A ten-month-old filly, owned by Dr. Patterson, the well known veterinarian of Salem, has been recognized as a promising animal, the owner having refused $500 for the little track colt, which was offered by a Portland stockman. It is a "Hal B" filly and was sired by Zolock, the grand Oregon stallion that has a record of two and a quarter. There has been several Hal B colts sold for two and three thousand dollars, and Dr. Patterson is going to hold his filly a while yet.

Young Massey, the lad who was given five days for begging by Judge Elgin in the police court yesterday morning, and who was advised to take advantage of the opportunity to wash up, used plenty of soap and water, according to the officers. The chief of police gave the prisoner a whole bar of soap and when Massey returned the bar last night it was about as thin as paper. He petitioned the chief this morning for more soap and more time in which to finish washing his clothes.

"You can just hear 'em squeak as they jump out of the ground," said Tom Louts, the hop grower, who has a farm near Independence and who is in Salem today on business. Mr. Louts has 130 acres this year and declares that he is not going to lose a hill. The weather is perfect for the hops now, he says, and there will be a monster crop this season in the event the valley has no unexpected and unusually wet weather from now on.

F. J. Lafay, who is now business manager of the city of LaGrande, arrived in Salem last night and will spend a few days on business. Mr. Lafay was formerly a member of the city council here and also a member of the Salem school board. He declares that LaGrande is in need of a reduction in city expenses and that recently some policemen and other city officers were dismissed. The municipal manager states that a great hole went up in LaGrande when several of the city employees were let out, but that owing to there being something like $100,000 in city warrants outstanding, something had to be done to relieve the situation.

Hon. S. A. Bennett candidate for the democratic nomination for governor was in the city this morning for a few minutes and in company with a couple of friends made a trip through the country near during the day. He is greatly pleased with the outlook, and says he will be satisfied whatever the result, for he has learned the loyalty of his friends and says the expressions of good will and friendship will remain with him a pleasant memory long after the campaign has gone into the pages of ancient history. There seems to be a general tendency among the democrats to get together on the judge as the strongest candidate they have, and his friends are predicting that he will be the winner.

For a time yesterday afternoon it was thought that Vera, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Babcock, was either seriously injured or completely lost. The tot was in the city with her mother and while Mr. Babcock was shopping, Vera slipped away and for over an hour she spent the time enjoying the sights in the show windows. The police were notified and a search was made but the child could not be located. Mrs. Babcock finally returned home, where she found the baby safe and sound. The little girl, after failing to locate her mother, had gone home and was waiting serenely and unconcerned of the worry she had caused when Mrs. Babcock returned.

The sidewalk on South Commercial from Lincoln to the cemetery and city limits, are in a dangerous condition. There are holes in the plankings, which is laid lengthwise of the walk, that will let the unwary pedestrian's feet through, and a fall may result in a broken leg. It is also called to the attention of the authorities that the walk on the east side of Lincoln between Commercial and Liberty is also in a dangerous condition. It is not only full of holes but the arc light at Lincoln is so placed that a big maple tree serves as a blind, shutting off all light from the street. The tree should be removed or the light changed over to the south side of Lincoln. Both these things should be remedied, for if they are not the city is liable to have a nice little damage suit on its hands, and especially so, now that its attention has been called to it.

NEW APPRAISAL HIGHER

INHERITANCE TAX ON BUSH ESTATE MUST BE PAID ON $20,000 MORE PROPERTY.

Thirty-three promissory notes having a face value from $50 to $2837 are appraised as worthless in the report filed this morning with the Marion county court by E. P. McConnaughy, E. M. LaFare, and W. H. Byrd, of the reappraisal of the Asahel Bush estate, which was demanded by State Treasurer Thomas B. Kay before determining the amount of inheritance tax the heirs should pay to the state. It was found by the above appraisers that the estate is valued about $20,000 more than the former appraisal. The total value is given as $1,544,438.13. The report filed this morning by the appraisers is sworn to be correct statement of the money belonging to the deceased Asahel Bush at the time of his death last winter and also his debts and securities. George Bingham is the attorney having the matter in charge for the estate.

After the first appraisal was made and a note given to the bank by Governor West for $2000 was classed as worthless and as a result paid by the governor, it was believed that other notes also classed as worthless were valuable. Accordingly, State Treasurer Kay ordered a reappraisal of the estate to determine just what the inheritance tax should be. Denial as to any knowledge as to the truth of the allegations made in the answer of the defendant in the case of Ed and L. J. Ogle against Helen Hurst was made in a reply filed this morning by the plaintiffs. Denial of each and every allegation in the answer was made. Judgment as asked for in the complaint is demanded.

SHOULD SWAT THE FLY

ON WARM DAYS FIRST HATCHINGS WILL SWARM TO BAITED TRAPS.

University of Oregon, Eugene, May 6.—"Now that warm days have come, this is the time to get after the house-fly hard," says Dr. Clifton F. Hodge, professor of social biology. "A campaign that catches part of the early spring flies and then is permitted to lie of inaction is not a campaign that means a flyless August. The first hatchings of houseflies will swarm to baited traps on hot days, and all the towns in which campaigns have been begun should see that a properly constructed trap is standing at as many backyards and at as many barns as possible in the town."

Eugene is going systematically into its fly campaign with the avowed object of having flyless neighborhoods during the summer, even if the whole town cannot be cleared of the pests this year. Two contests have been begun among the school children, one for establishing the cleanest and most flyless block, and one for establishing the cleanest and most flyless grammar school district. Prizes for the smallest number of flies seem to Eugene most likely to produce results.

Contest No. 1 is open to all children in the city and will be given in two classes. Class A is for residence or business blocks that have at least five dwellings or houses, with at least one in which stock is kept. The contestant must place at least one flytrap within the block. This trap will be sealed by the inspectors and must be kept baited at all times. The block must be kept clean from a sanitary point of view; that is, there shall be no breeding places for flies, such as any decaying vegetable or animal material. The inspecting committee assumes the right to inspect at all times both for clean conditions and flies caught. This contest will run in two periods: the first period is from May 1 to June 1; the second period, which virtually will be a continuation of the first, will run from June 1 to September 1. The prizes for the first period will be: First prize, $3; second prize, $2. For the second period: First prize, $10; second prize, $5; third prize, $3.

Class B is for residence or business blocks on which either cows or horses are stabled. Accumulations of manure and compost must be removed at least once a week. The awards will be based on the same conditions as in Class

A. In both classes, flylessness will be indicated by the least number of flies in the traps. Contest No. 2 is open especially to pupils of the grammar schools. Each grammar school district will be considered a competing unit. Awards will be for the best average sanitary conditions and cleanliness of the whole district, the highest award being given for the greatest number of well cared for traps. The committee suggests that the boys in the manual training departments of the grammar schools be responsible for making these traps and that they be either loaned or sold to the people in the blocks where placed. This contest runs from May 1 to September 1.
