

HARRIMAN MEDAL GIVEN TO SOUTHERN PACIFIC

Speeches of Sproule and Kruttschnitt on Occasion Are of Interest to the Company's Patrons.

REMARKABLE RECORD OF COMPANY DUE TO EFFICIENCY.

Loyalty of Officers and Staff and Men on Line in Every Grade of the Service Responsible.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

New York, March 17.—The American museum of safety presentation of the E. H. Harriman memorial medals took place Saturday evening at the studio of A. A. Anderson, this city.

Presentation of the gold medal for the Southern Pacific company was made to J. Kruttschnitt, chairman, who replied in part as follows:

"This beautiful medal in memory of Mr. Harriman is offered to the railroads annually in competition to stimulate and direct effort for the conservation of human life, for preventing accidents and promoting industrial hygiene affecting railroad employees and the public. Mr. Harriman devoted his wonderful energy and talents during the best years of his life to rehabilitating and improving every railroad with which he was connected, compelling recognition from both friends and rivals as the greatest constructor of the age."

"Thousands of miles of railroads built to the highest standards, stretching from the Missouri river to the Pacific ocean from Canada to the table lands of far Mexico, are monuments to his genius."

Teamwork and Co-Operation.

"Teamwork and co-operation were Mr. Harriman's watch word and his wonderful success was in a great measure due to the faith with which he inspired his officers and men. I believe the high degree of safety in train operation attained by the men of the Southern Pacific company was made possible only by loyal and perfect co-operation following Mr. Harriman's ardently advocated policy of 'working together.' To appreciate what was done to win the Harriman medal we must resort to statistics."

"During the year ending June 30, 1913, the company's locomotives in freight, passenger and work service, ran 59,738,000 miles, a figure too large to convey any meaning. At this rate the miles ran since last Saturday night would girdle our earth 46 times, or nearly seven times in a day, or once in three and a half hours with so great a movement the liability to accident is very great, yet 41,883,000 passengers were carried the inconceivably great aggregate distance of 1,750,482,000 miles, the equivalent of transporting the entire population of Greater New York, some 5,000,000 people from New York to Rochester and this was done without a fatality in a train accident. Furthermore, it was done for the four years preceding with the same immunity. Among the 45,000 men engaged in pursuits not involving train movement there was one fatality in every 876,400 days or 2,400 years worked."

"In behalf of the Southern Pacific company that you have honored 'for the utmost progress in safety and accident prevention and as spokesman for 61,300 men whose faithful performance of duty throughout the year, has won this recognition, I thank you, gentlemen of the board of trustees of the American museum of safety, and you, Mrs. Harriman, through whose generosity the medal has been provided."

Presented to Sproule.

The silver replica of the medal was presented to William Sproule, president, as the officer immediately responsible for the administration of the company in its operations, who made response as follows:

"In receiving the medal which the American museum of safety has seen fit to bestow upon me, I do so with a keen sense of the representative relation I bear to the Southern Pacific company. In this representative relation to the property as the officer immediately responsible for the administering of its operations I fully recognize and realize how little could be attained in the high degree of safety achieved in the company's operations were it not for the loyalty and efficiency of the officers and staff and the men on the line, in every grade of the service. With a body of men imbued with the loyalty that makes for efficiency, and imbued with the knowledge that efficiency cannot be had without discipline, great things may be done. I believe our winning the medal is because of the loyalty and efficiency and discipline of the company's forces in all the branches of the service which contribute to the safety of the passenger, and also, in accepting for myself this silver replica of the medal, I desire to couple with it an expression of my appreciation of these high qualities in the officers associated with me and in my fellow employees throughout the service. Beyond this, I can say that for myself and them, I feel the responsibility newly put upon me by the American museum of safety. It inspires us to further effort in all measures for safety. Indeed the formal and nationwide recognition of safety as an imperative factor in railroad operation stimulates us to make further and persistent and intelligent effort to maintain the record of the past and to improve upon it. In conclusion I desire also to express my personal gratification that the glorious lady who has given these medals in memory of her husband, under whom I have served, finds that the museum's first bestowal of the medal, is upon one of the Harriman lines. I thank you."

The bronze replica of the medal was awarded on the nomination of the president, through the chairman of the executive committee to William Schwab, conductor on the Sacramento division, who has made the best showing in the matter of practical suggestions, and general interest manifested in the safety campaign.

The affair was attended by several hundred persons. The Anderson studio in which it was held, is one of the most attractive and interesting rooms in the United States placed by its owners at the service of the museum making the presentation as unique in its character, as was the occasion itself.

SHE PROMISES ECONOMY

MISS CATHERINE POOLER, CANDIDATE FOR TREASURER, IS WELL KNOWN THROUGHOUT COUNTRY

The women, very properly are taking the position that they are as much entitled to fill the offices as are the men, and so in all parts of the state there are candidates out for county offices. The last to announce herself in this county is Miss Catherine Pooler, who has filed her petition for the republican nomination for county treasurer. Miss Pooler has a host of friends throughout the county, having taught school in many of the districts, and she also taught here in Salem for about 5 years. If she had been a boy she would have been "a native son" having been born in the state. She is a good accountant, having had considerable experience in that line, and if elected will no doubt make a most excellent officer. One thing in her favor is that she has no "slogan," but say she will give her entire attention to the duties of the office and see that it is administered carefully, efficiently and economically, and surely that is enough for any one officer to do.

MRS. BROWN'S SUCCESS

"AN OREGON MONARCH," MOST BEAUTIFUL IN CONCEPTION AND PERFECT IN PORTRAYAL.

Some time ago, attention was called in these columns to the meritorious work of Maud Shall Brown with respect to her copy of Fery's famous painting, "In the Heart of the Rockies," which she exhibited here at that time. A copy of this painting by the same artist hangs in the home of the writer, who was led by its faithfulness in outline to the original, its perfection of color, and masterful portrayal of the sublime in nature, to visit the artist and learn more of her work. Many beautiful creations of her art were found in her home—both copies and original paintings. Of these latter, one, "In Days of Old," was exhibited last fall and attracted much attention, winning an unusual amount of favorable comment for its smoothness of finish, its delicacy of tinting, and the all-permeating spirit of artistic atmosphere which seems to breathe from its graceful lines and harmonious tints. Especially does her brush seem to lend itself to the interpretation of nature, in charming landscapes and the sympathetic delineation of the denizens of the forest and field. This choice was shown in her love for Fery's work, and has revealed itself again and again in her many original creations as well as in her several other reproductions.

Mrs. Brown is an Oregonian by adoption only, but she loves Oregon and finds in its charming scenes a never-fading inspiration. Her latest work, done entirely in tones of brown, is entitled, "An Oregon Monarch," and speaks of Oregon in its every line. Mrs. Brown, herself, thinks of it as one of her most perfect works and it truly is most beautiful in conception and most perfect in portrayal. This and others of her favorites she has been urged to place on exhibition and it is hoped that she may do so before long that many may be given the pleasure of viewing her charming productions.

ST. PATRICK'S PRAYER AT MUNSTER.

A blessing on the Munster people—Men, youths and women;
A blessing on the land
That yields them fruit!

A blessing on every treasure
That shall be produced in their plains,
Without any one being in want of help,
God's blessing be on Munster!

A blessing on their peaks,
On their fair flagstones;
A blessing on their glens,
A blessing on their ridges.

Like the sand of the sea under ships
Be the number of their hearts.
On slopes, on plains,
On mountains, on hills, a blessing!

SETTLEMENT OF FIGHT WITH TRUST CONSIDERED LIKELY

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Portland, Or., March 17.—That a settlement has been reached between Attorney General McKeynolds and the officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph company in the suit of the government asking the unmerging of the so-called "telephone trust" and the Northwestern Long Distance Telephone company, together with the unmerging of other independent connections in various parts of the country, made by the big holding corporation, was intimated late yesterday by Miss Mary Bell, special stenographic examiner in the taking of all the testimony in the litigation.

Miss Bell who is stenographer for United States District Judge Bean, has been in the big cities in the case, and has just returned from Washington. She refused to state positively that a settlement had been reached, but she had been informed both by counsel for the government and the telephone interests that no more testimony was to be taken, and she was allowed to return to her position in Portland.

BROTHERS OF ST. PATRICK

The Brothers of St. Patrick, or Patrician Brothers, have played an important part in the educational history of Ireland. According to the Catholic Encyclopedia, this brotherhood was founded by the Right Rev. Dr. Daniel Delaney, bishop of Kildare and Leighton, at Tullow, in the county of Carlow, Ireland, on the feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary in 1808, for the religious and literary education of the youth and the instruction of the faithful in Catholic piety. Ireland was just at that time emerging from the troubled times of penal laws.

These laws made it treacherable for a Catholic parent to procure for his child a religious and secular education in consonance with his belief.

The nucleus of this body was chosen from seven young Sunday school teachers in his diocese. In later years filiations were established with other dioceses.

Two Dishes For St. Patrick's Day. St. Patrick's Savor.—Boil six large potatoes with their jackets and let them cool in the skins. Then peel, slice and chill. Chop very fine a heaping tablespoonful of parsley and half an onion, mix lightly, cover with sauce tartare and serve on lettuce leaves.

Green Pepper Salad.—Open a can of asparagus tips, wash them lightly in cold water and ice them to get them very cold. Cut a green pepper in half and remove the seeds. Lay the tips in this and cover with mayonnaise. Rest the cups on lettuce or escarole.

ST. PATRICK'S NAME

IT is a remarkable fact in connection with geographical appellations that the footsteps of St. Patrick can be traced almost from the cradle to his grave by the names of places called after him. Thus, assuming his Scotch origin, he was born in Kilpatrick (the cell or church of Patrick, in Dumbartonshire. He resided for some time at Dalpatrick (the church or division of Patrick, near Lanarkshire, and visited Crug-Phadrig (the rock of Patrick), near Inverness. He founded two churches, Kilpatrick at Irongray, in Kircudbright, and Kirkpatrick at Fleming, in Dumfries, and ultimately sailed from Portpatrick, leaving behind him such an odor of sanctity that among the most distinguished families of the Scotch aristocracy Patrick has been a favorite name down to the present day.

Arriving in England, he preached in Patterdale (Patrick's dale), in Westmorland, and founded the Church of Kilpatrick in Durham. Visiting Wales, he walked over Sarn-badrig (Patrick's causeway), which, now covered by the sea, forms a dangerous shoal in Carnarvon bay, and departing for the continent, sailed from Llan-badrig (the Church of Patrick), in the island of Anglesea. Undertaking his mission to convert the Irish, he first landed at Inispatrick (the island of Patrick) and next at Holmpatrick, on the opposite shore of the mainland, in the county of Dublin.

Sailing northward, he touched at the Isle of Man, sometimes since also called Innes-patrick, where he founded another church of Kirkpatrick, near the town of Peel. Again landing on the coast of Ireland, in the county of Down, he converted and baptized the chieftain Diolu on his own thrashing floor. The name of the Parish of Saul, derived from Sabel-patrick the barn of Patrick, perpetuates the event. He then proceeded to Templepatrick, in Antrim.
