

CARROLL ON MAT FOR KILLING ZOLLAR

Admits Marshal Wounded Him, but Insists His Partner Killed Zollar—Other Cases Up for Trial.

Ray Carroll, accused of the murder of Marshal John Zollar of Gervais, on December 4, of last year, was on trial for his life today for the second time in department No. 1 of the circuit court.

He has since been held by the police and was accused of the crime by the grand jury. The former trial resulted in a hung jury and the case was held over to be tried again.

The jury chosen to sit in this case is made up of the following: Edward Bascoe, David Herndon, W. M. Oldie, Thomas Kirk, Arthur Edwards, Elmer Deany, F. P. Townsend, T. J. Chesire, Frank Leslie, Henry De Guire, A. A. Grinde, and W. S. La Fore.

Charles Cladeck and Messrs. Schott and Smith, all held on charges of illegal liquor selling, were arraigned in the circuit court today and entered pleas of not guilty.

The trial of Elizabeth Mitchell against Benjamin Bowden, a suit for damages for a personal injury, was ended last night when the jury in the case returned a verdict for the defendant, Mr. Bowden.

The suit of J. G. Lais, J. M. Brown, E. J. Brown, M. Small, J. H. Brewer, A. F. Blakely and Sophia Blakely against the city of Silverton was up for trial in Judge Galloway's court today.

A temporary injunction was granted by Judge Galloway restraining the paving company from grading pending the issue of the suit.

It is the commonly accepted opinion that the timber of Oregon is owned very largely by wealthy men and is in large holdings and that but little of it is in the hands of the plain people.

FRUIT STANDARDIZATION FOLLOWS ORGANIZATION

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., July 10.—Standardization is as necessary as organization in solving the marketing problems of the Northwest fruit men.

"We must find out what standards are wanted by the trade, and then establish them accordingly. When once established, they must be rigidly maintained, so that dealers and consumers may know precisely what they will get when they put in an order.

"To secure the data upon which standards can be based, we have begun extensive research and survey work. We are following the prune at every stage of its journey from the tree to the table, to learn what standards are most acceptable and profitable.

"More work has been done in standardizing by-products than in standardizing fresh fruit, and the marketing is far more successful. The lesson of this is plain."

EAST AWAKENS TO CANAL POSSIBILITIES

Shipping Firms Prepare Vessels and in Boston One Company Will Expend $10,000,000 in Ships and Docks.

"The people in the East are more enthusiastic over the possibilities of the Panama Canal than the Western people," said E. C. King, of the Western Coasting Company, of Portland, yesterday.

"They are making more extensive preparations for the opening of the canal and counting on it as meaning an outlet, not only for the goods of Eastern manufacturers, but for getting the Pacific Coast products, particularly lumber, back there.

"While in Boston, for instance, I learned that the Emery Steamship Company and the Mystic Docks Company were planning to spend $10,000,000 in the construction of docks and ships to handle the shipments of lumber and other commodities between the Pacific Coast and Boston.

"The Emery vessels are to have a carrying capacity of 5,500,000 feet of lumber each. The engines are to be placed in the rear and the crew's quarters in the bow.

"While talking with one of the Butler brothers, the great tunnel and railroad builders of St. Paul, the feasibility of constructing a tunnel under the Willamette River at Portland was discussed at length.

"They think that a tunnel under the Willamette River would cost less than a good steel bridge.

"Insofar as I could judge while on my trip, the Middle West is the hardest hit in business," said Mr. King. "The farther East I went the better business seemed to be.

OWNERSHIP OF THE FORESTS OF OREGON

It is the commonly accepted opinion that the timber of Oregon is owned very largely by wealthy men and is in large holdings and that but little of it is in the hands of the plain people.

The privately owned stumpage of the state aggregates 9,543,645 acres and this vast area is in the hands of 17,603 owners.

The total number of timber owners have holdings of 640 acres or less. These holdings amount to 2,755,410 acres or 29 per cent of the total forest area of the State which is privately owned.

DIKE ROCKS OF APISHAPA QUADRANGLE, COLORADO

Geologists, especially petrographers, will be interested in a recent report (Professional Paper 90-C) by William Cross, describing the dike rocks of the Apishapa quadrangle, situated on the plains south of the Arkansas river, about 24 miles east of the Rocky mountain front, adjoins (on the northwest) the famous Spanish peaks intrusive area, and the rocks described are those of the outermost zone of that volcanic center.

TEXAS BREAKS ITS COAL MINING RECORD

Has Exceeded Production in 1913, With 2,429,144 Short Tons, Which Were Valued at $4,288,920.

The state of Texas mined 2,429,144 short tons of coal in 1913, valued at $4,288,920, according to E. W. Parker, of the United States geological survey. This production was nearly evenly divided between lignite and bituminous coal, with the balance slightly in favor of the latter.

The coal beds of Texas belong to three of the geological systems—the Carboniferous, Cretaceous, and the Tertiary. The Carboniferous coals are found in the northcentral part of the state, the principal mining operations being in Eastland, Palo Pinto, Brath, Wise, and Young counties.

The development of the lignite resources of Texas began in the closing decade of the nineteenth century, and except for a temporary setback in 1902 and 1903 after the discovery of petroleum near Beaumont, has progressed steadily with the development and growth in population.

The first record of the production of bituminous coal in Texas is contained in the volume Mineral Resources of the United States, 1884, which states that the quantity mined in that year was 125,000 tons.

POPCORN BUTTER UPHOLD

District Judge Bell, in a lengthy decision handed down yesterday, in Portland, held that a mixture of cottonseed oil and butter to be used in "buttered" popcorn was not a violation of the law.

The ruling was made in the trial of Mrs. E. G. Wilson, arrested by Market Inspector Evans on a charge of selling misbranded and adulterated popcorn. Mrs. Wilson's case was the first of the four popcorn dealers who were arrested. She was acquitted.

How the judge can find cotton seed oil mixed with butter a straight pure food substance is a mystery. Under the law though, this mixture can be used, providing the fact that the cotton seed oil is used in place of butter, is plainly printed on the package.

SOME AUTO ATOMS

For the young man who prefers a roadster stripped to resemble a racing car, there is now a windshield which fits over his shoulders, to be used in case of emergency.

There are now goggles with different colored glass, which the vanity girl may fit over the ears of her toy dog, to prevent his eyes from the wind.

Quite the most unusual innovation this season is a small hammock which may be swung from each of the side doors. It is for the comfort of baby.

CO-EDS TAKE 70-MILE HIKE TO NEWPORT

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, July 10.—To walk from Corvallis to Newport beach, a distance of 70 miles, in two days, was the unusual undertaking of three women students of the O. A. C. summer school.

The journey was undertaken for diversion, for the exercise and experience it would afford, and for the unequalled opportunity it gave to see and learn about the country passed over.

That they reached the beach in splendid condition is shown by the fact that they staid a 20-mile jaunt along the coast the following day and took a dip in the surf.

CALIFORNIA DRY IN NOVEMBER, THE CRY

Four Thousand Delegates to National Convention Grow Enthusiastic From Contact With Each Other.

Oakland, Cal., July 10.—"California dry in November" was the slogan today of the 4,000 delegates to the 27th annual convention of the California Endeavor Union, who assembled on mass at Piedmont pavilion to listen to a program of speech, song and patriotic exercises.

The young women carried two packs, made up of extra clothing and food for lunches. Miss Kaynot had not prepared for the journey and began it without a hat.
