Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Kellogg announce the engagement of their daughter, Gay-hell, to Mr. Samuel Mountain of Portland, the wedding to be an event of the early spring. Miss Kellogg is a beautiful and talented young woman, being a clever artist, an accomplished musician and has attained quite a measure of success in short story writing. She has the distinction of being one of three "Gaynell's" in the United States, and singularly enough, Salem has the second one also, Miss Gaynell Baldwin, who is studying music in Europe. In fact all three girls are to bear this name is Gaynell Hadog, a banker's daughter of Amsterdam, N. Y., who wrote to Miss Kellogg upon discovering her name in a magazine, and the three girls have for two years corresponded, but never met. All were named from the same book, "Willful Gaynell," published about the time the girls were infants, all of them being the same age.

Rehearsals for the "Carnival of Children" to be presented by Miss Beatrice Shelton, April 17 at the opera house, are going on apace and the hundred little tots in their attractive songs and dances and the "Tom Thumb Wedding" will give a performance that will long be remembered by Salem theatergoers, and all will be theatergoers on that occasion, since many homes are represented by this number of little people whose ages range from three to ten years.

Mrs. Elizabeth Case, who was so ill in December, is able to go about with much greater ease, and her many friends are hoping that she will soon be able to resume her society department of the Capital Journal, which she so ably conducted for about three years before her illness.

The marriage of Miss Vera Chenoweth to Ward K. Richardson was solemnized Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chenoweth of North Salem, the Rev. The home was exquisitely decorated with wild flowers and apple blossoms, the ceremony being performed beneath an immense branch of dog-wood blossoms. Lester McCracken and Miss Fay Ritchie attended the couple. The bride who is a very charming girl, was dressed in her going-away suit of blue. A wedding dinner was served, after which the young couple left for a bridal trip north. They will return shortly and take up their residence in their own home just north of the city where Mr. Richardson conducts a grocery store.

Mrs. E. E. Waters gave a very charming luncheon on Thursday at 1 o'clock in honor of Miss Eula McCully of Hood River. A dainty centerpiece of ferns and spring flowers graced the table. Later bridge was played.

One of the largest affairs of the week in society circles was the auction bridge party given Tuesday by Mrs. Cooke Patton and Mrs. Tom R. Wilson, at the Patton home in honor of Miss Eula McCully of Hood River. All were friends of Miss McCully, who formerly lived her with her parents, her mother being a sister of the Hon. Hal D. Patton and E. Cooke Patton. Assisting the hostesses were the Misses Callista Moore, Effie Needham, Florence Houston and Jessie Keeton. There were eight tables of bridge played and others, making the great list about 45, passed the time pleasantly in conversation. Card honors went to Mrs. Channey Bishop. Carnations and putted plants formed the beautiful decorations. Refreshments were served. This is the first of a series to be given by these hostesses.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Raincoat For the April Showers.

DADDY had come in looking very wet and bedraggled, for he had been caught in an April shower.

"You know," said daddy, "we never know when these showers will come. Once there was a little boy named Ben who didn't believe in such things.

"He said: 'I think it is perfectly ridiculous. It rains just as much in all the other seasons—spring, summer and autumn months—as it does in April—only poor April gets the blame for it all. I've always felt sorry for April. Yes, I have. It's a much abused month.'

"Now, the reason Ben was talking like this and so much about the weather was that his granddaddy had given him $5. When he gave it to him he said: 'I think this will buy you a rubber raincoat. You will need one this month.'

"Ben had an umbrella and rubbers and a heavy coat—he usually wore when it rained, although it would not keep out all the rain. He really did need a raincoat. There was no doubt about it. But there was something else he wanted for more than a raincoat. He could get that with the $5.

"What was that?" asked Jack.

"Guess," replied daddy.

"A knife with lots of blades in it?" suggested Jack.

"No," said daddy. "Try again."

"A nice boat to sail on a pond perhaps?"

"No," said daddy. "Mercy me, I've never known you to use up your three guesses! Try once more. You must surely guess this time. Now, if it had been Evelyn I am sure she would have guessed it the first time."

"Jack will guess it this time, I'm certain," said Evelyn.

Jack thought for a moment. Then suddenly he said: "I know. I have it. An express cart."

"You're right," said daddy. "Well, Ben wanted that much more than a raincoat."

"The very next day he went to school, and the sun was shining brightly. But on his way home a real April shower came up. Ben realized then that there were such things as April showers. He hurried to the nearest shop where he could get a raincoat.

"He knew he had done the right thing. But, oh, how he longed for an express cart!

"His granddaddy was delighted when he saw Ben's new raincoat and said: 'I am glad that my little grandson did as I asked and got a raincoat. And now you may have an express cart, for a little bird whispered in my ear that you wanted one.'

"Oh, how wonderful of you, granddaddy!" said Ben.

New York Fashion Gossip

BY MARGARET MASON.

The tootsies of the modern maid. Have often in the past, because of too much tangoing, been pinned in plaster cast. But now they've cast the dust aside of plaster cast foot gear. And as a model outcome they are in bronze each one appears.

New York April 4.—You, verily, if lovely woman wants to put the best foot foremost this season she must see to it that it be shod in bronze. Though the idol of fashion has clay feet, yet they are sure to be bronze coated. Indeed it were almost better to wear a black eye than a black shoe so if you want the stamp of sartorial approval you must do your own stamping in bronze boots.

One of the loveliest of the new bronze models is dubbed the Ostead. It has the Colonial tongue, but sprouting the buckle, a neat little strap fastens it on one side with a button of cast steel or bronze. Of course this model is developed in black, white and gunmetal, of kid, suede, or cloth, but it is when of bronze that it has reached its acme of perfection.

Tango Slipper Styles.

The elaborate strapping of the tango slipper is shown to advantage in the bronze kid and another pretty effect is a slipper with two straps crossing over the instep and fastening with jeweled buttons on each side. The debutante still clings to the flat heeled pump and sandal but for her more seasoned sisters the higher the French heel the more it is their sole satisfaction.

Both white and bronze hued silk hose are smart with the bronze footwear and bright green, blue and violet are often worn with impunity and a matching costume. What boots it if your face be bronzed by the summer winds just so your feet are bronzed by the boots of the Made. And after all what could be more fitting for your point extremities. Isn't bronze a base metal?

Checks of Coat Suits Large.

Larger even than the checks of a corporation president are the checks of the coat suits now being much affected for smart street wear. Black and white is the favored combination and in both the huge checks and wide stripes this color contrast develops costumes that are startlingly chic and striking. It is with these toilettes of light and shade that the black shoe has had its one inning. With a costume like this the black patent kid Oxford or Colonial pump is the really smart finish to a white silk stockings foot.

The long tanned white linen sailor suits still hold their own in spite of the David Copperfield rival and in fact raise eyebrows in the heart of the small boy who rebels as intensely at the more picturesque attire wished on him by doting maternal parents and fickle fashion.

If some people know as much as they say, they would be very wise.

"Tommy, spell deer."
"Does yer mean deer, an animal, or deer, a girl?"

About the Vandals.
The next time you are called a "young vandal" by your admiring family you may be interested to know that the Vandals were a Teutonic race, which in 406 A. D. crossed the Rhine, entered Gaul and three years later founded an empire in Spain. For twenty years they warred with the Romans and the Goths and then passed over into Africa under their fierce leader, Genseric, subdued the Roman territory and captured Carthage. Their advent into any country was the signal for wild terror. Their kingdom in Spain was finally overthrown by the Moors.

Busy Birds.
It is said that the thrush works in the summer from 2:30 in the morning until 9:30 at night. During this time he feeds his young 200 times. Blackbirds work seventeen hours. The male feeds the little bird forty-four times and his mate fifty-five times a day. The finch gives its hungry children 417 meals each day. Caterpillars form a large part of their food.

THE MAN WHO BUTTS IN FIRST.

Him where no other might have gone
To find a continent—
But they who might have won the fame
Remained in doubt immersed,
The world gives him the credit who
Sets forth to butt in first.

Look out for opportunity
And when it comes rush in;
Don't wait because you fear you may
Not have the strength to win;
There may be others who could do
Your task with far more skill
Than you can do it—never mind—
Go at it with a will;
They cut but little figure who
Remain in doubt immersed,
The world gives all the credit to
The man who butts in first.
