TRAINLOAD OF GIRLS HERE FROM MONMOUTH

Under the Leadership of President Ackerman Visit the State Institutions and Have Fine Banquet at the Marion.

Bevies of pretty girls from the Oregon state normal school at Monmouth are in Salem. Two hundred and sixty strong they arrived in all their glory this morning at 8:45 on a four-coach special train.

The occasion is the annual visit of the students of the normal school. There are 476 students enrolled in the school and at the invitation of state officers they were given the privilege of gleaming knowledge and having the pleasure of actual insight into the arrangement and working of the widely known buildings.

At noon a six-course luncheon was served at the Marion. The afternoon was spent by the girls in shopping and just looking around. They leave at 4 p. m.

CAPTAIN LORENZEN GOES TO NEW STATION

Captain Lorenzen of the Salvation Army corps in Salem has received farewell orders, which will take effect August 1, when he will go to another post.

After a service in Salem of over two years, Captain Lorenzen has found an attachment for the Capital City and does not like to leave the beautiful location or the splendid people he has found here.

Monday the provincial officer comes here from Seattle for a final business meeting. At this time the captain expects to get all kinds of information concerning his new station.

which led to an order for the deportation of Correspondent Frederick L. Boalt of the Newspaper Enterprise association from Vera Cruz seemed likely here today.

In one of the articles he sent back to the United States Boalt made the statement that landing parties from the American fleet fired on unarmed and fleeing Mexicans at the time of the occupation of Vera Cruz.

There was a sensation following the opening of the hearing on this appeal yesterday afternoon, the correspondent asserting that he got his information from Ensign William Richardson and other officers on the battleship Arkansas.

Boalt somewhat swollen. As a result of this the case went into the records technically as "the navy vs. Richardson." It promised too, to develop into an inquiry into Richardson's actions.

"I'll demand a congressional investigation of the whole occupation of Vera Cruz," said Boalt today, "before I'll surrender my credentials."

The witnesses summoned to testify in the case included William G. Shephard of the United States, Kirk Simpson of the Associated Press and Robert Murray a file new word.

The story that the "Ley de fuga" was practiced by American marines here has often been repeated in Vera Cruz but the Boalt hearing started the first definite investigation of the matter.

John H. Albert, banker, George Rodgers, president of the Salem commercial club, and State Highway Engineer Bowley will go to Medford July 27 and 28 to attend the annual meeting of the Tri-State Pacific Coast Good Roads association.

The official call and invitation has been received in Salem and a large delegation is expected to attend from here.

George Rodgers will give the response in behalf of the state. Topics for the promotion and advancement of good roads will be discussed by speakers of prominence from the states of Oregon, California and Washington.

F. M. Simon, the popular young clerk and window decorator at the Salem Hardware Co., has departed for a short vacation at the seashore, accompanied by P. E. Young, a promising young banker of Independence. It is intimated that something besides vacation interests Mr. Simon at the beach, and rice and old shoes may be in season upon his return.

Miss McPherson, of the Washington state library at Olympia, and Mrs. Ellis, president of the Women's Federated Clubs of Washington, were in Salem visiting the Oregon state library Wednesday and Thursday. It was on account of the splendid work of the Oregon library and its completeness that brought the Washington women here to look it over and observe the methods in working it.

Hoboes set fire to a hay field south of the Southern Pacific depot yesterday.

afternoon and it was only after a 8. P. engine had pumped water on it for several hours that the blaze was quenched. It is reported that the hoboes were angry at the treatment accorded them by the Salem police.

There will be a prohibition cartoonist, and speaker in Salem in a short time to help along the "dry" campaign. His name is Frank Reagan, and he is said to have excellent ability in making his chalk talk. "The Fool Taxpayer" is one of his lectures.

Cork carpet is being laid on the floor of the county recorder's office. At present the office is all disarranged but when the carpet is laid everything will be as neat as a new pin. County recorder Aufrance says that the floor-covering is a much-needed improvement.

A gang of men is at work on South Commercial and Mill concerning the street intersection. This will make the concrete complete at the end of the bridge and on the Oregon Electric track. It is a bit of work that has been needed for some time and one that will be appreciated by autoists who have gotten many an unexpected bump at that point.

B. T. Kumler and L. D. Waring, delegates from the Salem branch of the State Letter Carriers' association, went to McMinnville today to take part in the annual convention of the association. An auto truck took the remainder of the letter carriers. Rev. George Granau, formerly a pastor of the Salem First Methodist church, who is a leader in the Lord's Day Alliance movement, will be a speaker. He is engaged in securing rest on the Sabbath day for the letter carriers of the United States.

Stop! Before you start for the beach or the mountains, or anywhere else on your summer vacation, just answer this question: Is your home insured? Is it insured in a good company? If you can't say "yes" to both of these questions, it's up to you to see us at once and have it insured in one of the world's best companies. Then, guarded against worry and protected against possible loss, you can enjoy the trip. Act today. Lafler & Hollinger, a-8 Hubbard building.

Fred Biglow, of Saakatoon, Sask., has written the chief of police of Salem for a job on the police force. He says he wants to come to Salem to live and asks to know if there is a vacancy on the force. Had he known that the force was practically all vacancy, it is believed he would not have wasted paper, ink and a stamp in writing. Mr. Biglow says he is a six-footer, weight 182 pounds, and can manage refractory or untamed automobiles. He says he has had experience in driving police patrol wagons, but as Salem has none it is probable that Chief Sheдек will answer and say that there are about 10 vacancies on the force, with little chance, however, of ever seeing them filled.

Try our high-grade coffees. We are so particular about their quality that our customers are particular to insist on getting them all the time. L. M. Boggs & Co.

William Porter, a former waiter in the White House restaurant, was arrested this morning by Constable Cooper on a charge of giving intoxicating liquor, beer, to a person within the corporate limits of the city. Police Matron Lynch is the private prosecutor. The hearing is set for Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The memory of that Sunday dinner will linger long after the date is forgotten if you order your groceries of Spurling tonight, 311 North Commercial.

Since the state house mail has assumed such proportions that it is impossible for one man to handle all of it at one time, Secretary of State Ben Hukestein has asked Postmaster August Taylor for an assistant to help carry the mail. Mr. Hukestein says that it is possible that the government will put on an extra man to help handle the state mail. He will take the matter up with the postoffice department.

On your way to Silver Creek Falls stop at the Capital Confectionery, 19th and State, for picnic lunch materials. We carry a complete assortment.

Chief of Police Sheдек this morning received 1,000 copies of the motor vehicle ordinance as passed by the Salem council last Monday night. The regulations will be distributed in the various garages of the city. The first paragraph defines what is a "motor vehicle" and is taken from the 1911 session laws, chapter 174. It reads as follows: "Every moving thing except railroad and street cars upon the streets, roads and highways of the state, moved by power, shall be a 'vehicle' under the terms of this act. The term 'motor vehicle' as used in this act, except where otherwise expressly provided, shall include all vehicles propelled by any power other than muscular power." The pamphlet contains the laws of the road and the special provisions obtained by the Salem council.

The Salem Electric Co. had excellent results from its demonstration of its electric ranges during the week at 127 North High street. Several of these stoves have been installed, and more will be placed during the summer.

Residents living in the vicinity of Fayetteville, a station on the Oregon railroad and street cars upon the streets, roads and highways of the state, moved by power, shall be a 'vehicle' under the terms of this act. The term 'motor vehicle' as used in this act, except where otherwise expressly provided, shall include all vehicles propelled by any power other than muscular power." The pamphlet contains the laws of the road and the special provisions obtained by the Salem council.

Children's Sidewalk Sulkies. Just the thing for that trip to the coast. 95c special. Buren & Hamilton.

The Southern Pacific Railroad company informed the railroad commission this morning that they would now sell through tickets from points on the S. P. to all points on the line on the Portland, Eugene and Astoria. It happens that one of the railroad commissioners recently wished to go to Monroe, a station south of Corvallis, from this city, and was obliged to purchase a ticket from Salem to Corvallis, and another from Corvallis to Monroe. His complaint resulted in the new order by the railroad company.

On the beach the baby will enjoy one of our sidewalk sulkies; 95c special. Buren & Hamilton.

G. R. Weigelt, who was arrested early this week on a charge of assault with intent to kill R. C. Taylor and F. O. Taylor, was given a hearing this morning before Judge Webster and discharged on account of lack of evidence to hold him. Weigelt was accused of attempting to kill the two boys by shooting them with a firearm loaded with powder and ball. Judge Webster was of the opinion that he ought to have been indicted for the poor aim he took when he did the shooting.

Hartmann trunks are the standard of quality in baggage. Special mid-summer prices now prevail. Buren & Hamilton.

Forgetting that slogans for candidates are permissible only on the ballot for primary elections, or believing, perhaps, that he needs one, Earl Fisher today wrote to Secretary of State Olcott and sent in his slogan to follow his name on the official ballot. Mr. Fisher was defeated for the republican nomination for representative from the fifteenth district, which is the county of Washington, but was chosen by the Progressives. He will run on the Progressive ticket, but wishes after his name on the ballot might appear the immortal plea for "Lower Taxes, Tax-cut car fare, Spend road tax where levied. Dig the tunnel."

Special—Ladies' straw suitcases, $1.49. Buren & Hamilton.

George P. Fox, the well known salesman with Buren & Hamilton, is expected home next Monday from an outing with his family on Puget Sound. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bechtel left today for an outing of several weeks at Newport.
