Though Board Was Not Nailed, Witness Changed His Mind About Going Through.

CONTRIVERSY OCCUPIES MORNING SESSION OF COURT

T. A. Livesley Sues for Injunction to Restrain Rose Simon From Fencing.

Controversy over a strip of land 170 feet long and 20 feet wide with regard to permission to travel over it as a means of egress and ingress to a farm from the county road occupied the attention of Judge William Galloway this morning.

Livesley in his complaint states that he is the owner of section 22 in this county and that the defendant is the owner of 19.78 acres which intervene between his land and the county road that passes the northeast side of the defendant's land.

LAND BOARD GETS TIRED FAIR DATE IS NAMED

WILL TURN QUESTION OF LEASING SALT LAKES OVER TO THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

The state land board this morning decided to do nothing whatever with the Albert and Summer lakes salt propositions, and will turn the whole matter over to the legislature for action.

The board says it has no means of ascertaining the value of the lakes, and declines to lease or dispose of them until such information is available. One of the bidders told the board he had sold the option he had on the lakes at one time, to New York capitalists, and that a company was formed and stock sold for $24,000,000.

The best offer made the board, or at least the biggest one, was $2,000,000, and this was a paper bid not backed up with a check, or anything of more value than the personal guarantee of the bidder.

The board has been receiving all kinds of suggestions from bidders, for several days, and this morning took action as follows:

"Whereas it appears that the beds and water of Summer and Albert lakes contain vast deposits of salts and other products, the value of which it is impossible to estimate at this time, and

ANNUAL CHERRY FAIR WILL BE HELD JUNE 25, 26 AND 27—PAVILION ON LAWN.

June 25, 26 and 27 were the days selected at a meeting of the Cherry fair committee, held last night in the rooms of the commercial club, when the annual cherry fair will be held in Salem.

The cherry fair committee met with members of the Cherrians and the commercial club to discuss plans for making this fair the biggest and best ever held in the Capital city.

It is the plan of the men who are backing this enterprise to give the people a three days' carnival brimming full of fun and frolic.

It was decided by the cherry fair committee that the exhibit of cherries would be held on the court house lawn and that a temporary pavilion for housing it would be built.

Not content with merely putting on average show, this committee, which consists of Louis Lachmund, Jim Linn and Ernest Anderson, is making arrangements to have some additional attractions that will put new life and ginger into the carnival and put it on par with similar celebrations held in other parts of the country.

The Cherrians are also planning to take part in the festival of the cherry.

The following committees, which will meet and plan their work soon, were chosen last night:

Entertainment—M. L. Meyers and Rev. H. E. Marshall.

Congressions—H. H. Olinger.

Sports—Watt Shipp, Paul Hauser, Henry Veatch and L. H. Compton.

Publicity—Henry Hansen, Perry Farnsley, Chas. Fisher and Frank Barton.

Bands—R. C. Bishop and John Graber.

Baby parade—Mrs. Asahel Bush.

Exhibits—Charles Dick.

Transportation—T. L. Billingsley, R. B. Houston, and C. E. Albin.

Finance—Wm. McGilchrist.

Auditor—James Young.

Auto parade—J. J. Roberts.

Decorations—Hal Patton.

Program—John E. Crook.

Cherry queen—W. Lerehen.

MAJOR BURKE STILL ENJOYS THE CIRCUS

Major John M. Burke, the old plains partner of Buffalo Bill, dropped into the office today with his cheerful press agent's smile and told of the wonders of the Sells Floto and Buffalo Bill (himself) show, which will invade Salem on May 14.

The Major was glad to hear that the Salem schools would be dismissed on circus day to allow the pupils to attend the circus, but hastened to render the assurance that older people enjoyed the show as well as the younger ones.

"While I know personally all of the performers and have seen the show many times," said the Major, "my one regret is that I am forced to travel ahead of the show from town to town and do not get to see the performance myself."

All the hero-worshipping small boys and their fathers—the small boys of other days—will rejoice to hear the good news that Major Burke, Colonel Cody's old plains "partner" has brought to town—that fortune teller smiles generously on the old scout. His scheme for moving picture history of the stirring campaigns attendant on the opening of the great western empire in which he took part has been launched with such tremendous success that Buffalo Bill will stand pre-eminently conspicuous in the "movies" forever.

"Yes, Sir," chuckled Major today, with the delight of an old man in the two new prosperous undertakings of his life-long comrade. "The old man has struck two new veins that assay high. He will be preserved and his personality perpetuated—also will be the old arms, of frontier fame, and the American Blanket Indian through one—the film art in the other; he and the red aborigine brought into closer touch with the general public, and especially the youngsters under the enjoyable conditions attending the festivities of a superbly equipped circus."

"Buffalo Bill will personally appear with the enlarged Sells-Floto Circus, depicting scenes of western life with Sioux Indians, cowboys, ranch girls and military, thus adding a variegated interest to the greatest circus Bill ever offered the American public."

The Sells-Floto show was a top-notch before the amalgamation, and now with the prairie rangers dove-tailed through the program it is absolutely the last gasp in arctic marvels."

Major Burke is an enthusiastic over the admission price as he is over the show itself. He says "the twenty-five cent admission represents a noteworthy crack at the high cost of living. It is a fact that the circus is a necessity of life and Young America cannot grow up without seeing it, and the middle-aged and the old folks must share in his joy. It is the little ones' first definition of happiness."

WILLAMETTE NOTES.

The Philodelfian Literary society installed the following officers last evening: President, Alfred Hanke; vice-president, Harvey Tobie; secretary, Carl Reetz; assistant secretary, Joseph Gerhart; treasurer, Samuel Russell; counselor-at-law, B. R. Richards; censor, James Reade Bain; sergeant-at-arms, Charles Hall.

Harry McCain, a former student of Willamette university, who was considered a fame for himself by taking second place in the national prohibition contest in 1912, representing Willamette university as winner of the state and northwest contests, and who since that time has been prominently connected with the national prohibition campaign, is in the city today. He is touring the state in the interest of the "Oregon Dry" campaign. He made a short address last evening before the Philodelfian Literary society at the university, where he received his training in the speaking line he is now making his profession.

Tryouts are now taking place for a tennis team that will go to McMinnville Saturday to compete with a team representing McMinnville college. The tournament will include men's doubles and singles, mixed doubles and women's singles. Earl Elgel, Percy Stoute, Marie Sneed and Edith Sherwood are expected to make the trip.

The baseball team are planning on playing the Chemawa team here Saturday. The Indians have an exceptionally strong team and will make things extremely interesting for the university boys if the game is played.

The annual reception given by the freshmen class to the seniors of Salem high school will occur next Saturday evening. A large number of committees are at work on the preparation.

The athletic field is a very busy place these warm afternoons. With a

Boynton will be patrons and patronesses for the annual Junior "Prom" at the University of Oregon next Saturday night.

This will be one of the most prominent social events of the college year, closing the seventh annual Junior week end celebration, preparations being made to entertain 800 people on this night alone.

Salem, it is expected, will be largely represented, many former students, friends of present students and friends of the University planning to be present.

Mrs. Squire Farrar, formerly of Salem but now a resident of Portland, left on the Breakwater for Marshfield to visit several months with her daughter, Mrs. Robert N. Kellogg.

In June 23 graduates of the Oregon normal school will receive diplomas, and at the same time will be celebrated the 31st anniversary of the college, with Pres. J. H. Ackerman, the present head.

Mrs. Henry B. Thielson, Mrs. H. William Thielson and Miss Ellen Thielson have issued invitations for two affairs to be given the latter part of the week.

Miss Jones and Miss Gertrude Jones of Labish Meadows will entertain Saturday, May 10th.

Mrs. W. M. Plimpton entertained with two tables of bridge Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Chauncey Bishop assisting.

Mrs. T. A. Livesley was the most successful player and was awarded the prize.

Special guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Henry Meyers, Miss Hazel Gillette, of Grants Pass, and Miss Leonora De Beck, of Vancouver, B. C.

Mrs. Asahel Bush and Miss Aline Thompson, were guests in Portland on Tuesday.

Mrs. Milton Meyers was hostess at an informal luncheon yesterday, when covers were laid for six.

Mrs. F. W. Steusloff and Mrs. D. C. Minto, were joint hostesses last night at the Steusloff residence on North Commercial street, entertaining the members of the Priscilla and the Cherry City Social clubs.

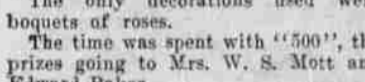

The only decorations used were bouquets of roses.

The time was spent with "500", the prizes going to Mrs. W. S. Mott and Edward Baker.

ELY'S CREAM BALM OPENS CLOGGED NOSTRILS AND HEAD—CATARRH GOES

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely; Dull Headache Goes; Nasty Catarrhal Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear; by morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. The sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucus dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in Ely's Cream Balm and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Fairies' Trip Through The Clouds.

They Sailed Away, Feeling Like Birds.

It had been some time since the last fairy story had been heard, and daddy knew that that would never do, for Evelyn was always so radiantly happy when one was to be told.

"Well, how about a fairy story tonight, children?" asked daddy. "Splendid!" Evelyn cried almost before daddy had finished speaking.

"The fairies had the most perfect trip the other day," said daddy. "They had been playing so much that they could not think of a game they wanted to play, and that very rarely happens in fairyland."

"Now, the queen of the fairies said: 'I have a scheme. We will visit the clouds. We haven't been on a trip for ever and ever so long, and I will admit that I would like a little change myself.'"

"Marvelous!" cried all the fairies. "We would love to do that better than anything in the world. When shall we go?"

"Why, this afternoon; right now!"

"Well, we must be off," said the fairy queen. "Come, fairy airships; fly down to this mossy ground, and then we can go up to the clouds."

"At that the loveliest airships appeared. They looked almost like clouds themselves, so filmy and white were they."

"The fairies clapped their hands with wildest glee, for they had never visited the clouds in the airships before."

"So off they sailed, feeling just like birds with the delightful flying motion of the ships. And up to the silvery clouds they went. When they got in the clouds the cloud fairies—you know there are fairies who live in the clouds all the time—took them all around and showed them their homes. And such homes as they have! They have the most marvelous palaces, with courtyards and exquisite scenery all about. They have tall mountains where they always go for their parties. Everything is such a beautiful color too, for the cloud fairies are very fond of pale grays and blues and silver."

"Then the fairies from the woods suggested to the cloud fairies that they should return their visit and come to earth."

"We would love to do that," said the cloud fairies. So off they began to fly from the clouds. They needed no airships, but do you know what happened? As they began to drop great big drops of rain fell to the earth, and then the heaviest kind of a rainstorm began for the earth people, for of course when the cloud fairies more the rain is not held any more and it falls to the earth."

"But the fairies from the woods didn't mind, as the big trees always protect them, and the cloud fairies only let the rain fall where there were no trees. So the afternoon was one of greatest pleasure for both the wood fairies and the cloud fairies."
