ROOM ENOUGH FOR THIRD BIG LEAGUE

Fact That Organized Baseball Had Considered It for Three or Four Years Is Very Significant.

MAJOR LEAGUES KNEW THEY WOULD HAVE MUCH TROUBLE

No Chance to Jar Them Loose From Good Players No Matter How Badly They Are Needed.

BY HALL SHERIDAN.

While the National league is fighting an' rassin in a row, an' the 'Mericans er standin' by an' tellin' 'em as how they had to fire C. Murphy an' git rid of all his noise, they oughta git another tip from ole Ban Johnson's boys.

They ain't no use a 'dodgin' 'hind words an' pullin' 'hair When all is bright with sunshine an' baseball's in the air. Ef the fightin' keeps agoin' 'fore they know what they're about The Federals 'll git 'em if they don't watch out.

New York, Feb. 26.—When the Federal league was just beginning to break into print and disturb the peace of mind of organized baseball, one of the chief stocks in the trade of arguing against the possibility of the league being able to live was the statement of big baseball officials that there was not room for a third league. There was no place for another organization it was declared, and therefore the Federals could not exist. As a result of the recent meeting of the leagues in New York, however, we know now that organized baseball itself has been considering for the past two or three years the establishment of a third major league circuit. Also that one of the "war plans" considered in the early days was the placing of a third league in the field to combat the Federals. All of which indicates anything that one may wish to take it as indicating.

for two or three years. As a matter of fact some of the clubs leading the two big leagues have men buried on the bench who are better ball players than perform daily for the tailenders, and there you are.

Will Not Loosen Up. The major leagues know they would have difficulty in putting a third big circuit under way. No one would be willing to give up, but if the Federals keep at it they may show how it can be done. "The only way a third major league could be started by organized ball," said a well-known manager here recently, "would be to take some players from each of the clubs in the American and National leagues as a nucleus for the league. But a fine chance there would be of getting any of the club owners to loosen up. Why, I could have won a pennant one year if I could have bought, borrowed or stolen a catcher when all of my regulars were out of the game injured. Could I get one? Yes, just like I could persuade John D. Rockefeller to pay his $12,000,000 in Cleveland. The club owners hang on to what they have, and there would be a fine time getting players for a new league."

Kept Walsh Buried. Connie Mack had Walsh, center fielder during the last world's series buried for two or three years. Walsh was then a star but Mack had men of such high caliber that there was no place for Walsh but on the bench. He played every position on the team at one time or another while waiting around for some veteran to crack and make a place for him. These men who are doing time on the bench are experienced and need training, it is true, but whenever a greater demand for star players develops they will begin coming to the top. If the Federal league cuts in and is able to grab off some of the star minor league players the two big leagues may be forced to pull out some of their bench warmers a little sooner. Because stars are scarce now is no reason for believing they will continue to be. It is natural to suppose that the more baseball there is to be played the more players there will be developed and the percentage of stars will increase in proportion.

May Wreck Minor Leagues. The Federal league is in a position to wreck the minor leagues of the country if it cares to, in the opinion of Joe Tinker. He has pointed out that where the major leagues pay fabulous prices for a minor league star (the money going to the club owner) the Federals may secure such a player by simply bidding to the player direct and meeting the offer of organized baseball with an offer of salary to the player equal to the amount the majors pay for him. After organized ball makes the purchase they would still have the man's salary to pay, but the Federals would have taken care of that by turning the big money to the player in the form of salary instead of handing it to the club owner. As the big money in minor league ball comes from the sale of players these interests are hammering loudly at the big fellows to find some way of stopping the Federals taking them into the fold, or doing something to avert disaster. Of course this idea of wrecking the minors works both ways, for without the minors no crops of major league players would be developed. The Federals would thus be crawling out on a limb and them sawing it off, which raises the question of how far they would go with such war measures.

Hard Game on Saturday. The Willamette University basketball team is working the hardest this week that they have this season, preparatory to the contest with the Multnomah club next Saturday evening which will close the season. The clubmen's quintet is conceded to be much faster than when it defeated the local variety 29 to 12 on the Portland floor while the university team has been experiencing considerable difficulty in keeping its first team organized and working together. Carson and Tallman who were in the line-up against Multnomah at Portland, have not been out for some time past and the proposition of filling the places of these two men and at the same time increasing the strength of the team to a sufficient extent to wrest victory from the clubmen is a task that even Willamette's wizard, Dr. Sweetland, believes himself unable to perform.

The squad as it is now working consists of Homan, Pfaff, Rowland, Fliegel, Shisler, Gates, Bagley and Luce. Out of this number only the first three are old men. The others have had hardly any high school experience and have developed almost entirely under the tutoring of Dr. Sweetland during the past season. The line-up for Saturday night is still a matter of speculation.

TAFT REFUSES OFFER OF CHICAGO MAN FOR CUBS. (UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.) Cincinnati, Feb. 26.—After a brief talk with Louis J. Behan, of Chicago, an attorney representing a syndicate which desires to purchase the stock in the Chicago National league club held by Charles P. Taft, of this city, Mr. Taft late yesterday definitely refused the offer made by Mr. Behan, and the latter left for Chicago. Mr. Taft declined to make public any statement as to the amount he was offered for his stock, or for what he would be willing to sell it, but it seemed probable that control of the Chicago club will remain in his hands for some time.

Nothing has been done in selecting a president for the club, and it is said no decision will be made until Mr. Taft decides whether he will retain or sell his stock.

The mushrooms, or toadstools, were eaten Saturday at noon. The family was accustomed, after each rain, when the fungus growth was plentiful, to partake freely of the mushrooms. Almost time to begin that gardening.
