The steel bridge across the Willamette river at this city, which was closed yesterday for repairs, was opened for traffic again at 7 o'clock last night and will remain open from now on. A number of fruit and vegetable growers over on the west side drove up to the west approach yesterday to find that their loads would not be sold in Salem on that day. Others who are employed in Salem but live in west Salem were obliged to come to work on the train or to walk the railroad bridge. The cause of the trouble was a timber that had rotted out and rendered the west approach dangerous to traffic and it was necessary to make repairs at once. The street committee, which had the matter in charge but who had the matter to work and the repairs were rushed to a speedy finish in order that traffic might not be interrupted longer than necessary.

Justice Webster discharged Welch.

WOMAN CUTS THROATS OF THREE CHILDREN

Crazed Wife of Fred Raab Uses Razor with Deadly Effect—Charges Physician with Illicit Relations with Her.

Long Beach, Cal., June 4.—Leaving a note implicating Dr. Walter B. Hill, one of the most prominent physicians of Long Beach, active in church work, in alleged illicit relations with her, as the cause of her deed, Mrs. Fred Raab, wife of an auto top manufacturer, last night yesterday afternoon slew her two small daughters, sparing her 18 months old son, and committed suicide, using a razor to cut the three throats.

The triple tragedy occurred at the Raab residence at 4 o'clock. Raab was absent at the time. When discovery was made by a neighbor two hours later and the tragedy was reported to the police, the officers took Dr. Hill into custody and detained him at the police station all night, alleging two reasons, one being protection to the doctor and the other a guarantee that he would be on hand at the inquest today at 2:30 o'clock.

Dr. Hill was released by Sam Browne, Los Angeles detective, who is acting chief of police here, at five o'clock this morning on demand of C. J. Walker, president of the Farmers and Merchants bank, who branded the detention as an outrage, he being one of many who believe Dr. Hill innocent and the woman's letter the utterance of insanity.

QUIET GAMBLING GAME GETS BY THE OFFICERS

Prominent Citizens Win and Lose Under Eyes of County Officers—Occasion Was Lottery of Candidates.

Some quiet gambling flourished this morning under the very eyes of the Salem police and the perpetrators made good their escape. Some of the most prominent citizens of the city and rural communities took chances at the lottery and some lost as others won. G. G. Brown, clerk of the state land board, was numbered among the winners, and R. R. Jones, who sings in the Methodist church choir, was also seen to take his fling at the game of chance, but Mr. Jones lost out, though he promises to practice up at the pastebored game which robbed him.

The occasion for the lottery was the fact that 67 candidates in this county were involved in the votes for 23 offices. Many of them received but one vote each, though they stoutly maintain that they did not know who their supporter might be. Others were tied at two votes each and some had as many as three. However, where there was a tie it was necessary for the county clerk to draw lots for them. The names were written upon strips of cardboard and put into a box. County Clerk Gehlar did the drawing where the candidates themselves were not present, and he says he picked a winner every time and believes that this is his lucky day.

The following were the successful candidates:

E. HOUSTON RETIRES AS CIRCULATION AGENT

Manager for Saturday Evening Post Leaves for Eugene, Where He Will Go into Business.

Eugene Houston, who will also answer if you call him "Gene," or even spell it Jean, will leave soon for Eugene, the city of his birth, and also the place after which he was named, and will there be associated with his grandfather in business. Gene can do more hustling with less noise than any young fellow who ever came down the bitulithic. Six years ago, when he was not nearly so old as he is now, he took the agency for the Saturday Evening Post here in Salem. At that time there were about 30 copies sold in the city. He turned his whole attention to building up that circulation between times of attending school, and today there are at least 600 copies sold in Salem. Indeed, in that time, the literary style and illustrations have both been greatly improved, though we do not blame Gene for that.

His work for this magazine brought him in touch with Salem people, and everybody knows and likes him. As to his knowledge of Salem folk, it is safe to say that he knows the first names of everybody in the city, not harring the girls, and can tell, though he probably won't, the age of all the latter. He has turned the Post over to C. G. Brandhorst and bespeaks for him a liberal patronage from all his old subscribers and friends.

Opening—Boats—Free. On Friday and Saturday evening, June 5, the entire livery stock of the Salem Boat factory, foot of State street, will be at the service of the public, free of charge. All are invited.
