EDUCATORS SCRAP FOR HONORARY JOB

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—Electioneering was lively today between the supporters of Professor David Starr Jordan of Stanford university and Dr. D. B. Johnson of Lockhill, S. C., rival candidates for the presidency of the National Educational association, succeeding Dr. Joseph Swain, retiring.

The Johnson delegates at the convention professed to be assured of the votes from 25 states. Professor Jordan's friends were equally confident. The result really was still in doubt. O. M. Plummer of North Portland, Ore., addressing the convention's forenoon session, made a strong plea for better pay for teachers, predicting that eventually parents will become unwilling to entrust their children's education to underpaid and often inefficient instructors.

DIED.

CASHIN—At 342 Water street, the home of Mrs. Cashin's mother, Mrs. F. M. Crittenden, July 6, 1914, at 4:30 p. m., a new-born babe, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Cashin of San Francisco. Interment will be in the Odd Fellow's cemetery.

One may assume then, on the authority of George W. Perkins, that the Harvester company directorate was so good that no admixture whatever could make it any better. This constitutes a unique record.

COMMITTEE BALKS AT JONES AND WARBURG

Jones Connection with the Harvester Trust Makes Committee Afraid to Confirm Him as Member of Reserve Board.

Washington, July 7.—The senate committee on banking and currency showed strong signs today of balking at recommending that either Thomas Jones' or Paul Warburg's appointment to the federal reserve board be confirmed.

Administration supporters insisted that in the senate, as a whole, a majority favored confirmation. Whether or not they were correct with reference to the entire senate, their claim certainly seemed unfounded as to the committee, when it convened this forenoon and resumed consideration of the two names.

Jones' open expression of sympathy before the committee yesterday, with the policies of the harvester trust, of which he was a director, especially caused adverse comment.

The committee had also sent a telegram to Warburg, asking him to appear for examination concerning his relations with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Warburg, presented the prospective quiz so much that he insisted on withdrawing his name from the list of President Wilson's appointees to the board. He sent a telegram to the president, making his position so definite that the latter had nearly decided it was useless to press farther for his confirmation.

The Jones and Warburg appointments were personal with the president and both seemed doomed to failure, the former through Jones own presentation of his case before the committee on banking and currency and the latter through Warburg's disinclination to give the committee any information at all.

Even though Jones and Warburg should fail to confirm, it was stated on good authority Charles S. Hamlin, A. C. Miller and W. P. G. Harding, whose appointments the senate has already indorsed, and Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo and Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams, who are ex-officio members of the board, probably would meet an organize this week, as Secretary McAdoo wants to have the new system in operation by August 1.

A 25-FOOT SNAKE LOOSE.

South Bend, Wash., July 7.—A reward of $250 is offered today by the Yallow & McClelland Carnival company for the capture of a 25-foot boa constrictor that escaped from the show five days ago. Mothers are keeping their children indoors.

DIPLOMATS WONDER WHAT HE WILL SAY

George Fred Williams Will Probably Say Something, Having Quit His Job in Order to Say It.

London, July 7.—When the news appeared in the morning papers here today that George Fred Williams was resigning as United States minister to Greece in order to say freely what he thought about the Albanian situation there was a decided sensation in diplomatic circles.

While in his country's service at the Athens legation, Williams was quoted as saying he did not consider himself at liberty to speak his mind. He accordingly confined himself to these conservative comments:

"William of Wied, the new Albanian king, is a weak, incompetent man. He has no qualifications whatever for the position he occupies.

"All he has done for the Albanians has been to involve them in a bloody war, which there was no good reason for starting, which would not have been started but for the shocking manner in which they have been treated but which may now last for years.

"There positively are no real men in Durazzo, the Albanian capital, where William and his international followers reign, with the exception of the Dutch officers brought to lead the Albanian troops.

"The powers, by trying to force an outside ruler—and an inexorably undesirable one at that—upon the Albanians, are entirely to blame for the disorders which ensued.

"William has no more business to be king of Albania than he (George Fred Williams)."

This being George Fred Williams' idea of preserving a discreet diplomatic silence, what will he say when his resignation is accepted and he feels free to turn himself loose Diplomacy here wanted to know.
