OFFICIALS WORRIED BECAUSE VILLA HAS PRACTICALLY REVOLTED AGAINST CARRANZA--WILL COMPLICATE PROBLEM

Thirty Carranzistas Arrested and Sent to Torreon Where Rebel General Is Believed to Be--Censorship of Telegrams a Cause of Dissatisfaction

PREDICTION IS MADE THAT CONSTITUTION- ALIST CHIEFTAIN WILL BE THE MASTER

Denials of Break Not Accepted Because Similar Seizures Were Made at Other Mexican Cities Simultaneously With One at Juarez--Revolt Is Bloodless

Washington, June 17.—Despite the denial attributed to General Villa of any intention to break with General Carranza, administration officials here were much worried today by the news that Carranza had deposed the Carranzistas in authority at Juarez and put themselves in their places. This unostentatious move was not lessened by vague reports of similar proceedings farther south of the border or by the story that Villa had summoned the commanders of garrisons throughout the territory he controls to report to him at Torreon. State department agents on the border were instructed to report at once and in full concerning the situation.

The Mexican constitutionalist junta was without news but its members said if any friction really existed, they were sure General Carranza's diplomacy would smooth matters out.

Friends Deny Break.

El Paso, Texas, June 17.—Friends of General Villa denied here today on his behalf they said, that he had broken with General Carranza.

His subordinates' seizures of the constitutionalist bureau of information and telegraph offices in Juarez and the arrest of the Carranzista officials in charge of them, it was explained, were due to a misinterpretation of orders sent by Villa to Colonel Ornelas, who was in military command at Juarez. It was stated with much emphasis that Villa had no intention of causing a break in the rebel ranks.

Despite this declaration by Villa's friends, 30 Carranzista officials who were arrested at Ornelas order were sent today to Torreon where Villa was supposed to be.

These were Perez Abreu, who had charge of the information bureau, telegraphers who were handling messages from the front and employes in the custom house and treasury, which Ornelas also seized.

Censorship a Cause.

It was understood one of the causes of Villa's reported dissatisfaction with Carranza's handling of constitutionalist ing, why it seemed necessary to him to depose the Carranzistas and many believed his reason for wanting the operators at Torreon was to learn from them who was responsible for holding up his wire correspondence.

The consensus of opinion here was that, when the situation clears, Villa will be found in control throughout northern Mexico.

Coup Not Understood.

The general plan of which the coup here was thought to be a part of were not yet thoroughly understood but there was a rumor that a statement from Villa to the American press was on its way from Torreon to Juarez explaining his resignation from Carranza to become act against Carranza and setting forth his own and his men's attitude. The statement from Saltillo that Villa resigned his army command to become governor of the state of Chihuahua was not generally credited.

One account was he determined to take the reins of authority from Carranza's hands because of an attempt on his superior's part to induce General Angeles to take over the command Villa has hitherto held. Angeles, though secretary of war in Carranza's cabinet, is a supporter of Villa and it was said he refused to supplant the latter.

Should the Niagara Falls conferees choose a Mexican provisional president, Angeles was understood to be Villa's candidate.

One reason why the denials that Villa has broken with Carranza were not generally accepted here was that incidents similar to the one at Juarez were reported to have been enacted at Torreon, Chihuahua City and Jimenez, Ornelas, it was remarked, might have misinterpreted his orders but it was hardly likely the commanders at other points would have made the same mistake.

Revolt Bloodless.

Villa's own American lawyer here was authority for the statement that all books, papers and records relating to the constitutionalist government's business in cities as far south as Torreon were seized simultaneously with the seizure at Juarez.

The revolt against Carranza, if there really has been a revolt, has been bloodless thus far. The telegraph was working as usual except that new operators manned the wires. Trains were running according to schedule. Everything seemed to be moving normally. But not a word concerning happenings south of Juarez was permitted to leak.

STATE TREASURER ROBERTS NOT CANDIDATE FOR OFFICE

Sacramento, Cal., June 17.—"I will not be a candidate for any office, on any ticket, at the coming election." This was the flat declaration made today by State Treasurer Roberts, following reports that he had split with Governor Johnson over his (Roberts') possible candidacy for lieutenant governor.

"I do not agree with Governor Johnson on some matters," said Roberts, "but there is no break between us. If there was a break I would resign at once."

Roberts was appointed state treasurer by the governor.

Supplies For Uncle Sam's Men Guarding Eastern Mexico

Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

UNCLE SAM'S forces in eastern Mexico now control both railroads leading to Mexico City for many miles west of Vera Cruz city. Detachments of men are stationed at all bridges in this territory. The illustration shows supplies being sent into the interior for the American soldiers. At the top is a trainload of ammunition and food, and at the bottom is shown a donkey carrying hay for the cavalry horses.

Touring Car Is Smashed and Early Morning Joy- Ride Ends in Injuries

A big seven passenger touring car, or the remains of one rather, are lying in the Salem auto garage on West State street, and it was learned this morning that the now delapidated machine is the property of a well known former druggist of this city and a leading capitalist of Salem. It has also been ascertained that the touring car all but turned turtle on the Turner road about one mile west of the Oregon training school about 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

According to the only information that could be gleaned today, there were five persons in the auto when it went over the grade. The Club stable sent an ambulance and brought in the injured people, a man and a woman. It is said that the driver of the car, whose name is being kept a secret for some unknown reason, sustained a broken arm, and that one of the women passengers, whose name is also unknown, received several bruises about the head and body.

The utmost secrecy is being maintained by the garage managers and others interviewed today concerning the accident. The proprietors of the Salem auto garage state that they do not know how the accident occurred and refused to give out any statements whatever concerning the party or parties who were in the machine. Relatives of the druggist residing in South Salem are unable to learn anything regarding the affair, stating this morning that the smashed car belonged to the druggist and that they had heard several people were injured when the machine went over the embankment. According to the men at the Club stables, the parties who were brought to the city in the ambulance refused to divulge their identity and the hospitals in Salem today declare that they have no patients who have been injured in an auto wreck. City physicians have been interviewed with the same results, and several attempts to locate the druggist in question have been futile.

The car was a complete wreck when brought in yesterday. The running boards were torn off, the pilot demolished and the wheels literally torn from the spindles. Just how the accident occurred cannot be ascertained owing to the reasons above given.

PAPPAS WINS DECISION.

Sacramento, Cal., June 17.—Ted Pappas, fighting for the first time as a professional, won a ten round decision over Andy Platt.

Beautiful Girl Figures in Family Feud and Murder Trial in Phoenix, Ariz.

Phoenix, Ariz., June 17.—Transplanted from Texas, a family feud of years standing will be taken into the courts here tomorrow when Dr. L. E. Wiggins, a wealthy physician of Juquin, Shelby county, Texas, goes on trial for the murder of Tap Booth, 23 years old, who, he asserts, broke up his home.

Wiggins shot and killed Booth April 7. He followed his victim here from Texas, the state will try to prove, with a determination to take his life.

The beautiful 19-year-old wife of Wiggins, who is 40 years of age, is expected to be the central figure in the case. Wiggins married her when she was 14 years old. It was several years later that Booth, whose family and Wiggins' were admittedly unfriendly, came into her life.

Members of the Booth and Wiggins families are here from Texas, and trouble between them on the streets has been narrowly avoided several times during the last few days, according to the police. The Texans who will be witnesses at the trial include ex-Sheriff Zedke Booth, of Shelby county, Texas, father of Tap Booth; Sheriff Cupid of San Augustin county, Texas; Superior Judge Turpin of Juquin, Texas, and a score of relatives of both men.

Wiggins will base his defense on the unwritten law. He will be defended by Reese King of Phoenix, democratic candidate for the United States senate.

WOMAN IS BEHEADED.

Strasburg, Germany, June 17.—Mrs. Magdalena Wendel, 41 years old, and H. Wirth, her paramour, were beheaded here today for poisoning the woman's husband. Mrs. Wendel fainted when she was the executioner's axe and had to be dragged to the block.

BLIND GIRL TAKES POISON

BELIEVE GIRL KILLED SELF

Blind Singer Was Friend of Helen Keller and Worry Over Finance Is Thought To Be Suicide Cause.

Oakland, Cal., June 17.—The police had made little progress toward solving the mystery of the death of Miss Helen Mesow, a blind concert singer, whose body was found late last night in her apartments here. W. C. Dohrman, a card from whom was found in the woman's rooms, stated today that he had transacted some realty deals for the family of the dead girl recently and that the note on his card was written more than a month ago. It read: "Helen: I want you to come to supper with me tonight. This is our last night."

Dohrman evidently assumed that some of her friends would read the message for her and this fact would indicate a lack of any ulterior motive. He asserts that he took an interest in the girl, but beyond that there was nothing between them.

Dohrman assumes that Miss Mesow committed suicide and that her motive for so doing was worry over finances. Her parents are separated. She was a sister of Mrs. Roland Fitch, also a singer, and wife of an attorney of this city. Another sister is also married.

Miss Helen Mesow appeared on the Orpheum circuit some time ago as "The Blind Choir Girl Singer". She was a friend of Helen Keller and at the time the great blind woman appeared in Oakland, Miss Mesow sang at the entertainment.

An inquest was scheduled for this forenoon.

INSANE MAN RUNS AMUCK

BUTCHER TERRIFIES PEOPLE.

Takes Shot at Chief of Police, Who Returns Fire, Striking Redzom in Upper Part of the Arm.

Grants Pass, Ore., June 17.—William Redzom, a butcher, evidently insane, ran amuck through the streets of Grants Pass this morning and, after fighting a duel with Chief of Police Lewis on a crowded thoroughfare, was captured by the officials. Redzom got a revolver and cartridges at a local store on the pretext of wanting to examine them, then with this one held up a second store for another revolver and more ammunition.

Sheriff Smith, who entered the store during the transaction, but who was unarmed, was backed out of the building by the insane man, who then went through the streets flourishing his arms and threatening the bystanders.

On Fifth street he took a shot at Chief Lewis, and the latter returned the fire, striking Redzom in the upper part of the arm. Redzom then stood off an armed posse for half an hour, finally throwing his guns in the grass and surrendering.

KILPATRICK ELECTED MATHEMATICS TEACHER

Brilliant Student Becomes Member of University of Oregon Faculty—Elected By Board of Regents Yesterday.

Earl Kilpatrick, formerly principal of the Salem High school, was elected instructor of mathematics in the University of Oregon at the meeting of the board of regents held in Eugene yesterday. Mr. Kilpatrick is a graduate of the University of Oregon of the Class of 1909 and since has held various executive positions in valley schools. He came to Salem from Springfield, Oregon, where he was city superintendent.

Mr. Kilpatrick was classed as a brilliant student at the university and was also prominent in student body activities. He has pursued his school work with unflagging zeal since taking up the profession of teaching and has the best wishes of his many friends in his new position.

WHITE WOLF SACKS TOWN.

Shanghai, June 17.—White Wolf, the bandit leader, was reported here today to have sacked Tao Chow, an important town in central China, butchering 10,000 people. This report was unconfirmed but foreigners were gravely uneasy. It was rumored that foreign mission buildings at Tao Chow were burned.

WISCONSIN SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS MARRIAGE LAW.

Madison, Wis., June 17.—In a decision handed down here today, the state supreme court upheld the constitutionality of the celebrated Wisconsin eugenics law, which provides that both parties to a marriage contract must first obtain physicians' certificates of physical fitness before a license can be issued. Laws in several other states are patterned after the Wisconsin statute.

BALLOONISTS FOUND IN ZIG ZAG CANYON

Both Pilot Roy Donaldson, and Aide Wilbur Henderson, Are Reported Uninjured Though Their Air-Craft Is Destroyed.

Portland, Ore., June 17.—After being lost in the fastnesses of the Cascade mountains for 120 hours with only what food they could glean from the wilderness, and with no matches with which to cook it, Roy Donaldson of Springfield, Illinois, pilot of the balloon "Springfield", and his aide, Wilbur Henderson of Portland, reached a remote forest station in Zig Zag canyon near Mount Hood at 7 o'clock this morning and telephoned news of their safety to the forester in charge of the district.

They had found their way to civilization by following the Bull Run river almost from its source. The forester in turn telephoned the news to Portland.

"The balloon was badly damaged in landing, but we are both safe," Henderson said.

Tale of Hardships.

Portland, June 17.—Telling of terrific hardship, of battles with elements, of a wild chase through the clouds because of a defective compass and of their final arrival at the outposts of civilization at Walkers Prairie, the last forest rangers' camp in the fastnesses of the Bull Run forest reserve, Roy F. Donaldson, pilot, and Wilbur Henderson, aide, of the balloon "Springfield" are on their way to Portland, safe. They were met at Walkers Prairie by a relief party headed by Attorney W. M. Davis of Portland, in whose office Henderson is employed. They are expected to reach Portland some time this evening.

According to Pilot Donaldson after making a graceful getaway from Portland last Thursday afternoon the giant aeronaut went due south almost to Salem and then doubling back came almost to Oregon City.

Then at the whim of the upper air currents the "Springfield" crossed Clackamas county in a northeasterly direction. At 3 a. m. Friday they hailed a farmer near Liberal, the only person spoken to during the whole trip.

At daylight they went up into the clouds and once above the sight of land they sailed on thinking they were going south, when in reality they were traveling rapidly eastward.

Their compass, placed too near some dry batteries, deviated, and misled by the steel needle, they made their way through space until they saw below them the sheet of water afterward found to be Blue Lake.

Here from an altitude of 5,000 feet they landed.

TURKS ARE EAGER TO WIPE OUT THE DISGRACE OF DEFEAT

Entire Nation Feels Deeply Humiliation Inflicted by the Balkans

ARE READY TO SHOW FIGHTING ABILITY

It Is Not Believed the Powers Will Intervene in the Coming Conflict

Constantinople, June 17.—What is left of it—is boiling with eagerness to fight Greece.

The upper class Turks hope to profit by a war. The masses have not been educated up to the accidental point of asking themselves what they will get out of it.

The whole country naturally feels deeply the humiliation of its recent defeat by the Balkan allies. The feeling is general that to some extent this can be wiped out by a successful campaign. The people want to show the world that the year really fight.

Even the rank and file realize that they were sent into the Balkan struggle unprepared. Much confidence is felt in Enver Pasha, better known as Enver Bey, who has been war minister for the past few months. It is pretty generally understood that Enver believes the Turks can beat the Greeks. His admirers are sure he would not think it if he had not good reason for it.

Believe Turks Will Rise.

It is pointed out, too, that in the territory Greece wrested from the sultan there still live thousands of Turks. The people here are confident these turks will rise against the conquerors as soon as hostilities are declared. Probably they are right in this opinion. That the Greeks' former allies will interfere in the struggle, if one comes, is deemed more than unlikely. They were completely exhausted by their fight with Turkey which, though beaten with far greater resources and much larger numbers than their enemies, were by no means so badly broken as the latter by the Balkan war.

Powers Are Jealous.

Neither do the sultan's advisors think the powers will intervene. It is realized that the powers want no more fighting in the Balkans but it is also appreciated that they are so jealous of one another and so fearful that they themselves will become involved, that they will hesitate a long time before attempting to take a hand in the affair. No well-informed Turk tries to hide that in this case, Turkey will be forcing hostilities. Their view is that Greece, among the Balkan allies, attacked Turkey at its own convenience, and that now it is time for Turkey to suit its own interests in attacking Greece.

Triumvirate To Rule Affairs at Willamette---Homan's Authority To End Aug. 1

President Given Year's Leave of Absence on Full Pay, But Supervision Over the University Ceases—Greatest Good for Willamette Ruling Force at Board Meeting—Governing Power Determined.

As was predicted would be the case, the board of trustees of Willamette university yesterday took action which virtually discharged both the six members of the faculty and the president who have been engaged in the trouble that has been going on at the university the past year.

While the president was given a year's leave of absence on full pay, it was with the understanding that his active supervision of the university ceased August 1, 1914, and that he was to finish arrangements he had under way with eastern parties for the giving of funds to the university building fund before June 1, 1915, when his pay is to cease.

While four of the six members of the group of faculty members who were expected to go were re-elected, it was understood that they expected to resign if Dr. Homan was allowed to continue as president, and if Dr. Patterson and Dr. Henke, whose resignations have been accepted by the board, were not re-elected. They are Prof. S. H. Chapin, Prof. Alice Page, Prof. E. B. Walsh and Prof. M. E. Peck. Prof. E. Von Eschen, who formerly was allied with the faction that intended to leave should be president be re-elected, withdrew from their number and has been re-elected.

Committee of Three to Rule.

Under the plan for running the school next year which the board has decided on, Prof. James T. Matthews, head of the department of mathematics for many years past and the most popular professor in the university, together with Prof. Von Eschen, was placed on a committee, to which the faculty committee of the board of trustees will later add a third man and instructed that they would have charge of conducting the college of liberal arts next year.

Prof. Ira A. Morton, a graduate of Columbia university, New York City, was chosen to succeed Dr. Henke as head of the department of philosophy and education.

Miss Jennie Elliott was selected to succeed Dr. James Lisle as university librarian. She is reputed to be well informed on modern library methods and possessed of considerable experience.

Vice Investigator Arouses Club Women By Declaring Society Girls Are Immoral

Chicago, June 17.—Delegates here in attendance at the General Federation of Women's Clubs convention were much aroused today over the statement made by George Kneeland, the New York vice investigator, in an address before the gathering Tuesday, to the effect that he had a list of 300 girls belonging to rich and socially prominent families who were secretly practicing immorality.

"Yesterday was the first time I ever discussed this subject publicly," said Kneeland. "One woman's club refused me permission to tell its members the truth."

Modern Dances One Cause.

"But I warn you club women to look out for your own daughters and the daughters of the other respectable women in your cities. The girls on my list are not weak minded or sub-normal, either. Most of them go wrong from a spirit of rebellion against dullness or strictness of their home life. They generally turn to strangers. They seem innocent on a casual acquaintance but in the close personal contact of modern dances they lose control of themselves.

"I sent an inspector to my home town in Massachusetts and he found a number of girls of 15 or 16, apparently respectable, who really were leading lives of vice."

Closing Sessions Today.

Chicago, June 17.—The closing sessions of the twelfth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which has been in progress here for more than a week, were scheduled for today. Announcement of the result of the balloting for national officers, which began yesterday, was expected at noon. It was generally admitted that the slate headed by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Texas, president of the federation, had been elected.

There was no abatement of interest in the sessions of the convention and the auditorium, where the main sessions are held, was jammed with delegates and spectators.
