Caramel Custard.
1 cup sugar.
1 pint milk.
1/2 cup butter.
2 tablespoonfuls corn starch.
1 1/2 teaspoonfuls Mapleine.
Put milk in double boiler and thicken with the corn starch dissolved in a little water. Put sugar and butter in saucepan, stir until sugar is melted, then gradually stir them together and add the Mapleine. Strain if necessary, cool and serve with Mapleine whipped cream

Mapleine Three Layer Cake.
1 piece butter size of an egg.
1 1/2 cups granulated sugar.
1 whole egg and two yolks.
2 1/2 cups flour.
2 teaspoons Crescent baking powder.
1 cup milk.
1/2 teaspoon Mapleine.
Cream butter and sugar, add well beaten eggs. Put baking powder into flour and add alternately with milk. Add flavoring last. Bake in moderate oven. Use Mapleine filling.

Mapleine Ribbon Cake.
1 cup sugar.
1/2 cup butter.
2 cups milk.
3 1/2 cups flour.
1 teaspoon Crescent baking powder.
Juice of half a lemon.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
Cream butter and sugar, add gradually lemon juice and vanilla. Beat five minutes. Stir sifted flour, baking powder and milk into a batter, add to butter and sugar. Mix well, and separate in two batters. Flavor one with Mapleine. Bake in layers, fill and cover with white icing.

Mapleine Cookies.
1 cup sugar.
1 small cup butter.
Yolks of 4 eggs.
1/2 cup sweet milk.
2 teaspoons Crescent baking powder sifted with a little flour.
1 small teaspoon Crescent Mapleine
Mix with enough flour to make a stiff dough, roll thin and bake in moderately hot oven.

Mapleine Doughnuts.
1/2 cup sugar.
1 cup Mapleine syrup.
1 cup thick sour milk.
2 eggs.
2 teaspoons soda (sift in).
1 cup flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon ginger.
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.
Flour to make a soft dough.

1/2 cup butter.
2 cups sugar.
3-4 cup sweet milk.
3 cups flour.
2 teaspoons Crescent baking powder.
3 eggs (whites).
1/2 teaspoon Mapleine.
Cream butter and sugar thoroughly; add, alternately, milk and flour sifted with baking powder. Fold in beaten egg whites. Add Mapleine. Bake in moderate oven.

Mapleine Hot Biscuits.
1 quart flour.
2 heaping teaspoons Crescent baking powder.
1 pinch salt.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 tablespoon lard.
1 scant teaspoon Mapleine.
Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together, rub in the butter and lard and use enough sweet milk with the Mapleine added to make a very soft dough. Roll gently to about one inch thickness, cut in small biscuits, crowd them together in pans and bake in a quick oven.

Mapleine Hot Cakes.
2 cups sour milk.
2 teaspoons Crescent baking powder.
1 egg.
1 pinch salt.
Flour enough to make thin batter.
1/2 teaspoon Mapleine.

CONFESSES SHE SENT SOME POISONED CANDY

Portland Woman Admits She Sought to Slay Stepchildren and Came Near Killing Many People.

SHE HAS NO USE FOR ANY MEMBER OF HUSBAND'S FAMILY

Tells How She Placed Poison in Candy and Mailed It to Persons She Wanted to Get Away With.

Portland, March 20.—By the confession at police headquarters last night of Mrs. Edith Edna Hawley, of 5327 Seventeenth street South East, the mystery of six boxes of poisoned candy, sent through the mails, which came near poisoning a whole neighborhood in the Mount Scott district, was cleared up. Three of the boxes of candy had been sent to her two little step-children, Stanley Howley, aged 11, who got two of the boxes, and Margaret Hawley, 6 years old, who got one.

Other Members Get Candy.
Another came by mail to an older step-son, Roy Baxter, of 601 Bidwell avenue.

Still another arrived in yesterday morning's mail for Mrs. Alice Bewley, of 7006 Fifty-fifth avenue Southeast, at whose home Mrs. Hawley's husband, Robert H. Hawley, and Stanley Howley, have lived since a quarrel three months ago which led to the separation of husband and wife.

The sixth box of deadly sweets was found on a bureau in Mrs. Hawley's home yesterday afternoon, when Detectives Swennes and Moloney went there to put her under arrest.

It was addressed to little Stanley Howley, the step-son, who had already received two of the poisoned packages.

Woman is Nonchalant.
To Detectives Swennes and Moloney the last night Mrs. Hawley confessed that she had prepared the poisoned candy and sent it, in the hope of killing her stepchildren.

"I don't like them," she said in a nonchalant sort of way, which no amount of questioning could break down. "I just haven't any use for the whole family. I saved enough of the poison for myself to take if it killed any of them."

She told how she had taken bichloride of mercury tablets and crushed them. She went on to relate that she had removed the bottoms from chocolate creams, put in the powdered bichloride of mercury, and then replaced the bottoms of the creams, after which she packed them carefully in their boxes and mailed them out.

Chemist Narrowly Escapes.
She filled the candy so full of the poison that E. C. Galloway, city chemist, who analyzed it for the detectives, had to take a quick antidote yesterday after having merely tasted one of the chocolates. He was nearly overcome. He said after his analysis that any one of the pieces of candy contained enough poison to have killed several persons.

That there were no deaths from her wholesale distribution of the poisoned sweets was due to a combination of lucky circumstances.

Boy Takes Poison.
The first package of the candy was received by Stanley Howley on St. Valentine's day last February 14. Wrapped in plain brown paper, the address was typewritten. On the box inside was printed crudely with lead pencil, "To My Valentine."

All unsuspectingly the 11-year-old boy bit into one of the chocolates. Almost instantly he spat it out and rushed to the kitchen for water to rinse his mouth.

"Ugh, but it's bitter!" he cried.

After that his father forbade him to eat any more of the candy, and Mr. and Mrs. Bewley would not let their own children eat it. All feared that it was poisoned, though none of them suspected Mrs. Hawley.

Two days later two more of the packages arrived. One was addressed to Roy Baxter, in care of S. F. Hall, principal of the Arleta school. The last night Mrs. Hawley confessed that who opened it before a crowd of his schoolmates. Twelve luscious-looking chocolates were inside.

The other boys immediately clamored for a share. Mr. Ball himself laughingly advised Stanley to "divide up" with them. The youngster, all his suspicions stirred by the fact that this box also had the penciled message, "To my Valentine," sturdily refused. He wouldn't tell why, but he wrapped up the box and took it home.

Chemist Galloway told the detectives, Swennes and Moloney, yesterday that if the boy had divided the candy every youngster who ate it would have died. It was in tasting one of the 12 pieces of candy from this box that the chemist himself was poisoned. He said each piece apparently had three or four tablets of bichloride of mercury dissolved in it.
