SOCIETY NOTES
Superceding all other social events of the school year in interest and brilliancy will be the annual Junior-Senior banquet which will be given tonight in the high school gymnasium.
One hundred and fifty covers will be laid for members of the two higher classes at an immense table arranged as the letter S. Richard Avison will act as toastmaster, calling for responses from various members of the two classes.
Music will be furnished by the high school orchestra, with a piano solo by Harry Mills.
Elaborate decorations are being completed by R. H. Little of the university, bearing out the Senior class colors of white and green.
At the corners of the table will be tall pedestals topped with large artificial roses, surrounded with lattice-work in green entwined with roses in white. Green latticework will also screen the three sides of the table, and will be filled in with hundreds of pink roses and their foliage. Stationed in front of each will be large urns bearing fragrant roses also in pink.
Myriads of electric lights will twinkle beneath shades of green and white, and covering the ceiling will be garlands of fir and woodland greenery.

Mr. Charles Huchins, a pioneer identified with the early history of Oregon and a close friend of the late Ashel Bush, is visiting in the city at the home of Dr. B. F. Pound. The daily service between Salem and points south as well as to Portland will be maintained as at present.

Wells Fargo & Co. is not conducting a stock farm in its building on Court street, but this morning the place resembled one. The morning express unloaded one big hog, five calves, five hundred little chicks and about two hundred small ducklings. With the young fowls making a great clatter and noise, the porker squealing for his breakfast and the calves bawling for milk, the Wells Fargo room sounded like a good sized country place. The shipment is for R. W. Brown, of this city and despite the fact that the chicks and ducks were carried over 70 miles, not a one was even sick when they arrived.

While Governor West was in St. Helens yesterday, he asked for and received the resignation of Sheriff A. E. Thompson, who was short in his accounts, having failed to turn over money belonging to the state and which he received from the sale of certain property that escheated to the state. The amount was about $2400 and the surety company made the shortage good. His successor, who will be appointed by the county court, has not yet been selected.

Deputy Sheriff W. I. Needham received word from Sheriff Parker of Lane county today to be on the lookout for a man giving the name of H. F. Southern, who is wanted in Eugene to answer to the charge of larceny. The complaint alleged that Southern purchased an auto tire from a garage in Eugene and in making the change for a tire at $18.50 short changed the auto man out of $5. Southern is said to have two women and two children in the party with him and to be making the trip from California to Canada. He drives a Ford model T, which bears a Canadian emblem.

Members of the Salem Ministerial union will hold their annual basket picnic on the campus of Willamette university June 23, afternoon and evening. All ministers of the city are invited to attend.

The contract for the steel bridge over Butte Creek between Marion and Clackamas counties was let today to the Coast Bridge company for $7250. Two other bids were submitted, one by E. D. Olds, for $2340 and one by the Portland Bridge & Iron Co. for $2373. The bridge is a small one, but the county court proposes to erect a first-class structure between the two counties, which will render the best service to the people of that vicinity.

The case failed to materialize in a very severe prosecution, however, as the parties finally settled the controversy.

A comical incident took place on Court street, between Liberty and High, about 7 o'clock this morning. A driverless horse hitched to a buckboard was seen walking peacefully along the street in a westerly direction and no owner was in sight. Frank Oppertlin stepped out and caught the animal. The well-intending citizen had no more than stopped the brute when a man yelled, "You drop my horse." Looking around Oppertlin discovered the owner of the rig who was walking on the sidewalk several yards in advance of his horse. The fellow explained to Oppertlin that he often times got tired of riding and walked while his horse followed along like a pet dog.

Panama canal. A lecture illustrated with the stereopticon will be given by Rev. Carl H. Elliott in the Presbyterian church Tuesday night, May 26, at 8:00 o'clock. For five years Mr. Elliott was a chaplain of the canal commission, residing at the Atlantic end of the canal, and has had unusual opportunities for seeing the work of canal building as it progressed. Adults, 25 cents; children, 15 cents.

Edward Hayes, a stranger, who applied for a bed in the city jail last Wednesday evening, and who has been hanging around the city ever since, was committed to the insane asylum today by County Judge Bushey. Hayes, while seemingly clear of mind and physically sound, called at the police station again last night for a bed and was given one. This morning he had locked and held piled up in front of the bars. He told Chief of Police Sheeek that there were men roaming around the jail who had threatened to cut off his head and that these same imaginary fellows had been following him for a week.

A large crowd was in attendance yesterday at the Zena picnic, which, owing to the inclemency of the weather, was held in the church instead of in the Zena grove, as had been planned. Many from surrounding towns were present, including a number from Salem.

An interesting program was given in the morning, consisting of a piano solo by Miss Helen Baker; song by Misses Elsie an Edna Taylor, Miss Fay Brant and Miss Nita Martin; reading, "The Whistling Regiment," by Mrs. Wayne Henry, with a musical accompaniment of Miss Linn Purvine at the piano, and a whistling solo by Frank Matthews. A playlet was given by the school children, followed by a duet by Mrs. W. M. Crawford and Mrs. W. H. Crawford. Mrs. Etta Koch appeared in a reading, and addresses by Assistant State Superintendent Carlton and Superintendent Seymour, of Polk county, followed, closing the formal program for the day.

A basket luncheon was served and later the industrial display made by the school children was viewed. Prizes were awarded in this work for best specimens of embroidery, articles from the domestic science and manual training departments, the prize winners to exhibit at the Polk county fair held at Dallas this summer, and later at the state fair.

Much interest was shown in the excellent work of the pupils, and an enjoyable and instructive day passed despite the condition of the weather.
