman both wanted to know if the newspaper union was a trust, and Joslyn replied that a holding company capitalized at $8,250,000 controlled its subsidiaries. He placed its physical assets at about $4,200,000.

Washington concluded its testimony by admitting that 150,000 Americans were attracted to Canada annually.

William White, a Canadian special advertising representative said Canada was spending $40,000 or $70,000 a year advertising in the United States.

Instead of complying with the demand, the cashier whipped out a revolver and covered the would-be robber. "If you move a finger, I'll kill you," shouted the banker. At the same time he pressed a button connecting with the alarm system of the institution. There was a rush of bank employes and detectives and in a few seconds, the man, who gave his name as D. W. Dropp, was overpowered and taken to the police station.

Dropp is believed to be insane.

Claim Hop Pickers Did Not Think There Would be Clash With Posse

Marysville, Jan. 28.—Several of the tent-dwelling, migratory workers who are figuring as witnesses at the Wheatland hopfield riot trial here showed annoyance today at what they considered the slurring manner in which Attorney W. H. Carlin, of counsel for the prosecution, questioned them concerning their places of residence.

"We may live in tents," said Mrs. Mary Crater, one of them, "but we're not ashamed of it. Our work is honest. People can be as good and reliable under canvas as in a palace."

ries of repetitions of early stories to the effect that some of the hoppickers on the Durst ranch had a thought of violence when the sheriff's posse arrived among them; that the posse's attack on them was unprovoked; that what fighting the pickers did was in self-defense; that the only one of them who used a weapon was the unidentified Porto Rican killed in the fight, and that the one he used he wrested from an officer.

One new incident was brought out, however, by Frank Kearney, one of the witnesses. "During his speech Ford held up a baby for the people to see," he said, "and shouted: 'Here's an example for you. See how his face is scratched by the hop vines. And his mother is working and unable to care for him.'"

The defense tried to bring out something concerning the hoppickers' wages, but it was barred as irrelevant. Outside the court room Mrs. Crater said she and her son averaged $1.88 daily each, working 12 hours.
