BY MOLLIE RUNCORN.

At a charming home wedding, Miss Alice Gertrude Shepard and King Garlington were married at high noon today at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. John H. Lewis, the Rev. A. McKinley, of Zena performing the impressive ceremony. Mrs. Lewis attended as matron of honor, and Lawrence Doolbourn of Roseburg was the best man. The four small nieces of the bride, Hazel Shepard, Dorothy Shepard, Margaret Lewis and Elizabeth Lewis, dainty in costumes of white, with chic sashes of pink, also stood with the bridal party bearing baskets of pink roses.

The bride entered with her father, J. R. Shepard, who gave her into the bridegroom's keeping. A group formed beneath a trellised bower of sweet brier and Dorothy Perkins' roses, which suspended a large lover's knot. The bride, who is a very attractive girl, was gowned in cream-toned crepe de chine, with elaborations of real lace. Her long tulle veil fell in filmy cascades to the hem of her train and was becomingly held in place by a wreath of lilies of the valley. Her bouquet was formed of bride's roses and after the ceremony was caught by Miss Ruth Shepard.

Previous to the ceremony Miss Greta Phillips effectively sang "Because," following which Miss Ruth Shepard softly rendered "Lohengrin's" wedding march.

The house was redolent with Dorothy Perkins' roses, artistically arranged throughout the different rooms. Decorations of these centered the table where a wedding luncheon was served, covers being laid for thirty.

Mr. and Mrs. Garlington left this afternoon for Missoula, Mont., where Mr.

Garlington is engaged in business. The marriage of Miss Esther Mabel Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pratt, to Mr. George E. Wood, of Watinitia, Oregon, took place last Sunday at the bride's home on South Twelfth street.

Only relatives and the more intimate friends attended the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. H. S. Dorris, pastor of the United Brethren church.

The bride wore white silk messaline, ornamented with shadow and silver lace. Orange blossoms secured her long veil, and Brides roses, asparagus fern and white carnations were used in fashioning her bouquet.

Miss Ethel Adkins, of Gales Creek, Oregon, attractive in a gown of white lace over blue silk attended as bride's maid. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Paul Pratt, a brother of the bride, was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served, Mrs. Josie Allen of Philomath assisting.

Among the out of town people present were: Mrs. Ida Doregthy, of St. Johns, Miss Jessie Kemp, of Corvallis, and Nahlon Worthington, of Philomath.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood left Monday for their homestead in Wasco county, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Will P. Skitt and daughter Alice left yesterday for Brownsville to attend the Annual Pioneer's picnic. Miss Skitt who is one of the Capital City's most promising young singers has been asked to appear on each days program. Among the music which she has selected to give are: "Love is a Rose," "La Saran Rose," "Carissima," "China Tragedy," "Armenia," and at the Sunday services will render "Abide With Me."

Miss Doretha Giggey, of Petaluma, California, is a guest for the summer at the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. A. Bernard.

The Annual Picnic of Wisconsin residents will be held about the middle of July this year. It is expected that it will be given at the State fair grounds, the weather permitting, otherwise one of the fair buildings will be used.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stephens (Fleeta McPeck) will leave the first of the week for Portland where they will reside. They have an attractive new home in Rose City Park.

Mr. Stephens is a graduate of this year's law class at Willamette University and will become a partner of W. P. Vaughn, with offices in the Chamber of Commerce building.

CLEAR LAKE SESSIONS WERE WELL ATTENDED

About 300 people attended a convention of 20 Marion county Sunday schools at Quinalby last Sunday and a number of Salem people were on the program.

Dr. C. J. Smith, of Portland, democratic nominee for governor, spoke on "Legislation"; C. B. Harrison, of Portland, "The Country Boy"; Attorney E. A. Baker, of Portland, president of the Anti-Saloon league, "Way Oregon Should Go Dry, From an Attorney's Point of View," and E. B. Lockhart, city editor of the Statesman, Salem, on "Community Quarrels and Churches."

The Chemawa brass band contributed several numbers and the Misses Marie Bollinger and Ruth Brown, of Salem, sang. A basket dinner on the grounds was one of the pleasant features.

Harry White was elected president of the association; A. Neptune, vice president; Mrs. J. W. Fruit, secretary; Miss Mabel Williams, secretary of missions and Christian stewardship. Clear Lake, with 71 delegates present, won the banner over Hayesville, with 61, but courteously allowed the latter school to take it, since Clear Lake was acting the part of hosts at the convention. Quinalby, with a total enrollment of 44 members, was represented by 42 at the convention.

MISS GRACE LILLY

robes worn at the 1913 Fair. White charmeuse combined with ivory toned shadow-lace, will be worn by Miss Fleming, tiny pink rose buds being used as embellishments.

The announcement of the election of either of the other contestants would have caused no disappointment to Salem people, each being attractive of face and of manner, and immensely popular in younger social circles.

Miss Eunane Craig who received second highest honors, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Craig, and was given loyal support by her host of admirers. Up until last night her name headed the list and it was thought until then that her election was certain.

Miss Fleming, a decidedly pretty and popular girl, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Fleming, and her appearance on the royal float will add materially to its attractiveness.

Although the usual enthusiasms and interest in the voting this year was not equal to that displayed in other contests, the final results were entirely satisfactory, the last counting showing the voting proceeds to be something over $200. This amount will be used in purchasing the Queen's robes, and in defraying other expenses.

MILLION PEOPLE HOMELESS

FLOOD TAKES TOLL OF LIVES

West River in China Is Visited by a Great Flood and Epidemics Are Now Breaking Out—Famine May Follow.

Hongkong, June 24.—Relief was being rushed up the West river today to the sufferers by the flood which is sweeping its valley many miles wide. A million or more people were reported here to be homeless and starving. The loss of life, according to up-river advices, can hardly be estimated, but certainly must have run high into the thousands. Rescue workers had special instructions to look out for foreigners, of whom there are a good many in the flooded district, particularly at Woo Chow.

Epidemics are already breaking out. Smallpox is rampant. There has been an enormous increase in the number of diphtheria and typhoid cases. Typhus also is prevalent. Plague has been reported and probably exists. Famine assuredly will follow the flood.

Daddy's Bedtime

The Strawberry Shortcake Birthday Party.

In Front of Beatrice Was a Big Shortcake.

JACK and Evelyn had been hunting all day for wild strawberries and had found a great many.

"We will have quite enough for breakfast, won't we?" asked daddy.

"Yes," replied Jack; "I really think we will have enough for a strawberry shortcake for lunch too."

"That's fine," said daddy. "There is nothing much better than a strawberry shortcake made out of wild strawberries. I heard of a little girl the other day who had a strawberry shortcake birthday party."

"A strawberry shortcake birthday party?" repeated Evelyn.

"You see," continued daddy, "this little girl, whose name, by the way, is Beatrice, is very fond of wild strawberry shortcake."

"It was time for Beatrice's birthday. In two more days it would come, and her mother and daddy thought they would give her a birthday party. So they invited all her little friends. Beatrice's little friends got up quite early one morning and picked lots and lots of wild strawberries. These they gave to Beatrice's mother. Then Beatrice's mother made the most delicious strawberry shortcake with whipped cream on top."

"When the day came for the party all the children arrived on time.

"They played games of all sorts, and then they had supper on the lawn. First they had delicious creamed chicken with stewed potatoes. Then they had lettuce salad. But next came the treat. In front of Beatrice was placed a big shortcake made with wild strawberries, and around it was a wreath of green myrtle with candles in the wreath.

"Beatrice clapped her hands with joy. The bright red strawberries with the whipped cream on top made the cake look like beautiful sea foam. Around it were the lovely lights of the different colored candles.

"Now, be very careful in eating the shortcake," said Beatrice's mother. "For in some parts of the cake you will find several hard things."

"Oh, what, mother? A ring?" shouted Beatrice.

"Just wait and see," replied her mother, and just at that moment Beatrice cried, "I have something!" But oh, how they all did laugh when Beatrice brought forth a large white button!

"There were lots of things to be found, though. There was a little ring with a blue stone in it, a bright silver thimble, a little gold heart, a tiny silver pig and a wee wax doll.

"And such fun as they all had! But best of all the party was the strawberry shortcake which Beatrice's mother had made with the wild strawberries. Beatrice's little friends had picked."
