DEMONSTRATION TRAIN IS VISITED BY MANY PERSONS

Care of Dairy Cattle and Importance of Improving Breeds Impressed on Hundreds of Visitors.

When the agricultural demonstration train, which is touring the valley, arrived in this city last night, a good sized crowd of local people and Marion county farmers met it at the intersection of State and Front streets and were the interested guests of the Southern Pacific and Portland, Eugene & Eastern railroads and the Oregon Agricultural College for two hours.

The traveling exhibit of farm animals and machinery has proven a great success in the way of educating the farmers and solving many of the little difficulties met with by the large and small farm owners who are now taking up the work of raising pure bred stock.

Hogs Interest.
The professors on live stock gave talks that were both interesting and very instructive. Professor E. L. Potter had charge of the hog car and his remarks were followed closely last night by those interested in the raising of both breed and market hogs.

Prof. Potter explained how the hog raiser can realize more from his pure bred hogs than by raising an inferior grade. He said that the market hog of today is the sleek well developed class. A hog of this character, he said, weighing in the neighborhood of 200 pounds, will always bring the highest market price and it behooves the farmer to secure a pure bred sire and endeavor to raise this kind of an animal in the future if he desires to gain large profits upon his stock.

The instructor gave some good advice upon the manner of feeding stock hogs, how to develop them while growing and the best methods of preparing them for sale on foot. In all the address was very enlightening and more than one farmer went away satisfied that he has not been "getting his money's worth" out of his live stock in the past.

Feeding Important.
Professor G. R. Sampson illustrated very ably the best method of feeding market swine. He told the spectators that notwithstanding that a hog is a hog, he must not be allowed to make a hog of himself too often in a day. The hog must be fed the proper food at the right time, he said, and swine should be as carefully attended to as any other farm stock if the raiser wishes to obtain the best results.

Professor W. A. Barr, an expert on dairy stock, entertained the people with a talk on "The Dairy Cow." Professor Barr conducts the cattle department of the fair and he had with him a Jersey, two Ayrshires and a Holstein. Taking these animals as standard dairy stock the stockman gave an intelligent talk on how the dairyman can obtain the most favorable results by feeding and caring for his animals. Like any other farm animal the cow has her special features, said the speaker, and the farmer must care for her accordingly. If she is a dairy cow, her feed should be of such nature as to be milk producing and there are many such kinds of foods that can be raised in the valley, declared the professor. Corn growing should be followed by the dairyman and most any class of green food is desirable if properly prepared, said Professor Barr.

Predicts Great Things.
Wilbur K. Newell, a Holstein dairyman from Gaston and president of the State Board of Horticulture, joined the train yesterday and has led the army of breeders of better grades at each of the seven stops included in the itinerary today. He is assassinating in four languages the scrub bull and the boarder cow.

"With only 100,000 dairy cows in that portion of Oregon lying west of the Cascade mountains, it is no wonder that Oregon is using butter from New Zealand. There should be 400,000 cows in that territory," said Mr. Newell.

"There should be a monthly revenue of $2,400,000 to the farmers of Western Oregon in dairy products alone, instead of $700,000 a month, as the revenue is today."

And then Farmer Newell goes ahead to show the men from the farms how to do it, and he supplements his argument by demonstrating that only $1 in soil fertility is taken from the land for every $100 worth of dairy products produced, while $600 worth of soil fertility is shipped with every $1000 of hay and $250 worth of fertility with every $1000 of wheat.

As examples of successful men in the dairy and hog business, Mr. Newell introduced and read a letter from Clarence Browne, of Aumsville. Browne paid $4875 for a rundown farm seven years ago, and in 1913 sold butterfat valued at $3978, and hogs to the value of 1949.37. Supporting his contention for better cows and more hogs, the

EXAMINATIONS FINISHED EUGENE FOLK MARRY

[UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.] University of Oregon, Eugene, Or., Feb. 6.—Donald Pague, of Portland, and Miss Hazel Barta, of Madras, Wis., juniors in the University of Oregon, last night celebrated the completion of their mid-year examinations by repairing to the Episcopal church, in this city, and getting married. Yesterday they went to Portland, where they will make their home.

Most of the members of the Delta Gamma sorority and the Avava club, with which the bride and bridegroom, respectively, are affiliated, were not aware that the wedding was to take place. Half a dozen friends of the couple, who were sworn to secrecy, attended the ceremony.

Afterward the newly-married pair took dinner together and then Mr. Pague escorted his bride to the Delta Gamma house and himself returned to the Avava house to break the news to his fraternity brothers. The couple left yesterday morning before the campus had awakened to the fact that another college romance had reached a happy result.

The bridegroom is a son of B. S. Pague, an attorney of Portland, and graduated from Hill Military academy, Miss Barta, although she came from Wisconsin to enter the university, has since made her home with relatives near Albany. Both young people have been prominent in student activities here, Mr. Pague having been a member of the second football team, and Miss Barta of the dramatic club.

JOB-WINNING ADS.

It is not at all difficult to write this sort of a want. This is how it is done: First decide on the kind of work you want—the kind you can do best; then take a pencil and write down why some one needs your services; use small words and make every statement sincere.

Then boil down carefully all you have written, taking out every unnecessary word and you will have a real job-winning Want Ad. Then send or bring it to The Capital Journal office.

Salem, Or., Jan. 29, 1914.
I had the misfortune to cut my finger with a piece of glass, on January 12. I thought but little of it for three days, when blood poisoning set in, and in a few hours it looked like I might lose my hand, and possibly my entire arm. I began the use of Dr. Stone's Liquid Poultice, and shortly the inflammation and swelling began to subside, and soon was out of all danger.

SHARP DEBATE OVER RACE QUESTION COMES

[UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.] Washington, Feb. 6.—An amendment by Senator Jones, of Washington, to the agricultural extension bill, which would insure to negro colleges of the South the administration of a portion of a fund proposed for farm demonstration work, led to sharp debates yesterday afternoon in the senate over the race question.

Senator Jones defended the principle of his amendment, which was still pending when the senate adjourned. Senators Hoke Smith, of Georgia, and Vardaman, of Mississippi, contended that the administration of the appropriation should be left in the hands of the white man, who would do more for the negro than the negro could do for himself.

Senator Jones had not proceeded far with his argument that the negro should be allowed to handle part of the funds from the federal treasury before Senator Vardaman suggested he had "better take a few days off and study the question."

Japanese and Negroes Compared.
The Mississippi senator asked if Senator Jones would be willing to allow the Japanese to share in the administration of the fund allotted to the Pacific coast states.

"Yes, if the Japanese were citizens, but they are not," was the emphatic response.

"Well, you will admit," continued Senator Vardaman, "that the Japanese, in all the elements that go to make up the man, are superior to the negro."

"No, I do not admit that," said Senator Jones, and Senator Vardaman sat down, remarking: "I can't argue with that kind of a man."
He was again on his feet when Senator Jones in a few minutes mentioned the progress of the negroes again.

"Their progress has been due to what the white man has taught them," he insisted.

LOGANBERRY GROWERS PLAN TO EXTEND MARKET

Preliminary arrangements for the organization of the Loganberry Growers' association was made at a meeting of the growers here yesterday. The object of the association will be to create a larger market for the fruit.

Britt Aspinwall, Brooks; L. H. Roberts, Salem; J. J. McDonald, Liberty; H. E. Crowley, Dundee, and Clarence Keene, Silverton, were appointed a committee to draw up a constitution and by-laws. The acreage has been so greatly increased this year that it is feared the growers will not be able to find markets for all the berries. Those attending the meeting have more than 4000 acres planted to the berry.

Among those present were: John P. Murphy, Salem, R. R. 8; L. H. Radcliffe, Salem; Peter G. Eggle, Salem, R. R. 6; W. O. Radkey, Salem, R. R. 6; D. F. Timmerman, Salem; G. M. Voris, Salem, R. R. 5; C. CAN COMPETE WITH PORTLAND.

According to Theo. Roth, the well-known local groceryman, it is possible to ship groceries from Salem to the interior of Lake county, Eastern Oregon, from this city by parcel post, two cents cheaper than the groceryman of Portland can. Mr. Roth is thinking about supplying certain classes of groceries to the Lake county people in the future, for the reason that he can lay the goods down in the Eastern Oregon country much cheaper than the big wholesalers in the Rose City. This important difference in parcel post rates is caused by Salem being in a more favorable zone.

STORY HOUR AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

For the younger group Miss Wolfer will tell new Indian stories including some Indian fairy tales. The Arabian nights group had no time for The City of Brass last week; it shall be the first next Saturday, followed, if possible, by The Enchanted Horse. The doors are open on Saturday morning from 9:20 to 9:35.

Miss Ruth Shepherd left this morning for Portland, where she will spend the remainder of the week with friends.
