Naval Engagement Reported to be Heavy in Casualties for Both Sides—Fight Watched from American Ships.

Washington, June 17.—That the Mexican federal gunboat Guerrero and the rebel gunboat Tampico had a battle near Topolobampo Tuesday was reported to the navy department today by Admiral Howard, in command of the United States naval forces at Mazatlan.

It was believed the casualties were heavy in the fight between the Guerrero and the Tampico. The captain and chief engineer of the latter vessel, it was learned, committed suicide when they saw the battle turn hopelessly against them.

Howard stated that the engagement was watched from the decks of the United States war vessels New Orleans, Perry and Preble of the New Orleans standing by to rescue the crew of the Tampico and offering surgical aid to those on board the Guerrero.

The two gunboats carried somewhere from 80 to 120 men each, according to the latest available figures. The marksmanship in the battle was said to have been poor on both sides, several wild shots endangering non-combatants.

A report in more detail was expected later.

MEXICAN CONGRESS HURRIEDLY CONVENES

Mexico City, June 17.—The Mexican congress was convened hurriedly in extra session here today. It was understood that matters of the highest importance were scheduled for consideration.

That the foreign and interior departments have had framed a bill to be submitted to the lawmakers immediately was known definitely. Its provisions could not be learned, however.

The impression was that it was designed to promote the country's pacification.

GOVERNOR EBERHARD DEFEATED

St. Paul, Minn., June 17.—Latest returns received this afternoon from yesterday's state primaries showed that Governor Eberhardt had been defeated for renomination on the republican ticket.

His opponent, W. E. Lee, was conceded a plurality of 5,000. Eberhardt made a strong race in the cities, but the rural districts were against him.

D. W. Lawler, of St. Paul, defeated Congressman Hammond for the democratic nomination by 2,000 plurality.

All of Minnesota's present congressmen who sought renomination were successful except possibly Linbergh.

On the progressive ticket, H. T. Halbert of St. Paul was nominated for governor.

HAS HEAD CUT OFF.

Grauden, Germany, June 17.—Frau M. Haas was executed here today for the murder of her husband, whom she killed in order to marry her lover.

COLLISION IS REPORTED.

London, June 17.—Wireless messages received here today reported a collision in the channel between the liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. and the steamship Ince-mor.

AMATEUR EXPLORERS RECKLESS.

Mt. Lassen Smokes Today And Simmers As If Another Outbreak Was Near—Want District in Park.

Redding, Cal., June 17.—Mount Lassen was still smoking today, according to messages from Voltra. It could not be seen from here on account of the haze.

A small eruption occurred at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and from the fact that the crater continued to simmer, it was believed another outbreak was near.

The new vent on the south slope was also reported to be sending up clouds of steam but it had not yet been examined at short range.

Tourists were pouring into Redding and other towns in the volcano's vicinity and automobile parties were constantly leaving for the foot of the slope.

Forest rangers were exceedingly fearful of more casualties, for the amateur explorers were many of them absolutely reckless but no warning served to keep them from running desperate risks.

Lance Graham, who was injured Sunday, continued to improve today, though his doctors said it would be some time before he would be fully recovered.

There was also still danger that blood poisoning might set in.

A petition was being extensively signed here asking Congressman Baker to introduce a bill at Washington making the volcano district a national park.

JURY LIST SELECTED.

The jury list for the July term of court was drawn this morning and 31 men selected to form the panel from which the jurors for the cases in the next term of court will be chosen.

'LIE A BED' WINS CUP.

Ascot, Eng., June 17.—J. East's 'Lie A Bed' won the Royal Hunt cup race here today. Sir T. Dewar's 'Braxted' was second and 'Solly' Joel's 'Hon-crywoon', third.

The Royal Hunt cup, a handsome trophy presented by King George, value $1,500 with $10,000 in cash, was the principal event on the card today for the second day of the royal race meeting, which attracted vast crowds of sportsmen and society people.

The race, which was a handicap for three-year-olds and upwards, was run over the severe 7 1/4 furlong course and the entries included a score of the smartest horses in training.

King George and Queen May were again present with a distinguished company from Windsor Castle, but socially today was an 'off-day', and there was no state procession. The costumes of the women occupants of the coaches and enclosures were as brilliant as ever but their male companions were permitted more relaxation and King George set the fashion by discarding his morning coat and silk hat in favor of a brown Derby and a comfortable lounge suit.

director at the Portland Y. M. C. A. was elected to fill the place left vacant by Dr. G. J. Sweetland as athletic director of the university. He has had much experience in the different lines of sport and bids fair to make an excellent showing at the university next year.

In settling the trouble now existing in the university the board gave no special regard to the feeling or desires of any professors or clique supporting them, but simply took the action that seemed to them would result in the greatest good for Willamette university.

Petitions Are Presented.

Petitions were presented to the board signed by over two-thirds of the board, junior and sophomore classes, freshman signatures being refused by those circulating the petition, stating that they had the greatest respect for the ability and teaching of both Prof. Henke and Prof. Patterson and that if the board should see their way clear to have them continue their work they would certainly appreciate it, and felt that such an action would be for the best interests of the university.

The by-laws of the university were also amended so that there should be no trouble between the president and the faculty in the future over who has the power to decide the different questions. The general attitude of the board was to the effect that the university is concerned with more than just the college of liberal arts, and that the liberal arts faculty have not the power to govern the schedules of university teams or to interfere in any matter that is concerned with the university as a whole, although the college

The Markets

New York, June 17.—Western Union was the weakest stock in today's early trading. On very light transactions it fell 1/4. Business was very dull. In the second hour the market stood still for several minutes. What little trading there was seemed to tend toward lower prices. Lehigh Valley dropped 1/8.

The market continued extremely dull, but in the last few transactions a better tone appeared and the close was steady.

of liberal arts might be vitally affected by the matter.

Graduation This Morning. The graduation proper in connection with the seventieth commencement of the college of liberal arts of Willamette university was held at the First Methodist church this morning. Dr. Mat S. Hughes, of Pasadena, Cal., delivered the commencement address, taking for his subject 'The Uses of Knowledge.'

The degrees were conferred by President Fletcher Homan.

The address by Dr. Hughes was appropriate and contained a large and forceful message. Never has an audience listened more intently to a commencement address than did the one that heard the speaker this morning. There was a message in every sentence, and the manner in which they were put made them effective in the extreme.

Deals With Knowledge. Dealing with knowledge and what it is the speaker first posed the proposition that 'knowledge is not entirely concerned with knowing,' arguing that education is broader and more inclusive than the word knowledge. A former conception of education given by the speaker was that children were sent to school with their memory shaped like a cup. Into this cup the teacher was to pour a stream of knowledge, and at the completion of the operation the child would be educated. Continuing, he stated that education made one able to use knowledge. 'The graduating class is passing from the task of accumulating knowledge to the task of using it.'

Speaking of wisdom, which he asserted was the first step to knowledge, he referred to it as common sense in the uncommon degree. He added 'Wisdom is knowing what and how.' In referring to the continual acquiring of knowledge he said that many people allow the pursuit of knowledge to exclude the use of what knowledge they already possess.

Speaking of industrial education the speaker stated that people now live together on the material plane. There ambition consisting chiefly in terms of land, houses, machinery and similar wealth. Continuing, he said: 'The function of education is to aid us in living. A real man is something more than a huge stomach mounted on a pair of stilts and endowed with the power to think. Man cannot live by bread alone, nor by material things alone. Life is made up of the things we are alive to. The increase in their number ministers to broader life.'

People Are Material. Referring to how extremely materialistic people are and how little there generally is to their intellectual life, conversation ending with the weather and the neighborhood scandals had been discussed, he stated that hostesses nowadays found it necessary to drive their guests from one card table or indulgence in games that would not pass muster in a first-class kindergarten.

He then presented the values of moral education, emphasizing the possibilities a denominational university presents for receiving such instruction. He urged that the high ideals taught by such institutions are the essence of things worth while, and made a strong plea for the use the knowledge of these matters with which the class was now possessed.

Preceding the address by Dr. Hughes, Miss Ava McMahon, who graduates in voice, rendered a vocal solo, and following the speech Miss Harriet Leach, of Portland, gave a vocal number. Mrs. W. H. Fry, also of Portland, gave a closing solo following President Homan's charge to the class.

Class Is Presented. Dean Mendenhall, of the college of music, presented Miss Ava McMahon, graduate in voice, and the president conferred upon her the degree of bachelor of music.

Dean Patterson, of the college of liberal arts, presented the graduating class, and the president conferred upon them the degree of bachelor of arts. Those receiving degrees and the names, as they appear on the diploma follows: Aggie R. Alford, Robert Hatfield Allen, Laura F. Austin, Lola Belle Beltinger, Ethel Casbere, W. W.
