Governor and Mrs. Oswald West, with President and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, Hon. and Mrs. J. K. Weatherford, of Albany; Lieutenant P. J. Hennessy, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McKnight, of Marshfield, were patrons and patronesses at the Junior given at Corvallis college Saturday night.

This was one of the most attractive affairs of the college year and was largely attended.

Mrs. Ellen Hunter, state organizer of the Christian Women's Board of Missions, of the Christian church, was a distinguished guest at an informal reception given by women of the First Christian church in their church parlors, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Hunter talked interestingly of her work and gave many helpful suggestions concerning the conducting of work by members of the local organization.

About 40 guests were present. Following Mrs. Hunter's address, Mrs. Thomas Galloway gave a vocal number and other musical numbers were furnished by a ladies' quartet.

Mrs. Hunter has jurisdiction over Oregon, California, Washington and Idaho, with headquarters in Portland. During her stay in Salem, she was the guest of Mrs. Flora Clark on Chemeketa street.

The graduating class of Albany college will receive their degrees June 10. The class is composed of Mr. Arthur Hudges and Mr. Lester Lacey, the M. A. degree, Miss Mary Irvine and Miss Ina Hansen. In voice, Miss Ina Hansen and Mr. Ray Cleaver.

The following item from the Portland Telegram is of general interest to Oregon people:

Oregon boys and girls in and near Washington, D. C., were the guests at an enjoyable party Saturday evening, given by Homer Shaver and Miss Harriet Lane, of Oregon. Homer Shaver is the son of Captain and Mrs. George Shaver, of Portland. The affair was given in the residence of Representative and Mrs. John H. Stephens, of

W. C. HAWLEY

Candidate for Renomination at the Republican Direct Primary Friday, May 15, 1914.

"From the commencement of his political career, Mr. Hawley has followed the rule that his first duty is to the people he represents. His own motto is 'No interests to serve but the public interests,' and he has held to that persistently. He is clean, capable, and energetic, and altogether the right kind of a man to represent others." (From editorial, Grants Pass Observer, February 18, 1914.) (Paid Adv.)

Texas, Mrs. Stephens is the sister of Mrs. Shaver, and formerly resided in Portland. Homer Shaver is attending the law department of George Washington university, and was recently elected captain of the basketball team for the coming year.

The boys present were: Hal Bean, Chester Downs, Ralph Dodson, Harry Slater, Archie King, Harold Long and Homer Shaver, of Oregon, and Roy LaFollette, of Washington.

Mrs. Edith Tozier Wethered was the principal speaker at the meeting held by the Kenton Parent-Teachers' association last Wednesday afternoon. At this time definite plans were completed for an entertainment to be given May 27, at which time a menu will be served by the Oregon Manufacturers, whom Mrs. Wethered represents.

The Mutual Art association, of Portland, has issued invitations for a private exhibition to be given at the Central library, May 6. From May 7 to 21, inclusive, the pictures will be on exhibition for the general public. Oregon artists will have on display some 100 oils and water colors, and splendid canvases loaned by artists of national and international reputation will also be viewed.

Tuesday night about forty high school pupils, mostly second semester algebra students of the fresman class, formed a jolly crowd on a picnic excursion. A lively "woolsey" spot south of the city was their objective point, where a general good time and picnic lunch was enjoyed.

Miss Ferrin, teacher of mathematics of the high school, and Mr. Broas, assistant of the manual training department, were chaperones. The party was made up of the following:

Misses Hazel Anderson, Charlotte Croison, Vivian Hargrove, Helen Holt, Ruth Hollister, Mary Hostedler, Margery Kay, Ila Spaulding, Lenore Thompson, Magdalena Tuffi, Celia Wilson, Mildred Kayler, Messrs. Earl Anderson, Lyle Bartholomew, Harold Cook, Nick Hatch, Theron Hoover, Charles Huguis, Bert Nichl, Royal Moore, Glen Powers, Arthur Wilson, and Frank Zinn.

Applicants for membership to Salem's Summer Band organization are rehearsing regularly, and the final selection will probably be announced shortly.

These concerts are always eagerly looked forward to, as they furnish the most dependable part of the summer's musical program.

The Yeomen of the local lodge are planning an entertainment to be given in their lodge rooms Friday night. The program contains vocal, instrumental, and dancing numbers. Dancing specialties will be given by Little Catherine White, who pleased the large audience at the Grand opera house on the night of the presentation of the "Children's Carnival."

A dancing program will follow and informal entertainment provided for those who do not dance.

Members of the lodge of Royal Arcanum entertained with a dance at Moose hall, Monday night. Music was furnished by the Peerless orchestra. The local order has only been organized since last December, and the present membership numbers about 40.

Sixty guests were present Monday night. Punch was served by Miss Gladys Bartholomew and Miss Helen Harris.

Mrs. A. N. Moore entertained her Tuesday Afternoon Bridge club yesterday, with her guest, Mrs. R. S. Bean, of Portland, as an honorary attendant.

FOUND DEAD IN ROOM

The club members presented Mrs. Bean with a great cluster of exquisite Cecil Brunner roses. Judge and Mrs. Bean were the house guests of the Moores during their stay, Judge Bean returning home Sunday.

Mrs. Bean was also informally entertained by Mrs. E. Hofer and Mrs. Wm. Brown, leaving this morning for her home, with the Wm. Browns, who motored down to Portland to spend the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rinehart are home from their honeymoon, and are domiciled at their new home, corner of State and Twenty-fourth streets.

Members of the United Circle organization of the First Christian church met in their church parlors this afternoon for their regular session.

Miss Mary Eckerle entertained with two tables of bridge Tuesday afternoon. Miss Jennie Fry securing the prize, a beautiful piece of hand-painted china from Miss Gill's studio.

Mrs. Paul Schmidt and Mrs. May Lachmund were special guests for the afternoon.

Miss Ruth Elbertson entertained a number of her friends Tuesday evening with a launch trip up the Willamette, where a bouffire and a story-telling hour were enjoyed. Later the party motored to the Howe country home in Polk county to spend the night.

Miss Howe is a recent addition to Salem. She is a former St. Helens' hall student, and many of her guests since coming here have been former classmates.

SEEKING NEW RECRUITS

SERGEANT JUDSON PRESENTED WITH WATCH FOR WINNING "REVILLE RACE"

Sergeant Leonard B. Judson of a M company was presented with a gold watch fob with the United States coat of arms on it last evening after the regular drill as the result of winning the "reville race" in the armory on New Year's day, at which time M company held open house. The fob is a fine military ornament and is valued about $2.50. The "reville race" consisted of the soldiers retiring as for the night, and then at the sound of "reville" getting out, dressing, rolling their blankets, and getting their equipment on as soon as possible.

It was announced by First Lieutenant Roy Neer that as a result of the rifle shoot last Sunday, two qualified as expert riflemen, the two as sharpshooters, and one as marksmen. This record is considered exceptionally good for the first day out on the range. M company stood high last year in the regiment for average individual scores but it is the belief of the officers that this record can be brought much higher this year.

After drill the company meeting was turned into a booster meeting for recruits. It was the opinion of the officers that the last bunch of recruits that came in to the company was the best lot of men that has enlisted for some time and that as a result the standard of the personnel has been considerably raised. Captain Gehlar said that in regard to sobriety, non-use of tobacco, and general morality that few lodges or fraternal organizations had anything over Salem's military company.

CATTLE HAVE BABIES.

Baker, May 6.—Reports that hydrophobia is spreading alarmingly among cattle on Lower Burnt river reached here today. Already 18 cattle, infested with rabies have been killed.

Secretary Olcott has had the bundles of candidates' petitions assembled and their pictures "took." When one looks at the pile of manuscript, and realizes the number of names contained therein, he cannot help but feel sorry at the waste time, paper and lead pencil represented by them. But, then, think of the good money the circulators earned.

VETERANS PLAN TO HOLD ANNUAL PARADE

San Diego, Cal., May 6.—Fifteen hundred veterans of the Union in the civil war were scheduled to march through the city streets here today in their annual parade, the feature of the 47th annual encampment of the California-Nevada department, G. A. R. Reports show that 6,014 warriors belong to the department. During the last year 431 died.

A reception to the veterans was given last night at the Isis theater, by Mrs. Katherine Tingley, head of the Theosophist Brotherhood.

Retribution is something we feel sure will eventually overtake our neighbors.

EVIDENCES OF TERRIFIC STRUGGLE DISCREDIT THEORY OF SUICIDE OF J. D. GALEHOUSE.

San Francisco, May 6.—With a bullet hole in his right temple, J. D. Galehouse, proprietor of the Lady Washington Packing company, was found unconscious in a room at his factory here today by Miss C. M. Bell, his stenographer. Galehouse was taken to the Harbor Emergency hospital in a dying condition.

The workroom in which Galehouse was found bore evidence of having been the scene of a terrific struggle. Tables were overturned, boxes upset and cans littered the floor. The injured man's coat was split up the back, his collar torn from the shirt and a shirt stud from which a jewel had been torn was lying nearby. A revolver also was found under the dying man's body.

Galehouse came here from Seattle about two months ago and established the packing company. Business associates scoffed at the idea of suicide, declaring he had been in a cheerful frame of mind since his arrival here and that he was apparently well supplied with funds.

Separated from Wife. Seattle, Wash., May 6.—J. D. Galehouse was formerly associated with W. H. Hemming, in a woman's tailoring establishment, and was secretary-manager of the Lady Washington Packing company. He moved the latter business to San Francisco about two months ago.

Mrs. Julia E. Galehouse, his wife, from whom he was separated about a year ago, resides at 4234 Eleventh avenue N. W.

When informed of her husband's condition, Mrs. Galehouse said she knew of no reason for such an attack and was at a loss to explain it.

She declined to discuss their strained marital relations.

ANOTHER SALEM CASE

It Proves That There's a Way Out for Many Suffering Salem Folks.

Just another report of a case in Salem. Another typical case. Kidney ailments relieved in Salem with Doan's Kidney Pills.

P. A. Sutton, tent and awning dealer, Salem, Ore., says: "I had kidney trouble and rheumatism for ten years and sometimes I was laid up. Doctors did not help me. Sharp pains extended through my back and were most severe in my kidneys. Often when working I had to give up. I lost weight and was in very poor health. I had headaches, rested but little at night and didn't know what to do. On a friend's advice I tried Doan's Kidney Pills and to my surprise they brought a great improvement in a few days. I continued to get better steadily. I got more sleep, my appetite improved and the pains gradually, but surely, left me. After I had used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I was in better health than I had been for ten years and not a sign of kidney complaint remained. The cure has been permanent. I gladly confirm the endorsement I gave Doan's Kidney Pills several years ago."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Sutton had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

TWO ENGLISHMEN ARE REPORTED KILLED IN RIOTS

Gundalajara, Mexico, May 6.—Rumors from the interior today were to the effect that C. B. Bailey and G. K. Williams, Englishmen, had been killed and Walter Neal and Patrick Baird, Americans, wounded, by Mexicans at El Favor mines, at Hostatipa Quillo. It was understood a riot occurred among the mine workers.

Confirmation Lacking.

Washington, May 6.—The navy department had no confirmation of the killing of two Englishmen and wounding of two Americans at Hostatipa Quillo, Mexico, beyond a dispatch from Admiral Howard, on the west coast, saying it was rumored a disturbance had occurred at El Favor mine.

OPEN FORUM.

Editor Capital Journal:—I see Mr. Albert gets after one of his critics, A. Doubter, and knocks out his argument by saying he probably dug up his fruit trees one night. This ought to settle it. I knew Mr. Albert was a banker and that he knew something about notes and mortgages and charging good interest, but I did not know before that he was so good at logic. Poor Mr. Doubter must feel too dead to skin. Hurrah for J. H. Albert!

I also see the poor old Statesman pities the few good men who are against the bonds. How few they are will be seen a day or so after election. They will be few enough to lick old Huerta and his band of greasers in Mexico.

Yours truly, UNCLE JOSH.

ANSWER TO MR. ALBERT.

Editor Capital Journal:—J. H. Albert, a banker, assumes to be a qualified lawyer in his answer to Liberty in the Capital Journal of May 2.

In his effort to construe the road-bonding act he falls into such errors and arrives at such conclusions as no one skilled in the law would be likely to reach.

Mr. Albert, before coming before an intelligent and impartial public in this discussion, should first have sought counsel of some competent attorney. He would then have been spared the humiliation of the following conclusions at which he arrives. He says:

"The word 'authorize' with the context as used in section 20 of the road law in section 2) or the road law, is mandatory, and the officer is required to perform the act therein authorized just as the word 'may' when used in reference to an official act means 'must.'"

This is straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel. If one is about to build a fine residence he would not employ a blacksmith to do the work, however skillful he might be at the forge. He would hire an experienced carpenter.

But applying Mr. Albert's rule of interpreting portions of this statute by the context. It is clear the drafters of this act were never at a loss to know what words to use when they desired portion of it to be mandatory upon the officer. As in section 24:

"The county court shall prepare plans and specifications of said road and shall invite bids in conformity to such plans and specifications." Nothing discretionary about that, is there?

Mr. Albert's contention that the word "authorize" as used in section 20 is synonymous with "required" is clearly contradicted by the use of these two words in that portion of section 5 pertaining to calling the election and reading as follows:

"The county court, however, is not 'required' to call a special election upon the petition provided for in this section, and the difference between the proceedings provided for in this section and that provided for in section 4 is that this section is intended to 'authorize' but not 'require' the county court to call a special election, whereas section 4 is intended to be mandatory upon the county court."

There is no further need of arguing that "authorize" is a word conveying discretionary power only and is not a mandatory word as "require," as Mr. Albert would have us believe.

An impartial interpretation of the road-bonding act will reveal clearly that the management of the redemption fund is entirely discretionary with the county treasurer and county court. These officers, should they decree to do so, may place this accumulating fund in the banks without interest during the entire period. They need not loan one dollar on real estate (not farming lands, as Mr. Albert has told us).

Mr. Albert says if the treasurer refused to perform his duty, our county court, through the district attorney, would compel him to comply with the law. But when that law clearly authorizes the county treasurer to keep the fund in question on deposit in the banks or loan it at his discretion, as in the case in the bonding law under discussion, then the county court and district attorney would be powerless, would they not?

Mr. Albert, for want of a substantial argument, states that Liberty bases his contention on the "assumption that our county courts and treasurers for the next 20 years will be recreant to duty. His final insinuation is mere buncombe."

This language is a flagrant breach of the recognized rules of discussion by Mr. Albert, as no such imputation was made by Liberty. He is only pointing out what the powers of these officers will be under the bonding act should it become a law, particularly how the exercise of such power will effect the management of the sinking fund.

Mr. Albert has not told us why the law requires private parties who might apply for a loan from this fund to pay

6 per cent on approved real estate security and why the same law permits banks to borrow this money as low as 3 per cent should the county treasurer and court decide to make loans from the sinking fund? Why is this favoritism shown the banks? But I further contend that, under the law, the officers will be clearly within their rights should they decide to allow the entire fund to remain in the banks as call money without any interest charge during the entire time. Read sections 20 and 21 again, Mr. Albert, in view of the fact that the words "authorize," as used in section 20, have been proven by other portions of this act to convey discretionary power only. Come again, Mr. Albert. "LIBERTY." Salem, Or., May 5.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Old Woman And the Pot Of Daffodils.

The Flowers Seemed Smiling at Her.

JACK and Evelyn used to keep bulbs in their room in the winter and then watch them grow. They loved to see the flowers come out in the nice, warm spring sunshine.

"You know," said daddy, "I must tell you the story this evening of the little girl who was almost made well by a pot of daffodils." Evelyn loved the bright yellow flowers. "I am not a bit surprised," she said to daddy, "that they helped the little girl so much. They are so gay and pretty."

"Yes," said daddy; "they are just like sunshine."

"What was the matter with the little girl?" asked Evelyn.

"She had had the grip all winter," continued daddy. "Her mother and daddy were very poor, and they could not afford to have the doctor very often. Laura, which was the little girl's name, seemed to be gaining very slowly. She had been so ill that she felt weak, and it was taking her a long time to get well and strong. It really seemed to be dreadfully discouraging."

"One day she was wondering if she would ever feel like herself again, able to do things and to play around. She was sitting up by the window in a big chair. She was looking out, feeling very sad and forlorn, when suddenly she saw a funny old woman who looked just like a witch stop by the window and then walk right into the room.

"The funny old woman spoke at once. "Don't be frightened," she said. "I'm not going to hurt you. Instead, you see this pot of daffodils I am carrying?"

"Yes," exclaimed Laura. "Aren't they beautiful?"

"I am so glad you like them," continued the old woman, "for they are for you."

"For me?" repeated Laura. "For me?"

"Yes," said the old woman. "When the spring comes I take a walk each day, carrying with me a pot of daffodils. When I see some one sitting in the window of a house looking sick and longing to go out I just go right in and leave my pot of daffodils, for they are better than any spring tonic, to my mind."

"And the yellow flowers smiled at Laura and bobbed their pretty heads, saying, 'We'll make you well.'"

"And, sure enough, they really did more toward making Laura well than anything else. How could she help but feel better with the bright flowers smiling at her and cheering her up? And there were buds coming out. She loved watching for them."
