MUCH ACTIVITY SHOWN IN BUILDING IN SALEM

Repair Work and Remodeling Is Strong Feature in City at Present Time of Year.

MANY STRUCTURES ARE BEING MADE OVER TO SUIT NEEDS
Quarters Are Modeled in Fine Style and Carpenters Will Be Kept Busy for Some Time.

Much preparation for a bigger and better business are being made by Salem business men at present, despite the fact that the usual building period is some way off as yet. At least five business buildings in the city are being either rebuilt or enlarged this month, and the owners are having the work done for the reason the old structures were too small and not modern enough to meet the wants of the different businesses which have been carried on in them.

The present building activities are indicative of there being a demand for office quarters and merchant room. It is assured, however, that when the work which has been started this week is complete, Salem can boast of at least four business buildings which will be modern and slightly in every respect, both inside and out.

An old horse well fed makes his market value grow in an old saying that can well be applied to the thrift and progress shown by Salem property owners, in remodeling some of the oldest buildings in the city. By tearing out here and adding on there, the ancient structures are gradually being converted into up-to-date business houses and placed in a condition that not only excites the admiration of the observer, but which enjoys a ready demand for use.

Splendid Location.

For instance, the old Adolph building, located at the corner of State and Commercial streets, is being "dolled" up. This old building has never been touched up since the ancient date in which it was set up. It has been occupied by many important classes of business, and is conceded to be one of the best, if not the best, business sites in the city. Joe Adolph, the owner, has decided that his building should be modern and convenient. Consequently, the Adolph building is being gutted today, and nothing but the bare walls are standing on the city's most important corner. Mr. Adolph intends to convert the old shell into what will be one of the most attractive buildings in Salem. Monster plate glass windows will be installed on the State street side of the structure, and the upper floor will be used for a pool room and office departments. The ground floor will be prepared for offices for lawyers, real estate men, doctors or any other business requiring reasonably small quarters.

Mr. Adolph is well aware of business possibilities in Salem and is making preparations for the activity which is believed will be at hand within a comparatively short time.

Other Improvements.

South Commercial street will soon bloom out with a remodeled building, the Independent Meat Market having leased the building formerly occupied by Swartz & Co., saloon men. The meat market in question is now located on Ferry street, and will be moved into the Swartz building on the first of next month.

The Spa, one of Salem's modern confectioneries, is making some good improvements to its store on State street, among which is a new tile floor. This popular establishment is working hard to gain the highest mark in efficiency and sanitation, and the proprietors intend to keep things humming until their place is equal to the best in the state.

The Gray-Belle Confectionery company will soon be installed permanently in the new quarters in the Cross building on State street across from the High theatre. Messrs. Gray and Belle are planning upon the establishment of an up-to-date shop where sweet goods can be had, and according to their specifications, their new shop will be a top-notch.

Zinn Leases "The Bank" Place.
Wiley, W. Zinn, known as the "pioneer candy merchant of Salem," has leased the building formerly occupied by The Bank saloon at 147 South Commercial street and will move his equipment from his State street store to the new location and take possession on the first of March. The new quarters are owned by Walter F. Buchner, of South Salem, and Mr. Zinn intends to make several improvements to the building. The Buchner building is conceded to be one of the most modern in construction as to interior in the city, having a concrete floor and walled with metal. Zinn hopes to get a top mark from the sanitary inspector when everything is in place.

The owner of the building stated today that the entire front of the structure will be remodeled and placed in modern condition and that Mr. Zinn will be in excellent quarters within a short time for not only a confectionery

CATTLE SHRINKAGE STUDY

GOOD PLAN TO FEED PLENTY OF HAY JUST BEFORE LOADING ANIMALS ON TRAIN.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
An extensive study of methods of preventing the shrinkage of cattle shipped on the hoof has just been concluded by the Department of Agriculture. The methods promise to save hundreds of dollars to the farmers and stock raisers. Heretofore it has not been uncommon for a steer to reach the stock yards weighing from 60 to 75 pounds less than when it left the farm, but by proper feeding this may be materially reduced.

In 265 shipments of cattle, comprising 19,000 head, the loss ranged from 2.14 to 7 per cent, depending on the length of time the cattle were en route the treatment they received en route, and what they had in their stomachs when they started. Steers show less shrinkage than cows but the difference is not as great as many shippers suppose.

"If cattle are in transit 24 hours or longer, it is a good plan to feed about two bales of nice bright hay for each carload a few hours before loading," is the advice of the Department. "There is no way of entirely preventing shrinkage, but by judicious care in handling and feeding the cattle just previous to shipping the shrinkage may be lessened. The shrinkage of fed cattle does not differ greatly from that of range cattle fed on equal periods of time. Cattle fed on silage have a large gross shrinkage but usually 'fill' so well when fed at the market that the net shrinkage is small. Pulp fed cattle shrink more in transit than any other class of cattle and also show a greater net shrinkage. For a long journey the common method of unloading for feed, water and rest is preferred to the use of 'feed and water' cars."

Dodging Boll Weevil.

Efforts to dodge the boll weevil by planting cotton late have proven fruitless by the government bureau of entomology, in spite of the theory that prevails very generally through the south. In fact the most recent experiments along this line show that late crops are a decided disadvantage. In one field in Louisiana last year 1,125 were picked from an acre that had been planted early, while in an adjoining field that had been planted late the yield was about 650 pounds per acre. In another instance a field planted May 22 produced but one-fourth of a bale per acre, though in 1911 when planted a month earlier it gave half a bale to the acre.

WRESTLER FACES CHARGE

PROFESSIONAL JAILED IN PORTLAND BECAUSE OF RELATIONS WITH YOUNG GIRL.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]
Portland, Or., Feb. 21.—Glen Bailey, a professional wrestler 21 years old, and Margaret Chamberlain, aged 15, were taken from a Southern Pacific train here yesterday by Portland police who had been summoned by the train crew.

The couple boarded the train at Corning, Tehama county, California. Arraigned in police court on statutory charges, Bailey secured a continuance of one day.

The police are investigating and the federal government may become interested. It is said the girl's mother put her on the train to go to Lake Park, Minn., to visit her father, asking Bailey to see that she changed trains at Portland.

Bailey was on his way to British Columbia to wrestle. When the arrest was made the train crew threatened Bailey with violence but the police dissuaded them.

In a statement to the police the girl is alleged to have said that Bailey occupied the same berth with her two nights they were on the road.

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Dispelled Backache, Headaches and Dizziness.

Piqua, Ohio.—"I would be very grateful if I failed to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the praise it deserves, for I have taken it at different times and it always relieved me when other medicines failed, and when I hear a woman complain I always recommend it. Last winter I was attacked with a severe case of organic weakness. I had backache, pains in my hips and over my kidneys, headache, dizziness, lassitude, had no energy, limbs ached and I was always tired. I was hardly able to do my housework. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one other occasion, and it had helped me, so I took it again and it had built me up, until now I feel like a new woman. You have my hearty consent to use my name and testimonial in any way and I hope it will benefit suffering women."—Mrs. ORPHA TURNER, 431 S. Wayne St., Piqua, Ohio.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

The Journal bowlers permitted a lead of 77 pins in the first session to encourage their opponents. Despite great gains in the third frame, the handicap could not be overcome. It is predicted that the next game will have a different result.

OPEN FORUM

UNEMPLOYED SITUATION DISCUSSED BY REV. TISCHER

Editor Capital Journal: While many problems confront the American people, perhaps none press home so keenly as the problem of the unemployed. And yet, this problem is but one phase of a general condition which is spreading. Not only is our nation confronted with this grave problem of the unemployed, but all other nations are similarly afflicted, with this vital difference, that it is still comparatively easy for the other nations to unload their surplus and unemployed upon us, because of the rather lax and unrestricted immigration laws of our country.

Without entering into a discussion of "How, Why and Wherefore," without attempting here to ascertain causes and reasons for existing conditions, I feel constrained to ask a few questions in the hope that full and free discussion may be provoked for it is a question for earnest and serious reflection and thought.

The army of unemployed is with us and is increasing. This army is composed chiefly of men good, bad and indifferent. These men, as human beings, have certain needs and also certain rights. They are idle because mines, lumber camps and mills, shops and factories and stores, etc., are running on short time, or have closed under a general industrial depression. There is little or no work to be had. How many of our merchants today are keeping salesmen upon their payrolls whose services are not needed so far as trade is concerned?

What is to be done under these conditions for which the unemployed are certainly not responsible, for whatever may be said about or against them, they certainly have not shared in those manipulations of finance and interests and profits upon which the masses of the common people are more and more dependent. Have not all men certain material rights, even as they all have common material needs?

Are they not all members of one great world wide family?
Are they not all parts of the social whole?
Are they not all brothers—brothers in need?

Are we not each others keepers?
Food, clothing and shelter all men must have and in order to have at least these absolute essentials of life, men must have work.
How to provide work to relieve pressing want and suffering is the most urgent question.

Our federal and state labor departments should make this question a first consideration.

What are the remedies worked out by special industrial and labor commissions?

What recommendations came from the chairs of social sciences of our great colleges?

What means have leaders of organized labor to offer?

What are the efforts of the churches? Free employment agencies, under state or federal supervision, in connection with labor bureaus or commissions; the building of state and federal highways and canals; the small farm with state assistance for settlers; state, county and municipal farms, wood yards, stone piles, park and street extension work, all are suggested as immediate helps of relief (not as permanent cures) to give work to our unemployed.

Would it not be wise, as well as timely, to give serious thought to the immigration question?

Should we not regulate these "flood gates through which coal is being heaped upon the already menacing fire? Self-preservation being the first law of nature, should not the American people in the preservation and protection of American ideal and standard of life, and of living, take cognition of this channel, by which the army of unskilled labor, the army of our unfortunate unemployed, is sure to be augmented?

Will not restricted immigration prove more effective than souphouses and breadlines, and charity and pauperism?

R. F. TISCHER.

HOPMAN IN FAVOR OF CONCRETE ROADS IN COUNTY

Editor Capital Journal: Glad of your correction in yesterday's Journal, as to the amount of taxes one must pay on account of bond issue for permanent roads. There was no intention to misrepresent, simply an error.

Bonds asked for are $850,000, and this means annual interest charges of $45,000, or a fraction less than $1 on each $1000 assessment; it will require same amount to pay off the principal.

We ask for permanent roads to be built with this money, which means concrete roads, and probably wearing surface, such as we have on some of our paved streets. This will mean an investment in 75 to 100 miles of first-class highways. Every citizen can at least get some benefit from this for a good many years. Compare it with our Masonic temple here, which is acknowledged a permanent building and a credit to Salem. It is an investment of the highest class. So will the concrete roads be to Marion county a permanent investment. Who in this city would go back to the muddy streets of the past? We will say the same thing after we build and have the use of these concrete roads.

Mr. Editor, you were attracted to our beautiful city by our well paved streets and other permanent improvements, and so will the home-seeker be attracted by these permanent roads, to settle on our lands. I claim it is not such a great advantage to attract the speculator as the man who wants a permanent home. Give us a system of permanent highways in Marion county, and the question of "back to the farm" is largely solved.

Come join us and boost for "good roads," and you will not regret it.
